FOOTWEAR FACTS.

QUALITY counts in FOOTWEAR as well as in every OTHER commodity. It is NOT, however, the LUCK of every MAN to be able to accurately DETERMINE the VALUE of a Boot and to APPORTION to a nicety the QUESTIONS of Durability, Style, Comfort, Appearance, and PRICE of one BOOT compared with ANOTHER.

To CORRECTLY gauge the VALUE of a Boot, estimate its WEARING qualities, judge its POINTS, and DISCRIMINATE against FAULTY material or WORKMANSHIP calls for the KNOWLEDGE of the EXPERT. And WE ARE EXPERTS. It is OUR business to sell NONE but the BEST of every GRADE.

If the DEMAND be for a HALF-GUINEA BOOT, we supply the BEST 10/6 Boot that can be bought in the land; likewise if OUR PATRONS call for FOOTWEAR at THIRTY SHILLINGS we OFFER VALUE that CANNOT BE OBTAINED ELSEWHERE.

TO-DAY we quote MEN'S FOOTWEAR of the HIGHEST Grade, made by ENGLISH and AMERICAN Boot Manufacturers of RENOWN. EXCELLENCE and ECONOMY are ASSURED by

ANTHONY HORDERNS'

SUCCESS

has crowned our efforts in handling the FERRO Engines to such an extent that we have relinquished the other departments of our business, and shall in future handle FERRO Engines only, and their duplicate parts, such as Clutches, Magnetos, Coils, Propellers, etc. We have made arrangements to hold in Sydney a stock of upwards of 100 ENGINES, and have nearly that number at the present time. We realise that this number will be necessary, owing to the enormous increase in our sales. We have turned our depot at 53 Pitt-street into a Showroom for the marine engines, and taken a Warehouse at McClelland-place, George-street (opposite Anthony Horderns') for our Agricultural Engines. We hold stocks of the following:

3 h.p.	One Cylinder.
4 h.p.	One Cylinder.
5½ h.p.	One Cylinder.
7½ h.p.	One Cylinder.
8 h.p.	Two Cylinders.
11 h.p.	Two Cylinders.
15 h.p.	Two Cylinders.
12 h.p.	Three Cylinders.
17 h.p.	Three Cylinders.

And can supply any kind of outfit required. The sales of FERRO Engines are by far the LARGEST IN THE WORLD. There must be a REASON for this. The most essential points in a marine engine are:—RELIABILITY, POWER, and ECONOMY. These points will be found in the FERRO to a very marked extent, combined with many exclusive features not found in ANY OTHER ENGINE. May we send you a Catalogue, or have the pleasure of seeing you at our showroom? If PRICE is a consideration with you, the FERRO scores heavily on this point. Sole Agents: HALL BROS., 53 PITT-ST, Sydney, near Circular Quay; and McClelland-place, opposite Anthony Horderns'.

FROM AUSTRALIA TO AUSTRALIA.

Direct from FACTORY to YOU. No need to dicker with "JOBBERS."

Direct from AUSTRALIA to AUSTRALIA. No need to bother about dealing with factories thousands of miles away.

Direct Supply of DUPLICATE PARTS. No need to wonder whether the "Jobber" really DOES carry full supplies of ALL parts (including Cylinders, Engine beds, etc.). No need to lay your Engine up because a broken part has to be got from America.

Direct GUARANTEE. We Guarantee our Engines for FIVE YEARS, and WE are HERE to back up our Guarantee with our great Works at Woolwich.

Who are likeliest to be able to give you the BEST VALUE: the folks who have to do business through JOBBERS or we who DEAL WITH YOU DIRECT.

When you want an Oil Engine, therefore, deal direct with us, the MAKERS. We can give you a VERY WIDE RANGE OF CHOICE as to TYPES and POWERS—that is to say, we can supply your needs ACCURATELY, a thing often very difficult with the JOBBER, who has only one type of Engine, and perhaps only a limited stock on hand.

FIFTH WEEK.

"Sometimes I think that life is like the long, scrambling walks we girls used to take over the moors and up the fells. It would have been dangerous to go alone, you know, but as long as we kept together it was all right. We used to tumble down sometimes, but we didn't stay down. We scrambled up, and went on again. If a girl fell into a swamp, we just pulled her out, and wiped the mud off. The mists were pretty bad sometimes, but we could always hear each other's voices, and keep in touch. We used to tear our clothes, and graze our knees, and scratch our hands, but SOONER OR LATER WE ALL GOT TO THE TOP."

THE LAST DROP OF WATER. A Drama of great strength. In it there is a perfect blending of excitement and pathos. Received with enthusiasm. THE LAST DROP OF WATER.

WAR!!! WAR!!! WAR!!!

While Tripoli is ringing with the gunfire of the Italians and Turks, more than ordinary topical interest attaches to two of our pictures. They are "The Modern School of Italian Cavalry" and "The Recent Big French Naval Review." The former graphically portrays the marvellous feats of horsemanship performed by the Italian soldiers. In the latter you see the great ironclads cleaving through the water at top speed, while the speedy torpedo-boat destroyers dart hither and thither through the lines.

Then there are such varied and entertaining subjects as "THE TRAPPER'S FIVE-DOLLAR BILL," A Charming Domestic Story of the American Backwoods.

THE STUMBLING BLOCK, showing how a lover had to ingratiate himself with a pet dog in order to marry the girl of his heart.

AN AMERICAN PRESIDENT SAID:—

"YOU CAN FOOL SOME OF THE PEOPLE ALL THE TIME, YOU CAN FOOL ALL THE PEOPLE SOME OF THE TIME, BUT YOU CAN'T FOOL ALL THE PEOPLE ALL THE TIME."

That's it. . . . . We ourselves take every sort of good care not to fool any of the people any of the time, for the simple reason that, if we fool them, we lose them!

We want to say to you, candidly and conscientiously, that OUR ADVERTISEMENTS ARE MEANT TO BE AN ACCURATE GUIDE TO WHAT YOU WILL RECEIVE AT OUR STUDIOS. And we want you to grasp this significant fact that the regular offers of other studios, ranging from 15s to 20s, are daily being given by us at

PRICES 25 PER CENT. LOWER,

while the quality is PRECISELY THE SAME in every particular.

The most convincing proof of our moderate tariff is found in our

CHAPTER VII.

THE RETURN OF THE CULPRITS.

After tea Mrs. Lisle and her husband, noting the improvement in the weather, went for a stroll. It was almost time for table d'hote when they returned, a good deal wind-buffeted and longing for a change into easy slippers, a good meal, and a rest.

Cissie Rusper, who was watching for them in the glass-walled salon, ran out into the passage to intercept them.

"Gaenor's off again," she said eagerly, under her breath.

Mrs. Lisle stopped short. Her face expressed keen mortification. Since Peter came to Porz Gwenn she had been nursing a small, sickly hope. It fainted within her at Cissie's news.

"My dear, it isn't dinner-time yet, and I knew she was out for a walk——"

"The dinner-bell has just rung, and she has been out since a quarter-past one."

"Perhaps Ronnie is with her?"

"Oh no, Mr. Garstin is with her," said Cissie primly, taking off her mother's waterproof as she spoke.

"Mr. Garstin is with her? Oh, Cissie, why did you give me such a fright? If he is with her, she is all right. They may be in any minute. Has Ronnie come back?"

"Oh yes, he's been in over an hour. Well, mamma, you may be content, but Fred and I think it a great pity that she should be starting her old ways again as soon as ever a young man appears on the horizon."

"Hold your tongue, Cissie," said her father, red with annoyance; "that is not the way to speak of your sister, and she has done nothing to deserve it."

"Did you know she was going out with Mr. Garstin?" asked her mother.

"Yes," Cissie had to admit. "She came to our room and asked if we would go with them. I understood they were going to some point on the coast to look at the waves. We didn't feel inclined to go; it was raining cats and dogs, and blowing a gale."

"And Ronnie was out, so she had to go with Mr. Garstin, or stay at home," said Mr. Lisle quite snappily. "Since you are so anxious about Gae's conduct, you might make some attempt to look after her, I think, Cissie."

"Oh, if you and mother are content, it is no business of mine," retorted Cissie, vexed; and turning away, she walked into the salle a manger.

There was a pause, while the two parents looked at one another.

"In a place like this—so unceremonious—there can be no harm in a walk together," said Mrs. Lisle slowly.

"To tell you the truth, I am both glad and surprised to hear she went. She has not seemed to me to be encouraging him at all," replied her husband.

"Ah, my dear," sighed the mother, "neither did she ever seem to be in the other case. You never can tell what Gae is intending, or thinking about."

"Take care," he said testily, "you will not remember to call her Nora."

They descended, a few minutes later, to dine; and as the courses passed round they grew fidgety. When dinner was over, they were anxious. Mrs. Lisle felt irritable, because the attitude of the two Euspers was a silent embodiment of "I told you so."

"You might go out and stroll along the coast, Ronnie," pleaded the mother, "and see if you meet them coming back."

"That's all right, mums, but which way? Where would they be likely to go?"

The owner of the hotel was summoned, and asked where anybody who really wanted to see waves would be likely to go. He said there was hardly any doubt that they had gone to Plouganan. That lay to the east, along the coast, past Bugellez—a long way, but the rocks were magnificent when you got there."

"That is what has happened," said Ronald. They did not know how far they were going, and got tempted on and on. You may depend they are hurrying back for all they are worth. You see the mischief of this place is that you could not hire a carriage, however hard you tried, I suppose."

The landlord, appealed to, had great doubts of any vehicle being procurable at Plouganan to drive to Porz Gwenn late in the evening. To ease his mother's apprehensions, Ronald suggested exploring in that direction, but the landlord was doubtful. There were two ways of reaching Bugellez. In the shorter, you followed the cliff-path for a couple of miles—but it would be difficult walking in this wild weather. He had heard that the sea was halfway up the cliff at high tide this morning. The other route, by which they would probably return, was all the way round by the railway station at Penellik. They might get a trap when they reached the Gare. Finally Ronald went off along the village, and up the hill as far as the semaphore in a direction exactly opposite to the Ile de l'Abbaye. The rain was descending in sheets, and he met neither pedestrian nor carriage. He returned, dog-tired, since his Lannion excursion had been by no means an easy one, expecting to find that the truants had meanwhile arrived home by way of the cliff-path. But they had not.

He then counselled inaction. Garstin, he represented, was a thoroughly capable fellow, to whom they had all during the last week or two entrusted themselves for guidance. There was no doubt of his bringing Gae safe home; and as nobody knew where they had gone it was idle to wander about in the night in search of them.

Everybody agreed as to the wisdom of these arguments; and Ronald, wet and fagged, went off to bed. The hours passed, and no news came. At midnight they were still up and watching. About half an hour later, the landlord came to say that a woman in the village thought she saw, just as dusk was falling, a fire or blaze, out upon the Ile de l'Abbaye. She said it only lasted about ten minutes, but that was probably because the rain put it out. If this witness was correct, it meant that the lady and gentleman had got cut off by the tide. But he did not counsel the sending out of a boat, since in such a sea the landing would be difficult; it would be a longish matter to rouse Daniel and get him off at this time of night, and in less than two hours the tide would be low enough for them to walk off themselves.

Everybody caught at this suggestion as accounting satisfactorily for the non-appearance of the two defaulters.

Cissie Rusper tried to conceal her triumph, and Mr. and Mrs. Lisle seemed panic-stricken. However, they took all measures to ensure the warding off of chills which might result from such exposure to what Dr. Rusper called the fury of the elements. The landlord prepared hot soup and lit a fire; and, as soon as it seemed likely that the tide was low enough for the crossing to be made Mr. Lisle and his son-in-law, guided by a native, set out for the sands, to see if they could descry any signs of the missing pair.

The faint beginnings of dawn were outlining the rocks and waves dark against a background a shade less black, when they saw something move, at the opposite end of the shingle causeway which stretches from the beach to the Ile des Femmes. They could not make out what it was—it hardly seemed the shape of a human figure—but they shouted as loud as they could. The figure paused in its advance, and after a moment answered the shout. It then continued to come forward, but so slowly that they were consumed with impatience. Suddenly Dr. Rusper cried, "He is carrying her—Garstin has got her in his arms."

"She is dead," groaned Mr. Lisle. "Good God. How often she has threatened it. But her mother and I would never believe that it was more than hysterical nonsense. She has thrown herself into the sea, and he is bringing her dead body. Merciful heaven. Perhaps Craven will be satisfied now."

"Here," said Dr. Rusper, "take the lantern. I will go on with this man and help him. Venez, Venez," he said, beckoning the Breton peasant to accompany him.

They stepped out upon the shingle, buffeted by wind and spray, their feet sinking into the crunchy mass. When Garstin saw them approaching, he stopped and lowered the burthen he carried.

The doctor quickened his steps. "That you, Garstin?" he called eagerly, as he drew near.

"Yes. It is us," replied Peter, in a voice which he made audible only with an effort.

"Why, bless me, what's—what's the matter?" cried Rusper.

"Miss Lisle has had an accident," replied Peter, with a queer listlessness.

Gaenor was sitting on the shingle at his feet, wholly oblivious of appearances, with her head resting against his leg. But she was conscious. She lifted her wet, wan face, and, as the light of the lantern fell upon it, Peter, in the midst of his fatigue, thought he had never seen anything so wonderful as that small face, anything so poignant as its expression.

"Have you got a man there?" he asked. "If so, join arms, and make a chair to carry her. I'm—I'm about done."

"I should think so," cried Rusper; stooping to stare into his sister-in-law's face. "You're not dead, then, Nora?"

"Unfortunately, no," was the weak and faltering answer. "Get me home somehow, Fred, for pity sake."

"I have some brandy," said the doctor, his professional instinct coming to the rescue. "Better give her a dose—eh?"

"Please. I should be glad of some, too," admitted Peter.

Mr. Lisle, from the shore, began to cry impatient questions as to why they delayed. Peter took the cup from Rusper's hand, and stooping, gave the girl a drink as though ministering to a sick child. Then he drank himself; and, tired out as he was, a thrill shot through him as he put his lips where hers had been.

"An accident, eh?" said Fred. "A slip over the cliffs, wasn't it?"

Peter disliked both tone and question.

"Not exactly," replied he, with coldness and some offence. Dr. Rusper glanced keenly at him, and made up his mind that there was something to hide—that a straightforward version of the accident would not be given. "Miss Lisle has sprained her ankle," Peter added. "It is bound up, and your best plan will be to get her home, first of all, before you touch it."

This was dictatorial, but the doctor bore it meekly—for the present. Peter turned to the Breton, and made him understand what was required of him. The doctor and he clapsed hands, and Peter once more lifted the small, forlorn figure into his arms with grave, dispassionate care, and seated her upon the seat so formed, an arm round each man's neck. Then the small procession tramped slowly to the shore.

"Nora, is that you?" cried her father's voice, with a note in it which Peter resented—a note of cold anger.

Gaenor did not reply. She was, as one says, at the end of her tether.

"She is not dead?" he cried out sharply, and at that she answered, "Oh, no, papa. Please get me home first. I have sprained my ankle."

"Well, upon my word," he exclaimed in deep displeasure, as he turned and followed the bearers along the road to the hotel. "I wonder what next. Mr. Garstin, I look to you for an explanation."

"Do you?" said Peter wearily. "Well, I think Miss Lisle can do the explaining. We allowed plenty of time to escape the tide, but her accident unavoidably delayed us. I shall be happy to go more fully into our movements to-morrow. But now, if you will excuse me, I think I will take myself off to bed."

"Certainly, certainly. You must be very tired."

"And hungry," admitted Peter. "But that is soon mended. It is fortunate that you have a doctor with you, as there is no English doctor within miles of this place."

"It is indeed. May I just ask, before we part, how my daughter came to sprain her ankle?"

"Oh, she just slipped—and her foot went into a hole," said Peter vaguely; and to Mr. Lisle, as well as to his son-in-law, his manner conveyed the impression that he was making up a tale. They both felt certain that Gaenor had attempted suicide. Her clothing was indeed wet enough to warrant the idea that she had been in the water; for they had been covered with spray in their eagerness to get across the channel before the waves had left it dry. He had no time to inquire further, for at the moment they reached the hotel, where Mrs. Lisle and Cissie were at the window awaiting them; and Peter, with a hurried excuse, went off to his own quarters to knock up Madame Tissot and persuade her to give him hot drinks and a bath.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

SCIENCE AND THE CRIMINAL.

One of the hardest things to explain in human nature is the curious fascination which crime possesses for hte ordinary person. Science has brought to the detection of crime a hundred things never dreamed of in Bill Sykes' philosophy. The modern detective is not the intrepid, impassive sleuth hound, but the mild bespectacled scientist, peering through a microscope. In "Science and the Criminal" Mr. C. Ainsworth Mitchell has written a most interesting book, which describes the part played by the laboratory in combating the evildoer, and the general impression conveyed is that in the light of recent knowledge Sherlock Holmes' methods are those of a clever amateur, with a taste for criminology. Mr. Mitchell takes some of the means by which a criminal's career is so severely handicapped, and shows their actual achievements as recorded in various parts of the world. He confines himself rigidly to fact, and yet throughout his pages are things which the most daring romancer would hesitate to set down.

Mr. Mitchell reminds us that while the advantage conferred by these new scientific discoveries is usually on the side of the lawmaker, it is not invariably so. Sometimes the law-breaker profits almost as much. The author gives no specific instances, but they readily occur to anyone. Quicker means of travel have made escape easier; electric telegraphs may make it more difficult, but they have also created the new industry, especially in America, of "wire milking," in which operators intercept messages, and put their knowledge to advantage. Moreover, electricity has enabled the safe-breaker to do his work quickly and expeditiously. However, the bulk of the advantage is on the side of law and order, as Mr. Mitchell's pages show, and whatever be said of the conservatism of the police they are not slow to avail themselves of new discoveries in this direction. It is not generally known that the telegraph was commercially a failure until, in 1845, public attention was drawn to its uses by the arrest of Taswell, the Quaker murderer, whose description had been wired to London ahead of his train. The employment of wireless in connection with the Crippen case is too fresh in people's memory to require repetition, and now that the Thorn-Baker system makes it possible to telegraph a description of the person wanted along with a portrait, many will be driven to the conclusion that honesty is the best policy.

Mr. Mitchell has interesting chapters on identification. Personal identification is proverbially unsatisfactory. Even mothers fail to identify their sons, or vice versa, as in the Tichborne case, where Lady Tichborne declared Orton to be her son by his "ears, so like his uncle's." Mr. Mitchell holds that the only reliable method is by Bertillon's anthropometric, or by Galton's finger-print system. Both of these methods are not absolutely infallible, but, as the possibility of error in the latter is only 1 in 64 millions, the chances of injustice are small. Both systems are permanent, and are valid after any lapse of time. It is curious to think that when Jezebel was thrown from the upper window, and the dogs devoured all but the skull, the palms of her hands, and the soles of the feet, so that no man might say, "This is Jezebel," just those very parts were spared which were the only certain proofs of her identity.

Mr. Mitchell has much to say about the vexed question of identification by handwriting, and tells some good stories of unwary experts entrapped by astute counsel. Both the enthusiasm for and the bitterness against such evidence is due to a misapprehension of its nature. The expert is neither a charlatan nor a magician. "His true function," says the author, "is to act as a signpost to the jury. His observation has been trained to notice minute points of resemblance and difference, and he is thus in a position to point out in what respect and to what extent two handwritings resemble one another or differ, and it is then for the jury to draw their own conclusions from the facts laid before them."

A more decisive kind of evidence is that of blood. It is a comparatively recent discovery that the blood of animals, including man, differs in respect of the size, shape, and number of the corpuscles, and this more than any other single piece of knowledge has been effective in saving the innocent from the gallows, and bringing the guilty to punishment. Less thrilling but equally interesting are the author's chapters on such things, as "Forged Documents," "Sympathetic Inks," "Food Adulteration," and the like. Science has a wide net that can catch both the bloodthirsty murderer and the little grocer who puts sand into the sugar. Moreover, though his subject is grim, the author enlivens it at times with the humorous. For instance, there is the victim of assault, who positively identified his assailant by the flash produced by the blow upon his eye! And there is the handwriting expert, whose cross-examination by opposing counsel began, "Where's the dog?" "What dog?" said the bewildered witness. "The dog which the Judge at the last Assizes said he would not hang upon your evidence."

The author has a purpose in this book beyond giving us interesting stories. He makes two suggestions, in view of the fact that complicated scientific questions play such a large part in the detection of crime and in criminal trials. He thinks that this should be officially recognised, and that men of scientific attainment should be encouraged to join the force without the drudgery at present necessary for promotion, and with better inducements in the way of pay. As it is, detectives graduate from ordinary police work, and the qualities, admirable though they be, that go to directing traffic, or running a hooligan in, are not the best preparation for catching the modern criminal. The other suggestion is that, in view of the importance of scientific evidence in criminal trials to-day, the defence should be given scientific assistance. The Crown has such witnesses, and the prosecuting counsel has an expert at his elbow to prompt him. The prisoner can rarely afford such aids, and if he is to be convicted as a result of such evidence, it is only fair that he should be given the opportunity of combating what is often, after all, a matter of scientific opinion. Even experts may make mistakes, and injustice must often have been done as a result of a wrong conclusion.

TALK OF THE TOWN.

Once upon a time the light essay flourished in England as nowhere else. The most eminent practitioners of letters did not disdain to write of men and things in this form, of which it has been said, "Like X's sauce, it will go with anything." The short essay may deal with matters grave or gay, the fall of nations or of prices, the degeneration of manners or of cooking. All is fish to the essayist's capacious net as spread by Thackeray, Lamb, and Stevenson. But nowadays people despise the essay. If an author has something to say on such subjects he expands it into a volume. If he has nothing at all to say he writes a novel. Generally speaking, the essay is now confined to literary criticism, and even in this department it is constantly endeavouring to spread its wings and become a monograph.

Of course, there are a few exceptions. G. S. Street, Lucas, and Max Beerbohm still keep the flag flying, and last, but not least, Mrs. John Lane, whose "Talk of the Town" has just appeared. Mrs. Lane possesses many of the qualities that go to make a successful essayist. She has the light touch and wit, and the gift of epigram; also she remembers that the latter must not be used to excess, or, like horse-radish, it will make our eyes water instead of our mouth. Some of her essays deal with old subjects, as, for instance, "The Tyranny of Clothes," "Men's Wrongs," "The London 'Bus," but she generally finds something fresh to say, or, at any rate, puts new wine into the old bottles without the traditional disastrous results. The book teems with good things. "That interview in the Garden of Eden, in which Adam, though the first man, emphatically proved that he was not the first gentleman." And her definition of subconsciousness as "the precious faculty bestowed on a privileged few of hearing the sermon and at the same time of studying the hats" tells us as much as many more pretentious explanations. However, Mrs. Lane is not always trying to be smart. Her book has wisdom as well as wit. "The Anglo-Saxon has no talent for cheap pleasure. And to be easily and cheaply amused is only second as a factor in the welfare of a nation to being well and cheaply educated. Neither the English nor the Americans realise the value of innocent and inexpensive pleasure as a safeguard for the people. Give people wholesome amusements cheap, and it will protect them even against intemperance." Or, again, this might be said of other people than the one in question: "The American who goes abroad never returns exactly the same. His outlook has immeasurably broadened, and though he may believe more than ever in his national eagle, he will find that there are other formidable heraldic birds and beasts on the earth besides that great bird who spreads his wings across the national shield, and occasionally favours the world with an ear-splitting shriek. It gives the patriotic American a wrong estimate of value if he only hears his own eagle scream, and it is necessary for him to realise the screams and roars of Europe." However, if one commences to quote from this excellent book there would be no stopping. People are recommended to read it for themselves.

THE BUSH BOY'S BOOK.

Since the origin of the Boy Scout movement there have been numerous books which purported to teach boys bushcraft, country lore, and the like. Some of them have consisted entirely of information already possessed by every self-respecting youth. In others the bushcraft has smelled so much of the lamp that the audience have looked upon it with scorn and suspicion. No objections of this nature can be made against Donald Macdonald's "Buh Boys' Book," for not only is it complete and satisfactory, but it is by far the best thing of the kind we remember to have read. Mr. Macdonald is eminently qualified to write such a book. He is one of the most experienced students of nature we have in Australia; he has roughed it in various parts of the world, including South Africa during the war; and he has the gift of forcible yet simple expression, and says what he means in a straightforward way. The result is an admirable book, which covers every contingency that one can imagine arising in the bush. There are chapters on camps, cooking, shooting (with some valuable hints of what not to do with a gun), fishing, finding the way, trapping, and all sorts of things besides. The ordinary boy, whatever his particular tastes, will find this a sort of vade mecum. A useful feature of the book is that when Mr. Macdonald recommends a thing he gives his reasons, with the result that a sensible person will follow his advice. Another point is that whenever his explanation is at all difficult, he appends a picture or diagram, which makes it clear.

The author in his modest preface says: "This is intended to be simply a handy book for boys. It deals with subjects which, from experience, I think likely to interest boys." It is certainly a book that every boy should possess, and under "boy" is included all those whose heart is still young. (Published by Sydney J. Endicott, of Melbourne.)

AN AUSTRALIAN NOVEL.

In "Jonah," Mr. Louis Stone has given us an excellent novel. He has taken a phase of Australian life which has been rather neglected by local writers, and laid his setting in the slums of Sydney of a few years ago. Jonah, the deformed hero, is a sort of Napoleon of the gutter, the leader of a "push" in Waterloo, who has within him great possibilities. At first he is represented as an unsocial, unmoral outlaw, superior to his fellows only in force of character and enterprise, but later the half understood promptings of the paternal instinct lead him to marry the mother of his child, and turn him to honest work. Fortune and his own native abilities raise him higher and higher, but his wife cannot rise with him, and yearns for the gutter out of which she was lifted. Jonah turns for consolation elsewhere, but even here he is doomed to disappointment, for the object of his affections is selfish and mercenary, and proves to be in effect a murderess, as she has supplied his drunkard wife with liquor. So Jonah is left, his success turned to dust and ashes, destined never to gain his heart's desire.

However, our interest in the plot is not confined to Jonah's career. Mr. Stone knows his subject, and writes with humour and observation, and a great deal of kindliness. His theme is often squalid, and the surroundings often repellant, but the author, without idealising, does not lay undue insistence on the unpleasant. There is the delightful idyll of Pinkey, factory girl, and "Chook," once leader of a push, whose savage soul is transfigured and tamed by a passion cleaner and sweeter than any he ever dreamed of, and who becomes a respectable, if somewhat bellicose, greengrocer. Then there is Mrs. Yabsley, the indomitable and great-hearted washerwoman who shares her good fortune with her neighbours, and submits to their imposition with open eyes out of sheer generosity. There is Paasch, the old German cobbler fiddler, broken by Jonah's ruthless progress; Mrs. Grimes, the wife of a drunken ex-bank manager, who buries her refinement and her shame in the slums; Mrs. Partridge, Pinkey's idle and greedy step-mother, and a host of others. Mr. Stone will have no mere lay figures, and the smallest character in his pages has a distinct individuality. The author is to be congratulated on this novel, which is a valuable and original contribution to Australian fiction. (Published by Methuen and Co.)

LAND SETTLEMENT FOR SOLDIERS.

The British Army system produces an excellent fighting force, but economically it is wasteful. Voluntary enlistment as compared with conscription necessitates a longer period of service; fewer recruits join, so their terms must be lengthened, and this in itself is a severe handicap to the soldier when he forsakes military warfare for industrial. In Germany, for instance, practically everyone is under the same disadvantage, and no one is left behind in the race on this account. In England the better soldier a man is the more does it count against him when he leaves the colours. The ordinary time-expired man comes into the market no longer a youth, and without a trade, which is bad. If he has been efficient enough to win promotion he comes into the market some years later, possibly with a wife and family, which is infinitely worse. Of course there are societies which endeavour to secure employment for the old soldier; but their efforts are but a drop in the bucket, and the majority of time-expired men, especially when they have ceased to be in the reserve, go to swell the ranks of the unemployed or the casually employed. It is too generally the case that the army takes a man, uses the best years of his life, and then turns him adrift with a small pension and less chance of increasing it.

This problem has vexed many, and Colonel Henry Pilkington, in his book "Land Settlement for Soldiers," suggests a possible solution, namely, to teach them to beat their bayonets into plough shares, and put them on the land. The idea, of course, is by no means new. Even in Roman days successful generals used to demand allotments for their veterans, who usually sold them at the first opportunity. But Colonel Pilkington goes into the question very thoroughly, examines modern economic conditions, answers certain objections, and submits a scheme by which he thinks the plan may be rendered practicable.

He starts with two incontrovertible facts. On the one side there is a body of men, generally speaking of under middle age, sharpened mentally by their training, and in good physical condition. On the other, England, with decaying agriculture, and the dominions where the tendency to migration to the towns is less marked, but marked. He would solve both problems at once by equipping the soldier with agricultural knowledge during his actual period of service; keeping him in groups of holdings in the United Kingdom while in the reserve, and finally establishing him in similar settlements in the overseas dominions. Certainly Colonel Pilkington makes out a plausible case in this book. He admits that there are limitations to the idea, but points out that even if attempted upon a small scale it should bear fruit. "I have not suggested," he says, "that the whole of the army should be turned into agriculturists, but I contend that there are thousands who might be."

MINOR FICTION.

Miss Lilian Turner is widely known as the authoress of bright and agreeable stories, and "April Girls," her last, will add to her laurels. The book deals with the affairs of two families up country, in Australia, and describes their excursions to town, their joys and sorrows, their love-makings and marriages, in a pleasant and interesting fashion. Miss Turner lives up to her reputation as a story-teller, and the book will be universally welcomed. (Published by Ward, Lock, and Co.; our copy from Angus and Robertson.)

"Mates at Billabong," by M. Grant Bruce, is a pleasantly told story of life on a Victorian station. The heroine is the fourteen-year-old daughter of the owner, and her doings along with those of her brother, his friend, and a conceited and futile city-bred cousin, are the substance of the book. Pictures of cattle, mustering, burning off, bush dances, cricket matches, encounters with Hindoo hawkers, and riding accidents, combine to make a pleasant volume, racy of the Australian soil, which will be read with interest by children, Australian and otherwise. (Published by Ward, Lock, and Co.).

"The Lost Iphigenia," by Agnes and Egerton Castle. These collaborators can always be relied upon to produce a readable novel, and this is no exception to the rule. It concerns Sarolta Vaneck, a singer who is taken up by Madame Costanza, a famous teacher, trained in Paris, and finally chosen by Dr. Lothnar to take a part in his new opera, which is the talk of the musical world. She creates a furore in Iphigenia, but when it comes to depicting the guilty love of Phaedra her innocence makes failure inevitable. Thereupon the doctor, who is artistic egotism incarnate, to ensure the success of the piece, persuades her that he loves her, and makes her realise that her feelings towards him are also those of love. She is not long in learning his true motive, leaves the stage, and marries an old and faithful admirer. The whirligig of time brings its revenges, and later, when the doctor avows a genuine passion for her, she spurns him, and goes back to her husband, with an increased sense of her good fortune. There are numerous excellently drawn characters, from the semi-Bohemian, semi-Philistine life of a German opera town, and the authors are to be congratulated on giving us an interesting story. NEWS AND NOTES.

Very little progress has been made with the Sydney Central Draughts Club's tournament, owing to the fact that several pairs of players have been unable to arrange suitable times. The result of the round between Messrs. S. Brown and L. Shaw was three wins to the former, and one win to the latter.

At the Cedar Point outing convention Mr. Alfred Jordan, the champion of England, played 18 of the strongest players simultaneously, winning 12 and drawing six games. Next day Mr. Newell W. Banks played 17 boards simultaneously, winning eight, drawing eight, and losing one game to A. C. Jones. The young American champion also contested blindfold against six opponents, winning from H. O. Newcomb, losing to F. J. Mischler and D. S. Craig, and drawing with three others.

The tourney for the championship of Grimsby and district was won by C. Powell, the first prize being £2, and a valuable cup presented by Mr. Joseph Trayner. The second prize (£1) was awarded to E. Gerard, the third prize to the president, F. E. Chapman, and the fourth to H. Watkinson. Presentations of draughts literature and a silver-mounted ebony walking-stick were made to Messrs. Dobles and W. T. Fife (hon. secretary) by the president, on behalf of several friends.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

During these closing nights of the opera season one event after another treads so fast upon the heels of pleasure that there is hardly space or time for the "trivial fond records" which playgoing readers love. Much, much might be written of the shoals and depths of Puccini's music in "Tosca," of which only the second performance will be given to-night; but two additions to the repertoire next week, with Mme. Melba as the star "Rigoletto" on Monday, and "Romeo and Juliet" on Thursday, call for reference. Verdi's opera has only been revived here thrice in 24 years. The first occasion brought Signor Hazon to this country as conductor of Simonsen's Italian company in 1887. Signor Cerne was the jester, Signora Tagliavia was the Gilda, and Signor Lazzarini, a fine singer of established reputation, was the Duke. Both the conductor and the basso profondo, Signor De Alba (Sparafucile) then settled in this city. The Maddalena, Signora Cavalleri, returned to Italy, but played the same role here in 1892, with Signora Cuttica, a coloratura soprano with a marvellous spontaneity of song, as Gilda. This singer used to crowd the house whenever she appeared. Signor Cuttica was the Duke, and her fidelity in refusing to sing without him as tenor effectually blocked her career in Europe. Signor Melossi, a one-time tenor, turned baritone, was highly acceptable in the name-part, and Travaglini was the assassin. The lastnamed, a splendid basso, sang the same character in 1901 at Her Majesty's Theatre, when Carlo Dani made his debut here as the Duke, and Mme. Clementine De Vere Sapio was the Gilda. This was a very fine cast. Signor Hazon conducted. "Romeo and Juliet" has only once been staged here, namely, by Mr. George Musgrove's German company, under Herr Slapoffski's baton, and the incident is too recent to call for detailed comment.

Maeterlinck's famous fairy-play "The Blue Bird" is one of the great spectacular attractions secured by Mr. J. C. Williamson for 1912. This will be a costly artistic enterprise, for which many of the original English artists, and a great deal of the mysterious scenic effects, will be imported. When it was produced in London about two years ago, the "Blue Bird" incidentally blotted out the idea of a so-called "Repertory Theatre," a term (not the thing itself!) at that time regarded as a mascotte, inasmuch as the London press was ever ready to ventilate the subject. A kind of "Repertory Campaign" was started in the newspapers, and it was resolved that London should possess a "Repertory Theatre." What this really meant was, of course, the good old "stock company" of the era of small things, when pieces were changed once or twice a fortnight—as here, by Brough and Boucicault 20 years ago—because the playgoing population was not large enough to give them a run. The new title for a long-tried system was bandied about somewhat—as would be the case if Science were suddenly to discover a fifth Element! Charles Frohman talked of such a theatre at the Duke of York's, but only talked, and got much gratuitous advertisement out of it. Mr. Herbert Trench actually "founded" such an institution at the Haymarket, opening with "King Lear." Then it was suddenly discovered that to withdraw a piece whilst it was still giving a substantial profit was idiotic, and the poetic tragedy was allowed to run until "The Blue Bird" was ready. All the foolish jabber about "changes on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays" forthwith subsided. As soon as the fairy-play was staged it began to attract all London, a run of some 400 nights resulted, and the Repertory Theatre fell from its high estate as a metropolitan press topic for suburban use by teachers of elocution whose students required a mysterious, high-sounding title for their mild dabblings in Shaw or the Great Unacted. Such was the accidental mission of "The Blue Bird" at that epoch in its career. Maeterlinck's allegorical child-drama has since been played all over Europe, from Paris to Moscow, and its spectacular production here on a lavish scale will probably figure as the great event of next year. As most people are aware, the Blue Bird is Happiness—the bird that is never quite caught!

Mr. Matheson Lang and Miss Hutin Britton, who were at the Criterion Theatre two years ago with "Pete" and "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," closed a long tour of South Africa early last month. The actor-manager writes from Durban that he has enjoyed a wonderfully prosperous visit, with a long season at Johannesburg, where "Hamlet" made quite a sensation. The farewell at His Majesty's Theatre on July 30 was the occasion of handsome presentations of rings, both to Lang and his partner, Mr. W. E. Holloway. The press described the season as the most successful ever known in Johannesburg. The repertoire with Mr. Lang's new company also included "Romeo and Juliet," "Bardelys the Magnificent," "Sweet Nell of Old Drury," "The Merchant of Venice," and "The Taming of the Shrew." At the time of writing Mr. Matheson Lang was rehearsnig the new comedy-drama, "Jack o' Jingles" for production in London on his return, and according to Cape press cuttings now forwarded, he was to play a season in Calcutta during the visit of the King and Queen for the Durbar at Delhi before resuming work in England again. Mr. Matheson Lang and Miss Britton hope to revisit Australia in 1913, and as they will shortly add "Henry V.," "Julius Caesar," and "Much Ado About Nothing," to their list of classic pieces, a renewal of their former successes here should prove reasonably certain.

The success of "Kismet" in London is indicated by the fact that Oscar Asche has booked the Garrick Theatre right up to the time he sails for Australia next year. A most attractive offer was made to Mr. Asche to take the production to America, but he was unable to accept, owing to the permanent run of the piece in London, and the arrangements made for the season in Australia under the Williamson-Clark-Meynell management.

In Melbourne the central event of interest to-night will be the appearance of Mr. H. B. Irving and his company in "Louis XI.," and next Saturday the actor-manager will produce the weird drama, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" for the first time in Australia. It seems likely that the success of the Irving Company will detain them on this side for some months, as the J. C. Williamson direction has now arranged for a summer tour of New Zealand, which was not at first within the scope of Mr. Irving's plans. The only other first-rate attraction is "The Chocolate Soldier," still running at the Theatre Royal. It is announced that this opera will be transferred to Her Majesty's, Sydney, on October 28, after the close of the grand opera season. That once-brilliant comedy-house, the Princess's Theatre, is given up to melodrama in the form of "A Girl's Temptation," concerning which one of the press critics remarks that the author (Mrs. Marton Powell) "has aimed at sensational effects, and very little else, . . . and has hit the mark with an accuracy that even the sport-loving Italian gunners who knocked down the Turkish towers at Tripoli might have envied." Mr. William Anderson's company has re-opened at the King's Theatre with Mr. Roy Redgrave's play "The Sorrows of Satan," founded on Marie Corelli's romance of that name. The actor himself impersonated Lucifer, coming on amidst thunder and lightning "to visit his snug little farm, the Earth, to see how his stock is going on!" There were love-scenes between this gentlemanly devil (in the guise of Prince Lucio) and Lady Sybil Elton (Miss Olive Wilton) which pleased the house, and the play was well mounted. In Melbourne concert-rooms the chief event was the farewell appearance of Miss Amy Castles, who has remained in Australia ever since her season with the "Madame Butterfly" Company in April, 1910, and is now returning to Europe with her sister, Dolly, after a holiday. Miss Castles' beautiful voice was heard in the "Mad Scene" from "Hamlet," "Winds in the Trees," "Down in the Forest," and the romance "O'er the Earth and O'er the Ocean" from "Madame Butterfly," as well as in the "Inflammatus" of Rossini, in which she was supported by the Victorian Festival Orchestra, under Mr. Fred. Beard. This evening Mr. Ben Davies and Miss Esta D'Argo will open their season at the Town Hall.

Members of the Sydney Stock Exchange will be paid 2½ per cent. Brokerage on Applications bearing their stamp, on allotment.

OBJECTS:

THE COMPANY is being formed to acquire from Messrs. Whitten Bros., of Port Moresby and Samarai, Papua, a Cocoanut Plantation at Dedele, Cloudy Bay, including 814 acres of freehold land, 43 acres of leasehold, and 100 acres applied for, but not surveyed, of which 100 acres are in bearing, and 82½ containing trees from 1 to 5 years old, for the sum of £6000 cash. The remaining £5250 of subscribed Capital, less flotation expenses (nominal) will be used as required for developments which are now being carried on.

LOCALITY:

Dedele is an island on the Eastern point of Cloudy Bay, containing in all some 1100 acres, midway between Samarai and Port Moresby. It is separated from the mainland by a narrow creek. The Estate is a going concern, and reasonable costs of development incurred before flotation will be a charge on the Company. Reports show that the area is an ideal one for the production of copra, and the Plantation is well established. The Plantation is now paying a large percentage over working expenses. The production for 1911 is about 65 tons, and it must increase to 110 tons by 1913. This means that dividends of 10 per cent. and 12 per cent. can scarcely be avoided, and in the near future the returns must be much greater as more trees come into bearing. As there are 100 acres of full-grown trees, Shareholders will receive a dividend 12 months after flotation, and after that it is intended to pay half-yearly dividends.

Development will proceed rapidly. It should be noted that the Estate is principally freehold, and that freehold cannot now be obtained from the Government of Papua. There are at least an additional 1000 full bearing trees that will be cleared and utilised within 6 months.

It is proposed to clear and plant about 300 acres annually, which will be a charge on development account.

THE MANAGING DIRECTOR, who has just returned from the locality, and who is largely interested in Papuan development, is assured by experts that the Property is a splendid one for its purpose, and is cheaply acquired.

THE FACT THAT THE HON. W. WHITTEN retains an interest in, and his association with, the property, is a further guarantee of proper and economical management.

COCOANUT GROWING has been referred to as the "Consols" of tropical industry, and there is no doubt as to the security of the business. In addition, it is the cheapest kind of Plantation work.

The Situation is admirable in all respects, and hurricanes and cyclones are unknown. The element of chance is, in fact, eliminated, and such a cocoanut proposition as the present must continue to be among the best paying of tropical industries. For instance, if 100 acres pay 10 per cent. or 12 per cent., 300 acres must naturally give a much higher percentage, and it must not be lost sight of that the 300 acres referred to is only about one-third of the Property.

This sort of investment thus affords the best and most secure provision for the future, and in the nature of the case it continuously increases in value.

Early application is necessary. Shares allotted in order of application.

SCIENCE NOTES.

W.G.P.

COAST EROSION.

In July, 1906, a Royal Commission was appointed to inquire into the extent of coast erosion in Great Britain. Its final report has now been published. During the last 35 years 6000 acres have been lost, but 48,000 acres have been gained by reclaiming tidal lands. This reclaimed land is due principally to the accretion of material brought down in suspension by the rivers. The amount and nature of the erosion is governed by the coast form. Natural protection from erosion is in many places afforded by accumulations of sand and shingle derived from eroded material. This travels along the coast in definite directions, usually being arrested by headlands and river mouths. In some places much damage has been done by the removal of such material for roadmaking and other purposes. The evidence brought out the fact that enormous sums of money had been wasted on protective works, ill placed and badly designed. The Commissioners recommended that the whole care of the coast should be placed under the Board of Trade.

TURTLES AND TORTOISES.

The tortoises are pretty sharply marked off from the rest of the reptiles. They are characterised by their shell and their horn-covered toothless jaws. They occur first in the Trias, and reach their maximum development in the early Tertiary. There are about two hundred existing species. As to the origin of the group little is known, but it doubtless branched off from some more generalised terrestrial reptile, the aquatic habit of turtles being acquired later. The whole organism has been immensely modified to meet the peculiar conditions imposed upon it by the hard shell with which the tortoise protects itself. Even the vertebrae and ribs may be reduced to mere outlines; while the muscles of the trunk are lost in the region of the shell, though traces of them occur in young specimens. The lungs undergo a curious modification. They are attached by their whole dorsal surface to the inner lining of the shell, and the ordinary expansion is thus rendered impossible. The required vacuum is got by drawing out the neck and limbs like pistons, and by alternately inflating and emptying the throat, whence the air is swallowed into the lungs. Most tortoises, however, can go a considerable time without breathing. The leathery turtle is the largest of recent chelonians, and is said sometimes to weigh over a ton. It is rare but widely distributed, most often seen in the tropical West Atlantic, and in the Indian Ocean. It is known to breed, but, curiously enough, youthful leathery turtles are never seen. It has a shell that is directly continuous all round the body, made up of hundreds of little bony plates. The snapping turtle, common from the Canadian Lakes to Central America, lives mostly on river bottoms. It is a ferocious animal, inflicting a severe wound by its bite, and proving very destructive to fish. They are, however, themselves caught and eaten. America, in fact, is peculiarly well supplied with turtles and water tortoises, commonly known as terrapins. In Europe the water-tortoises seem to be dying out. The Americans are very fond of terrapin, and terrapin farms do a flourishing business, as the "wild" terrapin is becoming scarce. A herd of 40,000 terrapins in a "crawl" is not uncommon. They are fed on shrimps to improve their flavour, and such a herd eats about 20 bushels a day. They take about seven years to grow to a saleable size. They are intelligent little beasts, with much curiosity, and it is said to be a great sight to see thousands of them come swimming through the water when the shrimp-man blows his whistle. The typical land tortoise occurs in most tropical and warmer temperate regions except Australia. Where they occur land-tortoises are commonly kept as pets, and eat everything except the black beetles it is their ostensible function to consume. They are said to be fond of music. Dr. Girtanner relates that when the town band of St. Gallen began to play on the square next his garden all his tortoises at once ran to the fence, and remained motionless with heads erect until the end of the number. When the piece was finished they moved about chatting, but were decorously attentive as soon as the next item began. The tortoise reaches a considerable age. One that belonged to Gilbert White is known to have lived 54 years, and it was probably a considerable age when it came into his possession. Very large species of land tortoise were common in Miocene and Pliocene Europe, but they are now restricted to the Galapagos Islands, and to a few islands in the western part of the Indian Ocean. They afford a curious object-lesson in evolution. Free from natural enemies, they have attained a large size, and every island has its own species, the isolation being perfect. As there are none of them on the continental land masses adjacent they must have been left behind when Goodwanaland sank beneath the sea, and when lost Lemuria perished in mid-Tertiary times. Unluckily, they have now been almost exterminated by man. Some historic specimens have reached a great age. When Mauritius became a British possession in 1810 a tortoise which had been brought there in 1766 was specially mentioned and taken over. It was still living in the barrack square at Port Louis a few years ago.

RADIUM AND BIOLOGY.

An egg exposed to radium emanation has its shell blackened, and the white becomes turbid, while the yolk takes on a greenish tint. The change seems to be due to the decomposition of lecithin, but a thorough investigation of the effect of the emanation on fats remains to be done. The bactericidal effect of the emanation is well established. Germs of typhoid and cholera, for instance, are rapidly killed. The alpha rays are the most effective. The resistance of the bacteria to the influence varies very greatly in individual cases. With anthrax germs eight hours' exposure is required. Luminous bacteria are stimulated to greater brightness. The rays paralyse the mycelium of fungi, but do not induce death. Ferments and similar bodies are variously affected, some being paralysed and some stimulated in their action. The germination of small seeds is in some cases prevented. Amoebae are killed by twenty-four hours of exposure, and so are various trypanosomes. Experiments in embryology show that the radium arrests development, and causes abnormal growth. In the higher animals it is well known that the rays cause inflammation and ulceration of the skin. This effect is most rapid. A pillbox containing a few milligrams of radium applied to the arm for fifteen seconds leaves a lasting dark-red discolouration. In mice radium applied to the brain produces partial paralysis. The eye in blind or partially blind patients appears to be strongly stimulated, and if the atrophy of the retina is incomplete, blind persons may thus be taught to read and write. As between particular organs, it is found that the spleen and bone marrow are most affected. Spermatozoa are destroyed, and inflammation is produced in various elements of the brain and spinal cord. In the liver there is necrosis of the cells, and abnormal growth of connective tissue. Muscle tissue tends to degenerate. Tubes containing radium placed beneath the skin of small animals near the spinal cord produce paralysis and ataxia in a few hours. Rabbits and frogs show various morbid symptoms, and ultimately die. As a help in the conflict with disease, the value of radium is still uncertain. Inhaling the emanation seems to have a good effect in certain troubles of the respiratory tract. Attempts have been made to treat tumours by injecting water containing radium emanation. Diseases of the skin are treated by direct application, the radium salt being placed in an ebonite capsule with a mica window. It is said that the rays are absorbed far more by the diseased than by healthy tissue. Rodent ulcers appear to be held in check, but it is very doubtful if the good effect of the radium treatment is permanent. The same may be said of the treatment of cancer, though in individual cases some remarkable results have been reported. It is also said to be effective in the treatment of lupus, moles, warts, eczema, and so on. As a pain-killer radium is a success in many instances.

GOLDEN WOOL.

VALUING, SELLING, AND BUYING.

THE PRESENT AND THE PAST.

IV.

The initial step in buying wool, as in selling wool, is the valuing of wool. Every lot of the 800,000 bales catalogued in a season differs in some important particular, and the difference in value has to be ascertained. It is for determining the value that the sample bales of all lots catalogued are so carefully ranged on the show floors of the wool stores.

There are this season operating in the Sydney market fully 60 representatives of Continental wool houses, principally France, Germany, Belgium, and Switzerland; over 20 representatives of the United Kingdom, chiefly Bradford; four or five of the United States, and the same number of Japan; while the local representatives make a total of over 50. The bulk of the purchases, however, are made for Europe and the United Kingdom.

ESTIMATING THE YIELD.

Two catalogues, three catalogues, or four catalogues may be submitted on one sale day; and before the buyers value the lots on the show floors the brokers' experts have put their value on the wool. In the one case, the experts give owners an idea of approximate values when required; whereas, the buyers proceed on the morning of sale, when all the sample bales are ranged on the show floors, inspect each lot critically, value it, and in so doing make their estimate of the clean, scoured yield of the wool. Upon the strength of their estimates they mark the prices in the catalogues that they are prepared to bid for every lot suitable for their requirements. They usually have their limits, which may be higher or lower than current values, according to trade circumstances. At present the limits tend to lower levels. In any case, the values of the lots have been ascertained on a given basis of values, and upon the estimates made on the show floors the buyers operate in the auction rooms.

WOOLS OF ALL QUALITIES.

In the course of the season wools come from every woolgrowing district in the State, grown under widely dissimilar conditions so far as both climate and feed are concerned. Clips will be shorn from sheep "off the lucerne," off "the herbage country," off "the rape," off all kinds of native and artificial grasses, off the stubble, off the saltbush, and, alas! sometimes off the burr. All the wools, however, have some value, and are suitable for nearly all wool users' requirements. Some wool will be short in the staple, some of good length, some dusty, some burry, some sound and well grown, some tender, some heavy in condition, some light, and some canary-stained with a tinge that will not come out in the scour. The bulk of the offerings are in the grease, and every lot carries a different percentage of foreign matter that must be eliminated before it is clean wool fit for the carding machines.

ARRIVING AT THE VALUE.

Wool enters wholly or part into a wonderful variety of fabrics, and the very coarsest to the finest fibre has its particular use and value. Fashions run more on one class of wool at one time than another, and the demand may be stronger one season than another. With all the varieties of wools, however, there are special purposes to which they can be profitably put; and it is the buyers' business to select and secure the kinds most suitable as advantageously as possible. According to the estimates of each buyer of the probable weight and character of the wool, minus grease, dust, burr, seed, and other foreign matter, so the success or otherwise of his purchases during the season.

Practically the whole system of the wool-selling and buying industry has been raised to its high state of efficiency—from the classing of the clip, on the station, to the delivery of the bales of wool into the ships' holds—in the endeavour to have the wool estimated and sold at its full value. The magnificently lighted and spacious show floors, some of which have an area of one and a half acre, have been designed to display wools of every description, from the lots of scoured, that can be gauged very closely, to wools of the most "doubtful yield," in order that the trade may be on the soundest possible footing, and so that the facilities for disposing of every lot—from a bag, butt, or fadge to the largest and most fashionable clip that can be shorn in the Commonwealth—are not excelled in any part of the world.

TRADE IN ITS INFANCY.

It was not always so. When the Australian wool trade was in its infancy there was scarcely the germ of the system that is so complete to-day. At one time in the early history of the trade Melbourne was taking a strong lead in providing facilities for wool-selling. This, however, was before Sydney realised its importance in the wool-growing, wool-selling, and exporting world. It was also before the woolgrowers formed an association for encouraging the breeding of sheep by holding exhibitions, with sections for housed and unhoused merinos, having classes of fine, medium, and strong wool. In the early days there was no provision for properly valuing wool and making estimates of yields in fleece, broken, pieces, bellies, and locks. The trade was on a very small scale, and very few engaged in it had any idea of wool-selling developing in Sydney to its present proportions.

ROUGH AND READY METHODS.

Before there was any regular system of selling by wool-broking firms the merchants and dealers of Sydney had a rough and ready sort of method by which the fleece portion of a clip was bought by them, say, at 7½d per lb, and the bellies and locks at half the price. Most of the wool was washed on the sheep's back, and bought as washed wool. At a later stage greasy wool was put on the market, and has held pride of place ever since.

Prior to regular auctions wool was used as a means of exchange; merchants frequently paid for their goods from London by shipping bales of wool. This led to buyers being employed who had some expert knowledge, for the wool shipped had to have some specific value; and also led up to wool-selling by auction. Wool was shipped by large growers for realisation in London, and it was chiefly small lots that were bought for merchants and by dealers on speculative account.

AUCTIONS IN THE BEGINNING.

Regular auctions were inaugurated in London for the selling of Australian wool in the year 1835, and in Sydney about 1844. Wool auctions were held at irregular intervals in both selling centres prior to those dates. The late T. S. Mort commenced on a very small scale, pioneering auction selling by offering two bales of wool on September 15, 1843. That was followed up by larger offerings, mixed up with other produce. Quaint are the references to some of the sales by auction in the 'fifties and 'sixties. It was in 1864 that Messrs. Mort and Co. made an application to the Exchange to hold weekly sales of wool in that building on Thursday of each week. The application was granted, and the new order of selling began to take definite shape. Other wool-broking Richmonds came into the field; and three years later, according to an old roster of sales, no fewer than seven firms were handling wool consignments for realisation by auction.

The stores began to grow, and Melbourne was competing strongly. Closer attention was paid to wool-selling; but prior to the 'eighties the facilities for wool inspection were very primitive. The consignments of wool would be stacked as conveniently as possible in the stores; and when it came to an examination buyers would have to go and pull out handfuls and carry the samples to the door or window for some light to value the wool by. There was an entire absence of properly lighted showfloors, such as are provided to-day in all the wool stores. When the early buyers valued the wool in the teams they pulled it out in the broad light of day; so the stores, until the more recent period, showed very little if any advancement on the most primitive style.

AUCTIONEERING TO-DAY.

In the selling of wool by auction to-day there is no resemblance to the doings of bygone years. The auctioneer in the wool saleroom acts in quite a different way to the auctioneers of other produce, of live stock, of land, or furniture. The buyers simply assemble to bid, and the auctioneer mounts the rostrum to sell if the bids come up to, or in advance of, his reserves. There is no time or inclination on the part of the auctioneer to expatiate on the merits of any lots offered; and the buyers want none. The pace is as swift as it possibly can be; and if any of the commercial gentlemen on the other side of the globe who occasionally write of the slowness of the manners of Sydney business people looked in at the wool saleroom during the progress of an attractive catalogue they could no more follow the procedure than they could see the course of a live torpedo.

A wool auctioneer has to be keen, tactful, alert, have quick and sound judgment, have a thorough mastery of the instructions in his marked catalogue, and not only deal with every lot with precision, but with lightning-like rapidity. Not only is this the case with the lots sold, but also with the lots that are passed in, giving the name of the highest bidder and his price, for he, according to the rules of the trade, has a claim on the lot passed in at the owner's reserve price for a certain length of time, as laid down by the wool-selling regulations.

An auctioneer of live stock expatiates between the bids, and even prior to the offering of a lot, on the breeding and quality of a ram—if it is one—the blood of the stud or flock, denseness of the fleece, the folds, and so forth. With wool there is nothing of the kind; each lot has been valued, and seller and buyer have formed their opinions before entering the auction room. All the wool is sold at so many pence and farthings per lb, and every advance in bids must be of not less than one farthing. If a lot is started at 11½d, the next bid carries it to 12d, and a further bid to 12¼d, and not to 12⅛d or any smaller fraction of one penny than one farthing.

ARISTOCRACY IN FRONT SEATS.

The sales are carried on as per roster, and start punctually at 2 p.m. By that time practically all the buyers are in their allotted seats. The rows of seats are semi-circular, rising tier on tier till the last butts on to the railed-in gallery for the public. Priority is given to the largest and most important buyers. There are aristocrats in the trade, whether purchasing for a Bradford, Tourcoing, Antwerp, Bremen, Roubaix, or Rheims house. These representatives occupy the front row on the floor, and it is with envious eyes that some of the gentlemen in the more elevated positions look down on their confreres, hoping for the season to come when they can thrust out their catalogues, their arms, and fire out their bids from such a coign of vantage. All seats are free so far as charge is concerned, but each seat is for the privileged use of the buyer to whom it is allotted during the progress of the sales. There is a distinction between the large and small buyer; but the small operator may aspire to great things in the saleroom if there are mills to absorb his purchases or financial houses to back his operations.

DIGNITY TO THE WINDS.

Punctually to time the auctioneer calls out "Lot 1," and, if the parcel is an attractive one, from 20 to 30 buyers may rise in their places as near simultaneously as possible. Greyhounds straining in the leash are not quicker off the mark than woolbuyers rise from their seats, shouting on the one bid—that may be carried a point further by half the number; and still another farthing, by the buyer that secures the lot. In the operations of no other trade is there such a sudden transition from a calm, yet alert, attitude of a keen, polished lot of business men to one of tumultuous exclamation, regardless of all appearances, as in the wool saleroom. The vigour with which they rise and call out their bids is astonishing, and if they are all on the one limit—the one farthing to which they are instinctively prepared to go, some of the most aggressive—if such a term may be used—will adopt attitudes, and make grimaces that they would not dream of indulging in outside the saleroom. Dignity is unthought-of when woolbuying is in swing.

The theory, of course, is that the lot is knocked down to the buyer that is first to rise and first to shout the bid; but they are all practically firsts, so far as rising and shouting are concerned. Some gestures are more fantastic than others; some shouts, croaks, and shrieks are more weird than others in the fond or forlorn hope that the auctioneer will appreciate the vehement spurt, and favour the riotous enterprise. Sometimes the lot is captured by extraordinary means, and sometimes it is "love's labour lost." When the lots in the catalogues that are out in the general running are reached, either a high-priced or low-priced lot not in general demand, there is no undue exertion exercised by the one or two buyers bidding. They just sit placidly in their seats calling out their bids more or less leisurely, if it is a top-notch lot, on special American or Continental account, with a certain amount of pride. But the general rule is for the sales to be strenuous, and £75,000 to £100,000 worth of wool to be knocked down in one and a half to two hours.

FROM THE SHABBIEST TO THE BRIGHTEST.

How this scene of to-day, in the stores in the morning and the saleroom in the afternoon, compares with the early days is referred to by Mr. Austin, one of the early buyers, who, though now out of the fray, is still in our midst. Referring to the 'fifties and 'sixties, he said: "Practically the wool business was in the hands of large mercantile firms. . . . who, as soon as the wool made its appearance in town, lost no time in putting it on board ship, advancing on it, and sending supplies to the various stations by the returning teams. Under these circumstances, one could hardly have looked for an imposing catalogue at a Sydney wool sale, but I certainly was not prepared for the impression I was to carry away with me at my first attendance. A weekly wool sale took place every Thursday, and was held in a shabby low two-storied building on the Quay. Half-past 11 was the hour for the auctioneer, Mr. O. B. Ebsworth, to make his appearance. The storeman, old Lewis, would cut open the bales with a formidable looking knife, and a wretched untidy written catalogue was handed to each buyer as he turned up. A man stood outside the door with a bell to proclaim to all and sundry that a wool sale was to take place, for all the world like a second-hand furniture sale of to-day. A bale of washed wool (greasy wool was almost unknown then) was pulled down to serve as a rostrum for the auctioneer, who after various greetings with buyers and communings with Lewis, the storeman, took his place on the bale, and began to read the conditions of sale. . . Bids were made by nods, winks, uplifting of pencils, etc., vocal bids being in the minority. In a word, anything more unbusinesslike, shabby, and contemptible than a Sydney wool sale in 1859 it has not been my misfortune to attend. . . . Little did I think when I left that sale that I should live to see Sydney the great Australian wool market that it is to-day."

ITS EFFECT IN INDIGESTION.

Persons suffering from indigestion will find the following letters acutely interesting: — From Mrs. C. Searle, Lindsay-street, Hamilton, Newcastle, N.S.W., 10th June, 1910.

"I suffered acutely from dyspepsia, severe headaches, and biliousness for some years. I could scarcely eat anything solid without having to endure pain afterwards. I grew weak and excessively nervous. Hearing of the cures effected by Warner's Safe Cure, I gave it a trial, and obtained complete relief from all the distressing symptoms that had troubled me for so long a time. I am never troubled with pain in the head now, and I can eat a good meal without the least ill effect."

From Mr. W. T. Mansfield, saddler, etc., Bayliss-street, Newtown, Wagga, N.S.W., 27th July, 1910.

"For some years my life was made miserable by disease of the kidneys and chronic indigestion. At times the pains in the back were excruciating. I could scarcely eat anything without having to endure great suffering. There was always a fulness and sense of oppression after meals. As a natural result, I grew weak and excessively nervous. I had heard about Warner's Safe Cure, and the good results derived from it from persons who had tried the medicine, and at last I decided to give it a trial myself. I was astonished at the great relief I obtained from it. After taking a few bottles of Warners' Safe Cure I was quite cured. Pains in the back never trouble me now, and I can enjoy my food without fear of any ill consequences. I strongly advise anyone suffering like I did to give Warner's Safe Cure a trial."

A pamphlet containing full information relating to Warner's Safe Cure, for the kidneys and liver, will be sent post free on request by H. H. Warner and Co., Ltd., Australasian Branch, Melbourne.

Warner's Safe Cure is sold by chemists and storekeepers everywhere, both in the original (5s) bottles and the cheaper (2s 6d) "Concentrated," non-alcoholic form.—Advt.

CANNIBALISM IN POLYNESIA

IGNORANCE OF SHIPMASTERS.

(BY LOUIS BECKE.)

A few weeks ago there appeared in the Australian press an account of the sufferings undergone in the South Seas by one of the boat's crews of the American barque Puritan, abandoned at sea. When the boats left the sinking craft they, so the mate stated to a Wellington newspaper, were "about 100 miles off one of the islands of the Society Islands." During bad weather the boats parted company. Then followed five days of calm, during which the men in the mate's boat suffered greatly from shortness of water. Three days after leaving the ship an island was sighted, but the mate would not land, "knowing the island to be only inhabited by cannibals." After covering 750 miles and being 13 days in a leaking boat they finally reached the lagoon island of Anaa, in the Paumotu Group, where they were hospitably received by the French missionaries.

Now, all this suffering arose from misapprehension. Had the officer in charge of the boat landed at the island they first sighted (one of the Society Group) that would have been received in as kindly a manner as they were subsequently at Anaa, for on every island in the Paumotu and Society groups there is either a white or a native missionary, Catholic or Protestant; on the larger ones several white traders are permanent residents.

The belief still existent among many master mariners, especially foreigners, that cannibalism is still existent in Polynesia would be amusing were it not the cause of so many tragedies, even up to the present time. A hundred years have passed since the man-eating habit was extirpated in the Polynesian and Micronesian islands, though it still flourishes in Melanesia—the New Hebrides, the Solomons, and the great islands of the Bismarck Archipelago and New Guinea, despite the strenuous efforts of missionaries and punitive measures by the British and German naval authorities, and the advance of civilisation generally throughout the vast area of the islands of the Western Pacific. It will be remembered that about the last case of cannibalism that occurred in Fiji was in the early "sixties," when the unfortunate missionary Baker was killed and eaten by the mountaineers. This, however, was not from the mere love of eating human flesh, but more from a desire of revenge upon an enemy. The mountaineers regarded the Rev. Mr. Baker as an emissary and ally of King Cacobau, with whom they were at war, and they therefore looked upon Baker as an enemy, and forbade him to come into their country. But his missionary enthusiasm overmastered his discretion, and although he was earnestly besought by the white residents not to penetrate into the mountaineers' domains he persisted, even after the savages had warned him a second time that he would be eaten. And so he went to his death.

Every British ship (and usually American as well) that sails in the North and South Pacific, is, or ought to be, provided with copies of "Findlay's North Pacific and South Pacific Directories," a recognised standard work, issued with addenda or corrected up to date every five years, and approved of by the Admiralty. The Germans have their own Pacific directories, quite as reliable as Findlay's, but the Norwegian and Swedish ships trading between the west coast of North and South America and Australasian ports, seldom possess a late edition—their owners supply their captains with copies that may have been issued 50 or 60 years ago, before the islands were properly surveyed and charted. Hence, many terrible disasters. Evidently the mate of the Puritan had not seen a "Findlay," which even of 35 years back would have told him that any of the Polynesian islands were a safe refuge for shipwrecked people.

Some 30 years ago, when the writer was employed in the shark-catching industry (drying the fins and tails for export to Chinese ports) in the atolls of the North Pacific, a ship—probably a foreigner—was abandoned by her crew in a sinking condition within 100 miles of Fanning Island, now one of the calling places for the Vancouver and Australian mail service line, and also one of the stations of the Pacific Cable Company. Neither the captain nor any of his officers were aware of the fact that on Fanning Island were a family named Greig—some of whom are still living there—and that at Palmyra Island, near to, was a Captain English, with his family and a large number of natives employed in oil making and shark catching. At either of these islands the two boat's crews from the abandoned ship would have found a warm-hearted welcome and every possible assistance rendered to them. But although one of the boats was actually sighted by the natives on Palmyra Island, who hoisted a flag, it stood away, the officer in charge evidently fearing treachery. Some months later the boat was picked up by a New Bedford whaleship, six or seven hundred miles to the westward, with the bodies of three of the crew, the remainder no doubt having died of starvation. Of the other boat nothing was ever heard.

Early in the "seventies," a year or two after the late Earl of Pembroke visited Samoa in his ill-fated Albatross, the present writer was running a small cutter in the inter-island trade—Tutuila, Upolu, and Savaii. Early one Sunday morning we on board heard loud cries from the natives in the village of Saluafata, off which we were anchored, and which is about 15 miles from Apia Harbour. "Le folau, le folau!" (A big ship.) In a few minutes we learned that there was a large ship—"the greatest ship we have ever seen," the natives said—running down the coast within a league of the shore. My partner, a smart young Manahiki half-caste, named Strickland, and I at once got into the cutter's boat and stood out of the passage to try and intercept the stranger. She was coming along under easy sail, and as soon as she sighted our boat backed her mainyard, and we got on board. To our astonishment all the crew were armed with all sorts of weapons—ancient rifles and muskets, horse pistols, carpenters' broad axes, cooks' choppers, and belaying pins. The captain met us and made us welcome, telling us in his halting English that he was very much afraid that his ship might be attacked by the "black mans" before he got to Apia, where, he understood, there were "some white mans" living. We soon reassured him on the point regarding the "black man's" harmlessness, and my partner offered to pilot the ship to Apia. She was named the Otto and Anton[illegible] Tonsberg, Captain Gunderson, and carried a crew of 36 Norwegians. With a cargo of 4000 tons of guano from Howland Island she left there for Europe, and a few days later started a butt end, and then, straining heavily, some of her seams opened below water mark. The guano choked the pumps, the crew became exhausted, and wanted to take to the boats and abandon the ship. But the skipper was of the old Viking breed of men, and refused, and stood away for Samoa. At Apia he met with every assistance, and discharged 1500 tons of his cargo. (Mr. John Williams, grandson of the martyred missionary, and now a well-known Sydney merchant, will well remember the incident should he see these lines.) He told me that the chart which he was using was dated 1851, and the nautical guide to the South Pacific was of about the same date, and alluded to Apia Harbour as "a safe anchorage, but the natives are dangerous, treacherous cannibals, and addicted to cutting off poorly-manned and inadequately-armed merchant ships." Now, the Samoans have never cut off a ship since the Navigators' Islands (as they were once called) were discovered, although they did cut off and massacre, at Tutuila, two boats of a French exploring expedition, when M. de Langle was one of the victims. But this was purely a reprisal—utu, revenge—for some of their people having been wantonly shot by the Frenchmen a few days previously.

When the writer was living on Strong's Island (Caroline Group), in the "seventies" with the shipwrecked crew of Captain "Bully" Hayes' brig Leonora, a large ship appeared running down along the lee side of the island. Four boats were manned, mostly with wild Pleasant Island and Ocean Island natives, and in charge of white men, of whom the writer was one. The wind was light, and the ship—evidently a China port bound vessel from Australia, taking the "outer passage" to Hongkong—was soon overtaken. Our boats' crews were wildly excited, and burst out into a chant, or, rather, war song. The poor fellows were simply expressing their joy at the prospect of getting some tobacco from the strange ship. Then, to our profound astonishment, she brought to when we were within 500 yards, fired two round shot at our boats, and a group of people on the quarter deck opened fire on us with rifles and revolvers. In one of our boats was a whaleman's "whift" (signal flag) which was at once displayed, but it had no effect. The ship [illegible] filled away and went off, to our intense disgust.

A year later the [illegible] alluded to the incident as a desperate attempt by South Sea pirates to cut off the ship.

"AN INSPIRATION OF GENIUS."

"It is a joy to see and feel and handle the New Encyclopaedia Britannica. The change from the ponderous forbidding volumes of the past to this charming India paper issue represents nothing less than an inspiration of genius. The Britannica was a work of reference—now it is a book which one takes down for the pure pleasure of reading it."

The Rev. CHARLES F. AKED, D.D.

A volume of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica on India or Bible paper can be held in one hand and folded back for convenience in reading.

INDIA OR BIBLE PAPER AND THE NEW

Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The Interesting Story of India Paper.

INDIA paper is the name given to a very thin and light, but tough and opaque, kind of paper used for making books of which it is desirable to reduce the bulk and weight to a minimum without impairing durability or affecting the legibility of the type. The name was originally given in England, about the middle of the 18th century, to a soft absorbent paper imported from China, where it was made by hand. The name probably originated in the prevailing tendency of those times to describe as "Indian" anything that came from the Far East (as, for example, Indian ink).

How It First Came From the Far East.

The name of India paper is now chiefly associated with European (especially British) machine-made, thin, opaque printing papers used in the highest class of book-printing. In 1841 an Oxford graduate brought to England from the Far East a small quantity of extremely thin paper, which was manifestly tougher and more opaque, for its weight, than any paper then made in Europe. He presented it to the Oxford University Press, which, in 1842, used it for 24 copies of the smallest Bible then in existence.

Re-invented in England.

In 1874 experiments were instituted at the Oxford University paper-mills at Wolvercote with the object of producing similar paper. In 1875 an impression of the Bible, similar in all respects to that of 1842, was placed on sale by the Oxford University Press. This feat of compression was regarded as astounding, the demand was enormous, and since then hundreds of thousands of these India paper Bibles have been printed by the Press both of Oxford and Cambridge.

Tests at the Paris Exposition.

The marvels of compression achieved by the use of India paper created great interest at the Paris Exposition in 1900. Its strength was as remarkable as its lightness. Volumes of 1500 pages were suspended for several months by a single leaf, as thin as tissue, and when they were examined at the close of the Exposition it was found that the leaf had not started, the paper had not stretched, and the volume closed as well as ever. The paper, when subjected to severe rubbing, instead of breaking into holes, like ordinary printing paper, assumed a texture like that of chamois leather, and a strip 3 inches wide was found to support a weight of 28lb.

Materials and Production.

The material used in the manufacture of India paper is chiefly rag, with entire freedom from mechanical wood pulp. The remarkable opacity of modern India paper is mainly due to the admixture of a proportion of mineral matter which is retained by the fibres.

There is no India paper produced in Australia. In the whole world there are only nine mills that manufacture it.

Adoption by the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The adoption by the Cambridge University Press of India paper (with flexible bindings) for such a huge and profusely illustrated work as the New Eleventh Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica marked a veritable revolution in the making of large books. The innovation, of course, was not decided upon until thoroughly convincing tests had been made of its complete practicability. The public of the English-speaking world has been quick to see the advantages of the new format. Eighty-nine per cent. of the 35,000 orders so far received for the new 11th Edition have been for sets on India paper, and subscribers have shown the greatest satisfaction and enthusiasm over the light, thin, beautiful volumes of the India paper edition. These volumes, though they each contain about 1000 pages, are only 1 inch thick. The whole set of 29 volumes occupies only 30 inches of shelf-space, whereas the edition on ordinary book-paper requires nearly seven feet.

Far-Reaching Effect of the Innovation.

It is the confident belief of the Syndics of the Press of the University of Cambridge that the new Britannica, in the light, flexible, easily-handled India paper format, will not only be referred to more often than was its cumbrous predecessor, but that it will henceforth be read and studied with far greater ease and comfort, and, therefore, much more profitably.

Special Features of the 11th Edition.

I. The new edition was published in 1911 by the University of Cambridge.

II. It comprises some 40,000 articles, 41,000,000 words, more than 7000 illustrations, 450 full-page plates, and over 500 maps.

III. Though a lineal descendant of ten editions of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, the new work is in no sense a revision of the obsolete text of its predecessor. It has been completely recast and re-written, and is an absolutely fresh, authoritative, and up-to-date survey and exposition of the whole field of human knowledge.

IV. The plan of the Encyclopaedia has been thoroughly reorganised with a view of combining comprehensiveness with brevity, exhaustive treatment of major subjects, with the greatest facility of reference in the case of minor subjects.

V. Something like 15,000 new headings have been added.

VI. The articles have been written by 1500 contributors—scholars of the highest distinction, and practical experts, whose authority in their special subjects is unimpeachable.

VII. A large and distinguished staff of editors (constituting with the 1500 contributors a virtual College of Research) has been at work for eight years on the new (11th) edition.

VIII. Each article is right up to date, and all the latest discoveries and results of research have been incorporated.

IX. The whole work has been written simultaneously, and has been published practically at one time, not volume by volume as heretofore.

X. A prospectus with full details of the work and the temporary offer will be sent post free on application.

The offer of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica to the Australian public at the minimum price will soon be withdrawn, when the price will be increased. Immediate application is therefore imperative. Full details will be sent on receipt of the annexed coupon. As the first supply of 1000 sets from England is rapidly being absorbed, it is desirable that orders should be sent at once to avoid delay in delivery.

SOCIAL.

The social world of Sydney is once more resuming its normal condition, and although many small dances, luncheons, and dinner and theatre parties have been given there has not been the whirl of gaiety and excitement which always characterises "race" week in Sydney. The weather still continues wonderfully cool for this time of year, and consequently the flowers are everywhere to be seen in the greatest profusion, the roses being exceptionally beautiful this season. Martin-place with the flower baskets is quite gay, and the handsome waratahs made a prominent and rich note of colour amongst the dainty roses, sweet peas, stock, and other lovely blossoms; whilst the florists' shops, so artistically arranged, prove most fascinating, and are always surrounded by the lovers of flowers.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Denman have signified their intention of attending the garden party to be given this afternoon by the commodore of the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron, Sir James Fairfax, in the club grounds, Carabella, Kirribilli Point.

Her Excellency Lady Denman presided at the fourth annual meeting of the Girls' Realm Guild held in the King's Hall, Phillip-street, last night. Lady Denman kindly consented to occupy the position of patron of the guild of Australasia, and was accorded a hearty welcome from the numerous members of the guild present. After the annual report had been read, and Mrs. David had given an address on the trust fund, the business part of the evening was concluded, and an enjoyable programme of music was given. Miss Grace E. Burrows is the organising secretary, and the success of the evening was largely due to her untiring efforts. Amongst those singing was Miss Ruth Bucknall, who hopes to be able to go to London for further training next year. All the members of the guild wore their badges of heliotrope and white rosettes.

Her Excellency Lady Denman formally opened the annual exhibition of the Society of Women Painters, held in the Royal Art Society's rooms, on Thursday morning, and was received by Sir Francis Suttor, who, with several members of the reception committee, subsequently escorted her Excellency round the exhibition. Lady Denman, who wore a black and white striped coat and skirt, with lace collar and cuffs, and a small white hat with white wings, in a few appropriate words, spoken in a clear voice, heard by all, declared the exhibition open. Her Excellency was accompanied by Sir Walter and Lady Barttelot. Amongst the numerous visitors who kept going and coming were Lady and Miss Suttor, Mrs. and the Misses M'Gowen, Lady Fairfax, Mrs. Russell and Miss Russell, Mrs. C. F. Roberts, Mrs. C. B. Stephen and Miss Dorothy Stephen, Mrs. MacCallum, Mrs. Ashburton Thompson, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Holman, Mrs. and Miss Airey, Mrs. W. Fairfax, Mr. D'Apice, Mrs. J. Ashton, Mr. and Mrs. Justice Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Piddington, Lady Miklouho Maclay, Mrs. Bruce Smith, Mrs. Mackinnon, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Thynne, Dr. and Mrs. MacLaurin, Mrs. Huxtable, Mrs. Montefiore, Mrs. Barff, Mrs. Brady, Mrs. Stopford, Mrs. Myline, Judge Docker and the Misses Docker, Mrs. Hardy Wilson, Mrs. Langer Owen, Mrs. Binnie, Mr. and Mrs. Maughan, Mrs. and the Misses Garran, Mdlle. Soubeiran, Mrs. and Miss Paul, Mrs. Vickery, and Mrs. Lane Mullins.

The Admiral and Lady King-Hall visited the Home for Incurables on Saturday afternoon, September 30, when they were driven up to Ryde by Mrs. Hugh Dixson. The Admiral and Lady King-Hall inspected the various wards, and expressed themselves delighted with the home, and chatted with the patients, who were much cheered and encouraged by their kindly visit.

This afternoon his Grace the Archbishop will formally open a garden fete at Bishopscourt, Darling Point. The fete is organised by the women's auxiliary committee in connection with religious instruction in Public schools, and a fourth of the proceeds are to be devoted to the Moore College furnishing fund. Miss Lena Ward is the hon. secretary and Mr. James Hole hon. treasurer.

The opera season, now all too quickly drawing to a close, has been a great source of pleasure to those who love music, and during the week their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Denman and his Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor and Lady Cullen witnessed the performance of "Carmen." Madame Melba had a great reception after her recent illness upon her reappearance last Monday night as Marguerite in "Faust," and again in "La Boheme" on Thursday evening.

A small dance was given on H.M.S. Powerful last Saturday evening by some of the officers, and as it was fine and mild and bright moonlight the entertainment proved most delightful. The ship was decorated with flags and arum lilies and greenery, and illuminated with Chinese lanterns. The flagship left for Melbourne on Wednesday, followed by H.M.S. "Encounter" and the "Yarra" and "Parramatta."

Several of the "town and country" bachelors gave a small but most enjoyable dance in Sargent's rooms on Tuesday evening, as a return to the one given by several young hostesses last week. The rooms were decorated with palms and lilies, and the supper tables with yellow flowers. The hosts were Messrs. J. Gordon, Henry H. Osborne, Keith Bennett, H. Dempster, V. Nathan, J. Burns, and R. Blomfield. The chaperones were Mrs. Leonard Dangar, Mrs. Oliver Osborne, Mrs. Neville Dangar, and Mrs. Claude Parbury. The guests included Miss Joyce Allen, the Misses Barbara and Janet Knox, Miss Kathleen Osborne, Miss May Campbell, the Misses Lowker, the Misses Holdship, the Misses Macarthur, the Misses Morton, the Misses Owen, Miss Nell Knox, Miss Tregarthen, Miss Barton, Miss Laidley, Miss Olive Gidley King, Miss Marjorie Lord, Miss Rothe, Miss Daisy Windeyer, Captain Stewart Richardson, Messrs. Raymond J. Keys, W. Blaxland, Dr. Anderson, Lieut. Watson, R.N.; and many other naval officers.

A most enjoyable dance was given by Mrs. E. W. Knox at her residence, Rona, Bellevue Hill, on Monday evening.

A delightful "at home" was given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Littlejohn at the Royal Sydney Golf Club on Monday evening, and, although the rain during the afternoon and the cloudy evening prevented the gathering from being what it was intended, a "moonlight" garden party, it proved most enjoyable. Had the weather conditions been more favourable the "al fresco" entertainment would have been ideal in such picturesque surroundings. The paths and verandahs were illuminated with Chinese lanterns, and a band played an excellent programme of music during the evening. The supper tables on the verandah (which was enclosed) were decorated with pink and dark-red roses and lilac, whilst those tables in the dining-room were ornamented with bowls of waratahs. Mrs. Littlejohn wore a becoming dress of old-rose pink satin and a lace coat, and was assisted by Mr. Littlejohn in entertaining her guests. Amongst those who accepted invitations were Mr. and Mrs. Russell French, Mr. and Mrs. Garland, Professor and Mrs. Anderson Stuart, Colonel and Mrs. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Hemsley, Mrs. and Mrs. Ellison Rich, Mr. and Mrs. Rabett, Mrs. Sydney Littlejohn, Mr. and Mrs. Salusbury, Lady Miklouho Maclay, Mr. and Mrs. Jaques, Mr. and Mrs. Clive Teece, Mr. and Mrs. Massey, Mr. and Mrs. Wardell, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Littlejohn, Mrs. F. A balance of £106 was announced by the treasurer, which money it was decided to hand over to the medical benevolent fund.

Mrs. Toohey gave the last of her evening "at homes" at Greenoaks Cottage, Darling Point, last Tuesday, when she entertained a number of friends, the drawing-room being beautifully decorated with a profusion of lovely roses. As usual on such occasions there was some excellent music and singing provided for the enjoyment of the guests. Mrs. Toohey returns to her home at Wahroonga to-day, after spending the winter months in Sydney.

A dramatic entertainment and concert took place in St. James' Hall last night under the direction of Miss Rose Seaton. The piece performed was "The Coming Woman," and several well-known artists contributed to the programme. The proceeds of the entertainment will be given to the King Edward Home for Dogs.

The exhibition now being held by the Sydney Society of Women Painters in the Royal Art Society's rooms is full of interest, and since the opening by Lady Denman on Thursday last, has been well attended. The exhibition includes about 100 pictures, the general standard of the work being higher than that of last year. The first name on the catalogue is that of Miss Ethel Stephens, whom we congratulate upon having disposed of two of her pictures on the opening day. We all know Miss Stephens as a painter of flowers, and her "Roses" are beautiful, but it is with her striking portraits, with their Oriental colouring, and several pictures sketched during her recent trip to Europe, that are of so much interest this year. Miss Nele Rodd's ten illustrations to the fairy tale "Snowdrop" are most clever. The drawing is excellent, the design most original, and the colourings beautifully soft and artistic. Miss Gladys Owen has some charming water colour pictures, and so has Miss Alice Norton, and Mrs. C. B. Stephen and Miss Dorothy Stephen have both exhibited some delightful little water colour sketches. In oils Miss Violet Teague, from Victoria, sends two large portraits, and Miss C. Asquith Baker is another Victorian who is exhibiting her work. Miss Amy Vale has daring contrasts of colour, bright reds and greens, the pictures, though not Oriental in character, giving the impression of bright sunshine. Miss Eleonore Hunter sends two interesting examples of her work from Paris, executed in liquid pastel. Miss Lilian Chauvel, Miss Thea Proctor, and Miss Edith Cusack also have some charming exhibits.

Miss Edwell's miniatures, and those of Miss Beatrice Roberts also attract attention, as do many other of the exhibits, which are well worthy of inspection. Miss Annis Docker, and Miss Louise Summerhoff are the hon. secretaries of the society.

ENGAGEMENT.

BOTANIC GARDENS.

The continued favourable weather has resulted in a profusion of flowers from end to end of the garden. Amongst others roses are doing very well just now. They are, of course, spread all over the garden, but the rosarium in the Garden Palace Grounds and the roses near the insectarium, close to the aviary, are worthy of special attention just now. Proceeding from the rosarium a few paces in the direction of the sea wall, one comes to two beds which have plants in them for the first time. These consist of pelargoniums, about 50 varieties, which are mostly in flower. They have not long been taken out of pots, so they are smallish plants, and visitors will doubtless like to watch their progress. Going on to the leguminosae bed in the lower garden, there is a very beautiful shrub from our western plains known as Cassia circinata. It is at present about three feet high, has leaves not long, but as round and thin as twine, and forms a lovely spreading shrub with a profusion of yellow flowers. It is of graceful habit. Only a short distance further on alongside the bridge over the twin ponds is the common iris of England, I. pseudacorus. It bears a profusion of yellow flowers, and in Europe is very common on the margin of ponds and streams. The root is very astringent, and was at one time used for economic purposes.

The waterlilies are just coming into flower in the same pond. The spring is a cool one, and hence they are retarded. The display is far inferior to that of the Centennial Park.

Passing now to the refreshment room, and entering the middle garden at the cart gate opposite, a spreading shrub of six or seven feet will be observed at the back of the border just to the right. This is Aster argophyllus, the well-known musk tree of New South Wales. Our plant bears an abundance of heads of small daisy-like creamy-white flowers. The plant possesses a dainty musk-like odour, hence its name. It is rarely seen in gardens, partly because during the warm months of summer it has not the moisture which it revels in in its native haunts. It is best seen in the South Coast districts and on the southern tablelands.

Visitors will notice that the improvements in the band lawn and the smaller adjacent lawn are now approaching completion, and in a very few weeks children and others will be able to enjoy them. About 16,000 loads of filling, soil and stones have been used so far, together with about two acres of turf.

NEW MUSIC.

Messrs. Nicholson and Co. publish separately transcriptions for piano and violin by Mr. Cyril Monk of six celebrated pieces. Mr. Monk, a violinist of talent and experience, has done his work exceedingly well, and each of these numbers may be cordially recommended as carefully preserving the spirit and charm of their original form. The plaintive "Chanson Triste" of Tchaikowsky; the same Russian composer's "Chant Sans Paroles," with fascinating octave-passages demanding a fairly skilful violin executant; Schubert's "Du Bist Die Ruh," with effective extended arpeggios for the pianist, who should be able to play them with a sparkling touch; Schumann's beautiful song, "Widmung" ("Devotion"); Liszt's "Liebestraum," exquisite in sentiment and in melody, with a brilliant violin-cadenza; and Schubert's "Die Nebensonnen," in which the octave passages for violin strengthen the original flavour of the theme—one and all of these transcriptions will find favour with young players of some executive ability.

Messrs. W. H. Paling and Co. publish "Redeemed," a sacred song by R. Joclaste. This is a "religioso narrative song," in imitation of the style of Stephen Adams, and influenced by "The Lost Chord" and "The Holy City," and possesses a popular refrain in valse time. This would suit a Sunday night concert at a vaudeville theatre. C. Spencer's "Dreams Valse" presents a capital opening theme of a rhythmically melodious character, and the whole would please in the ballroom. Reginald S. Boys' new song, "Devotion," was reviewed in these columns a few days ago.

Messrs. Chappell and Co., Ltd., publish "Un Rien," by Guy d'Hardelot, a clever and refined song, the brevity of which commends it as a classical encore number. S. Liddle's "A Pearl for Ev'ry Tear" is a beautiful setting, but extremely short of poetic verse. Liza Lehmann's "There's a Bird Beneath Your Window" and "If I Were a Bird I would Sing All Day" (under one cover) will win acceptance through the latter, which is clever and vivacious, with an accompaniment of considerable originality.

SYDNEY HOSPITAL NURSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As one of the nurses referred to in your issue of this morning, I write in explanation of my action in resigning as one of the head nurses at Sydney Hospital. The objection taken by the head nurses was that a nurse was appointed as a sister over their heads, after being absent five years from the institution, thereby deberring the present head nurses from promotion. No such idea as "striking" was ever contemplated by any of the head nurses, and is not the least likely to follow their action. The step was merely taken as a protest, and we both left on perfectly amicable terms with the hospital authorities.

I am, etc.,
LATE HEAD NURSE.

Oct. 13.

A WELL-KNOWN RESIDENT OF ADELAIDE, THE "CITY OF CHURCHES," WRITES OF CLEMENTS TONIC.

Speaks of the Broken Hill Mines, and how he Lost his Health by Lead Poisoning.

Clements Tonic, Limited, has published weekly in this and other Sydney metropolitan newspapers striking letters in testimony of the great powers of Clements Tonic in restoring health when recovery is despaired of. These letters bear the names and addresses of those testifying, and are striking examples of the value of good health in contrast to ill-health, which in all the cases mentioned was the portion of those who testified. This is merely mentioned to draw the attention of those who may read the following letter, or any published in future. If they think necessary they can verify them as they think fit. Miners and painters especially should read this gentleman's letter.

"Clements Tonic, Ltd.

"Of all the mines in Australia I think the Broken Hill mines are the most injurious for the health of a miner, and it was whilst working there, and suffering from an attack of Lead and Gas poisoning, that I first discovered the merits of your splendid Tonic. IT ACTED LIKE MAGIC IN MY CASE. When I was convalescent I used to feel too weary and languid for anything; everything seemed a trouble to me, but after taking a couple of bottles of your famous medicine I felt like a new man. I am well-known in Broken Hill, having worked on the Central mines for ten years. GRATITUDE AND THE WELFARE OF MY FELLOW-WORKMEN prompt me to pen this note, and you are at liberty to make what use you like of it. I recommend your tonic everywhere.

"(Signed) EDWARD ELLIS."

The most effective safeguard one has in these perilous times of contagious germ diseases is to have pure blood. Nature has so constituted the human blood-stream that in health it possesses numberless red corpuscles for "Policemen" of the blood, whose duty it is to keep out of it certain infectious corrupting germ-causes. To keep the blood healthy, use Clements Tonic, because by keeping the stomach in health it makes the blood rich. ALL CHEMISTS and STORES SELL IT EVERYWHERE. Get it, and get well.—Advt.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS ILL?

Are You Nervous and Irritable?
Are You Run Down or Rheumatic?

The back always aching; work impossible; no rest at night; afraid to bend; standing erect causes a sharp, stab-like pain that almost takes away your breath, and leaves you weak, nervous, and despairing? The kidneys are the life and strength of the body. When they are ill the back is ill—feels weak, and aches day and night. Sharp, cutting pains run through you. Work is impossible; and what with headaches, dizziness, nervousness, bladder and urinary troubles, your health is quite broken down. A few doses of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills will make a wonderful improvement in you, and a course of the medicine will cure you to STAY cured. For Doan's Backache Kidney Pills reach and heal the kidneys themselves—help them to remove from the body all the liquid and crystallised impurities that poison the blood, irritate the nerves, and cause such diseases as Rheumatism, Dropsy (swelling of the limbs), Gallstone, Urinary Disorders, Gravel, Headache, Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Languor, Sallow Skin. The best proof of this is the testimony of friends and neighbours—Sydney people.

SYDNEY PROOF.

8 YEARS CURED.

Mr. John Moroney, Ham and Beef shop, 228 Elizabeth-street, Sydney, says:—"About 18 months ago I began to suffer with Backache, and got a feeling in the small of my back as if I had a growth there, or as if some foreign substance had lodged there; it did not show outwardly, but troubled me more than you would suppose. I could not lie in bed with comfort. I saw in the paper that Doan's Backache Kidney Pills had cured a man I know, and one day I asked him for the full particulars of his case. He told me he had been very bad, and this remedy cured him, and strongly advised me to try it. I did use them and have not much to say beyond that they cured me also; the backache and the unpleasant sensation have quite gone. I strongly recommend the use of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills to all who suffer with Backache. I hear good reports about them on all sides, and if anybody calls to see me I will be pleased to give fuller particulars of my case."

When asked about the above eight years later Mr. Moroney says:—"Thanks to Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, I am still well and free of backache. This remedy cured me eight years ago, and I've not had the slightest return of the ailment since."

10 YEARS CURED.

Mrs. William Whiting, Church-street, North Parramatta, says:—"I was born in Parramatta, just above the mills, 60 years ago, and I have reared a family of eight. Of late years I have had many cares, and suffered severely with terrible pains across the small of my back. They were so bad that I could not turn in bed at night. Until this trouble attacked me I had always been a healthy woman. I suffered with the backache for over four years. I could not account for it, unless I got a cold which settled in my kidneys. I saw Doan's Backache Kidney Pills advertised for the cure of backache, and I got some at Pye's Pharmacy. They have been a God-send to me. I have not had a touch of the backache since I used the Pills, and I feel that I am cured. I mean always to keep these pills in the house."

Ten years later, Mrs. Whiting says:—"I have been in splendid health and quite free of backache ever since Doan's Backache Kidney Pills cured me 10 years ago. I am 70 years of age, and I call my cure marvellous."

10 YEARS CURED.

Mr. M. J. Grace, of 13 Glebe-road, Glebe, Sydney, late Farrier Sergeant of the 1st Regiment, Australian Bushmen, wrote from Klipp Drift, South Africa, March 1, 1901:—"I am very pleased to state that we have your famous Doan's Backache Kidney Pills in the midst of our regiment. I was very much troubled in the early part of the campaign with pains all over me, especially in the back. You see, I was always trekking about in bad weather, and sleeping on the damp ground, and one would want an iron constitution to withstand the inroads on the system. Many mornings I have tried to get up, but failed until I obtained assistance. My agony was often so bad that I have felt inclined to rush into the zone of the enemy's fire, and put an end to my sufferings. All the military doctors who treated me failed to do me any good. One day a comrade gave me three bottles of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, and told me to try them. The first bottle eased me greatly; the third bottle completed the cure. Many of my comrades used them, and they swear by this wonderful medicine. Indeed, this testimony expresses their gratitude to Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, as well as mine."

Nine years later, Mr. Grace says:—"I am still quite free of kidney trouble, and have been ever since Doan's Backache Kidney Pills cured me ten years ago."

Get what you ask for. Get DOAN'S. Don't accept something "Just as good." All Chemists sell DOAN'S BACKACHE KIDNEY PILLS, and will give you what you call for. Some may endeavour to substitute an article they make more profit on. Insist on getting the genuine, and save money and misery. Price, 2/9 per bottle (six bottles 15/3), or will be posted on receipt of price by Foster-McClellan Co., 76 Pitt-street, Sydney.

THE PROPOSITION.

The object of the formation of this Company is to acquire all the rights to Mineral Lease No. 650, Portion No. 232, Act 1906, of 20 acres in the parish of Majo, county of Hardinge, from George Ernest Mount, of Copeton, New South Wales; also all the rights to Mineral Lease Application No. 135, 10 acres, adjoining the above on the eastern side, from Jas. A. Ross, of Sydney.

The property is situated at Copeton, about 14 miles south of Inverell. It is well known as the Davis block, and adjoins the northern boundary of the Deep Shaft lease.

These two properties originally belonged to a big English company, which also held numerous other leases in the neighbourhood. The leases were abandoned about five years ago, when a party of working miners immediately went into the Deep Shaft. They effectively drained the ground, and have since followed the lead for 700 feet in a northerly and north-easterly direction, with improving values towards the centre of Mount Ross block. This lead is an entirely new feature in the mining development of the field. The Company's Manager was of opinion that the Deep Shaft lead crossed the Davis block at this point, and put down a shaft on the lease about 80 feet from the Deep Shaft boundary in a direct north-east line of the recent rich discovery. This shaft is 320 feet from the new shaft on the Deep Shaft ground. It was down 60 feet in the basalt when the Company's Manager received a cable from the London directors to finally close down, and the shaft has not since been entered.

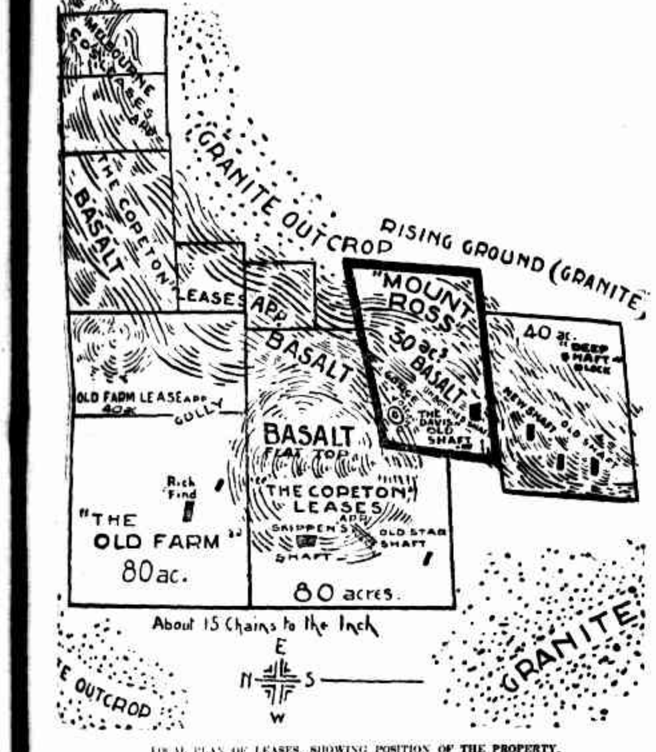
We propose to go into this unbottomed shaft with a view of proving the lead there. To do this we will have to sink about another 60 feet, and as there is every possibility of us getting it, a most valuable property will thus be acquired.

The new shaft recently bottomed by the Deep Shaft syndicate has been driven 100 feet towards the Mount Ross boundary, and, although the lead has not been crossed, the values in this drive have considerably improved, and the wash deepened from 2 feet to 5 feet, 397 carats of diamonds having been recovered in two days within the past three weeks from one pick by hand-sieving. The largest stone taken from this drive weighed 5½ carats, and 17 stones averaged nearly 2 carats.

The leases are bounded on the east side by a high granite ridge, which further along goes off to the north-east. Portion of a large basalt hill comes into Mount Ross on the north side, and in the north-east corner is a natural gorge. On the side of the basalt hill, within the lease, and close to this gorge, are two small volcanic blows, indicating that the large basalt hill to the north was at one time the centre of volcanic action; and if the theory that these diamonds were shed from volcanoes is correct, then we have here evidence of their origin in this hill.

The fact of the improving size of the diamonds in the Deep Shaft in following up the lead, and also the fact that the largest diamond taken from the field (6⅞ carats) was got in the old Davis Shaft, proves the ground to be the centre of valuable diamond deposits. In addition to this, we have tin values practically proved up to the boundary line at 40lb to the load.

The proposition is a good one for the public. The promoter has had much experience in managing the details of such a Company, and the Directors can be relied upon to see that the interests of shareholders are jealously guarded, and economy exercised in the accomplishment of their object.



LOCAL PLAN OF LEASES, SHOWING POSITION OF THE PROPERTY.

The Block marked with a heavy line is the property referred to in this prospectus as "Mount Ross," and originally known as the "Davis." Note the position of the new shaft on the "Deep Shaft" Block, and that of the unbottomed shaft in the "Mount Ross" close to the southern boundary. There is only 320 feet between these two shafts, and the drive from new shaft going north-east towards the unbottomed shaft is where the rich diamonds are now being recovered. All the ground to the north-east of the unbottomed shaft, extending about 1400 feet, is maiden country.

PRESS COMMENTS.

Writing of these two claims, the Inverell correspondent of the Sydney "Daily Telegraph" of April 13, 1911, says:—

"The Deep Shaft is one of the most important claims on the field. Situated between basalt hills of wide extent, it affords ample facilities for rich development work. The main shaft was sunk 120ft through hard basalt formation and drifts, which were resting upon the granite bed rock. A well-hole 20ft deep was then sunk into the granite for draining purposes. The prospectors are sinking a new shaft for air purposes, and in order to connect the present faces opening up with this shaft. The faces of wash in this mine have been exceedingly rich, a barrow-load of wash yielding 70 carats of diamonds. The wash showing in the faces averages a thickness of about 2ft, and produces about 30lb of stream tin to the load. The estimated diamond deposit of this claim averages 6 carats to the load throughout the mine. One bucket of wash from this mine yielded 67 diamonds, weighing 67 carats.

"The next claim is known as Davis's block, and the shaft is situated in a natural gorge between basalt hills. This mine in the past was a rich producer of tin and diamonds. A small party that held the ground on tribute from the company in three months washed up 500 and 600 carats of diamonds, in addition to the tin returns. From this mine one bucket of wash produced 25 carats of diamonds. This block is at present under offer to a syndicate."

The new shaft mentioned in the above extract has since been bottomed, and is the one mentioned in this Prospectus as having been driven to within 200ft of our boundary, and referred to in the following extract from the "Evening News" of July 24th ultimo:—

INVERELL, Monday.—Some important developments are reported this morning from Copeton Diamond Fields. At the Deep Shaft mine on Saturday very rich wash was encountered, no less than 65 carats of diamonds being obtained from less than half-a-load, and 42 diamonds were picked from the face. The diamonds are said to be of excellent quality, averaging nearly half-carat, and one weighing two and a half carats was discovered. By these recent developments the permanency of the Copeton field as one of the richest diamond producing centres in Australia has been assured.

REPORT.

Copeton Diamond and Tin Mining Co.,
Copeton, 29th July, 1911.

To J. A. Ross, Esq., Sydney.

Dear Sir,—

I beg to hand you my report on the Davis Block, now known as and included in the Mount Ross property at Copeton. This block is situated on the north side of the Deep Shaft Block, and bounds Skippens on the north side on the main run of basalt. This run of basalt extends to the north and north-east to the granite range between here and Tingha. On the north side of the basalt hill is the Old Farm Block. There are two distinct runs of tin and diamonds coming into the hill at that point. So far all runs that have been worked dip into the basalt hill, as also does the "Star of the South."

On the south side is the block known as "The Deep," getting good diamonds and tin for the past twelve months, and lately struck a run further to the east of the run they had been working. This must come through the Davis ("Mount Ross"), as there is no other run to take.

The last stones taken from here are, I believe, a record for size, some over four carats.

The Davis Block has two shafts, one for air (they are close together) and another started some 300 feet further east, but not finished.

The working shaft was sunk on the west side of the runs of wash, and driven east about 130 feet, where the rich wash was met with and followed north about 80 feet. At this point it dipped fast; water was troublesome, air bad. Driving was continued south until air was unbearable.

The new shaft was started to give good air and also be in the deeper ground to enable them to work the deep gutter further to the east. This eastern gutter so far has not been worked, and I am of opinion that is the run "The Deep" has touched in the new shaft. They have large heavy wash there; so was the Davis as far as they went. All the wash in the Davis block taken out was rich in tin and diamonds.

On the western sides both ends of the workings are rich, and I am confident the eastern portion where the wash dips off and so much water is, the main diamond run of this field has only been touched.

The difficulties were:—Shaft in a bad place, water somewhat heavy, and bad air. With modern appliances—a fair plant—not a costly one, I should expect no difficulty at all, but, an easy proposition and good, as the diamonds are known to be in the faces both north and south. But the eastern run is, in my opinion, far better than anything that has yet been got, as only the shallow and dry ground has been worked.

(Signed) W. CROSS, Manager, Copeton Diamond and Tin Syndicate.

Since writing the above report I have inspected the drives of the Deep Shaft workings right up to the present face, which is now 150 feet from the boundary of the Davis (Mount Ross) property. The wash is heavy in the eastern drive, and varies from two feet to five feet in depth. They have driven from the new shaft about 100 feet, with improving values, going in a north-easterly direction, and although cross drives have been put in at intervals, the width of the lead is not known, as it has not yet been crossed.

The prospectors during the past three weeks, with one pick working in this drive, recovered by hand-sieving 390 carats of diamonds, among which were some very fine stones, one weighing 5½ carats. This wash has not yet been treated for tin, the average of which is about 40lb to the load.

Sydney, September 7, 1911.

(Signed) W. CROSS.

DOWN THE LACHLAN.

The Lachlan! The name alone should be sufficient to stir the pulse of an Australian. Whatever there is of history-making, of noble, courageous deeds, of selfless pioneering, of sacrifice and tribulation, and of great reward—has had its full share in the Lachlan country. Early explorers found the river, early pioneers took great risks, and scattered isolate and infrequent flocks along its banks. Along the Lachlan the blacks had to be accounted with, and the great grassy spaces were in the old days, as now, liable to perilous times from floods and fires. The gold fever broke out badly there, too, and as one journeys towards the old river there are manifold scars upon the landscape to show where the diggers made, and lost, and made again. At Forbes great parcels of nuggets were unearthed sometimes within a foot of the surface; and it is often said, in partial jest, that if the town were pulled down and the underlying soil were sluiced, the cost incurred would be more than covered by the gold won. Along the banks of the Lachlan went the escort which was stuck up by Gardner and his gang at Eugowra, with little benefit to the miserable thieves who planned the outrage. There are men still living who participated in all these doings, who helped to make history; and there are men—good men—still making history for Australia by that silent stream. Out there—away from the towns—one meets the type so typical of the best in the Australian. The man who rides well, shoots well, fights well, and, with high courage, faces frequent peril by flood and fire and undertakes long tiring journeys, without a thought of the danger and fatigue, merely that his neighbour may receive timely medical aid. Truly, there are men along the Lachlan!

The writer's first trip to the Lachlan was in company with one who had in his earlier days been over the track before railways brought the river so near. His fragmentary recollections were interesting, and concerned happenings and families full of historical import. When one heard the details of the preparation for a trip to the river in the sixties—of the packhorses required for rapid service and the drays for more protracted journeyings, one felt as the miles were passing, and the country coming more and more into view, what difficulties had been smoothed away, what countless episodes of travel missed. When we descended the foothills towards Parkes we were once more struck with the rich variety of landscape presented to any traveller who has eyes to see. We had passed along the rich plateau beyond Bathurst, where everything was green, and down through the park-like country near Molong; on through the rocky ironbark ridges, where, surely, a railway should never have been, to the rolling plains and blue distances which stretch out into the illimitable west.

At Parkes we left our comfortable carriage with a sigh. Our train was going on to Forbes, and we were to wait for another train for Condobolin. We watched the new train in the making, and, once aboard, wondered not that the journey was to be long, hot, and uncomfortable. Along the unfenced line we rattled and bumped, our engine hooting every now and then at the sheep and cattle straying along the track. Our course lay among timbered country—how different from that further eastward! Here we had box and pine and yarran and myall and kurrajong, until we passed the low range of hills at Bogan Gate, when we commenced a level run on country more and more open, with here and there patches of cultivation and scattered graceful wilga trees. A hump of hills on our right indicated the scene of one of Butler's fiendish tragedies near Yarrabundie while on our left rose a huge crocodile-shaped hump marking the site of the famous Burrawang home of the Edols. Later on we rattled tardily into Condobolin. We had bargained for fresh horses for an eighty-mile drive down the river, but when our turnout appeared the animals, though good, were not fresh, and we had some misgivings as to their abilities. However, we started, and found the pair willing enough, though it transpired that they had already placed 30 miles to their credit that day. It was with much relief, therefore, that we unyoked them at North Micabil. Next morning, after enjoying well-cooked freshly-caught Lachlan cod, we started off down the river for Booberoi, then on again to Euabalong, a pretty enough village, with huge pepper-trees—quite a feature of settlement on the river—and a lovely deep hole in the river fronting the village, where the cows were cautiously absorbing succulent water-growths along the edge. We journeyed on towards the setting sun, across real old-man plains, with scattered clumps of box here and there to break the monotony.

We arrived at our destination, and finished our business by sundown, after which we bathed and indulged in a hearty "high tea," and then sat, peacefully and contentedly, enjoying a pipe on the verandah of the station residence. The marvellous beauty of the atmospheric effects in the gathering dusk was our chief theme of admiration. Not far ahead of us was the historic river. A few miles away, beyond the river, were the marvels of Lake Cudgellico, backed up, to complete the landscape, by the low range of Uabba mountains. In the wonderful atmosphere these hills showed the utmost detail of profile, and for absolute blueness the most apt thing we could liken them to was solid turquoise. As the sunlight finally disappeared, and the stars came out, we were conscious of the infinity of space and of silence, rarely broken by the cry of a night-bird, or the faint squeal of a rabbit, in the grip of a fox, probably. Our return journey was equally full of interest, though our travel was more difficult. A thunderstorm ahead of us had deluged a belt of country over which we had to pass, and the mail driver who met us had had a rough time of it. However, we won through all right, and pulled up at North Micabel (which, by the way, seems to be more a name than a locality, save for the inn), fully tired and ready for tea. After tea we found the mosquitoes so troublesome that a number of visitors, who had sprung up from the earth, apparently, had lighted a dozen smudges. In the pungent smoke we sat, listening to the lore of the lonely, and occasionally adjourning "to get out of the smoke," as one put it, until our early bedtime.

After returning to Condobolin, and our horses had been spelled, we journeyed onwards up the river, towards Forbes, for another 20 miles. Half-way out we struck another thunderstorm, and had to sit out a deluge of rain, while our horses crawled along over the slippery black soil flat. We were not sorry to find that the storm was a very "narrow" one, only sweeping along a space two miles broad, so that the going on the other side was as good as ever. We returned again to Condobolin, after having viewed some hundred miles of Lachlan country, refreshed and pleased with our experiences. The rabbits were in millions, in spite of all opposition. At the foot of a pretty green hill, we saw one large colony holding a parliament, and every rabbit in sight had a beautiful white collar. One owner, speaking of the pest, remarked that he saw rabbit and dreamt of rabbit, killed rabbit and ate rabbit—and sometimes, when he saw a new colony on the best part of his run, felt that his reason was going, because he wanted to get out and play with the rabbits. He had almost every sort of lethal device for killing the rodent, and spoke with grim joy about the tragedy at the big tank in the "back paddock," where some 20,000 rabbits had been induced to drink poisoned water, and one small heap of bones denoted where all hands had managed to skin a portion of the tally—a large, very large heap of withered carcases showing the army that were too many for the skinners. He also told us of rabbits swimming the river in self-preservation, as many other weird and, perhaps, exaggerated experiences of the adaptability of the species. We saw a patch of giant dry thistles, five acres or so, where the owner of a mob of young sheep had fattened some 2000 of them on thistle seed. We judged that many portions of the country we saw would be so rich in a season of abundant rainfall that it would be practically impossible to overstock it. We were told that, even when the country seemed bone dry and dusty the sheep fattened on the plains, licking up the trefoil seed, and seasoning the meat, with creeping saltbush. We left the Lachlan with an abiding sense of its wonderful possibilities—its stretches of grand rich country—and were gratified to hear subsequently of the possibility of a railway running along our track from Condobolin—for did we not know what a wonderful asset that land would be when peopled and cultivated?

THE WOOL TRADE.

AN IRREGULAR MARKET.

Unfavourable selling conditions have generally prevailed during the week. An irregular market, with a downward trend in values, has been reasonably met in Sydney with moderate offerings. The weekly series opened earlier this season than last. Buyers came with the news that stocks were light and supplies were needed. As the shearing season was an early one, substantial and attractive catalogues were submitted. Growers were prepared to meet the market, and a fairly satisfactory selling season seemed assured. International politics became a bit mixed, and confidence in the position was not so strong as previously. Immediately following upon that disturbing factor came the industrial troubles in the United Kingdom, and the "dear foods" agitation on the Continent; both tending to interfere with the free course of the Australian wool trade. Then war actually broke out; or, rather, Italy sailed for Tripoli; and another set-back took place. On top of those difficulties, not one of which was so serious as at first sight appeared, came the usual "bear" talk of a large prospective increase in the current season's clip.

When it was evident that these circumstances were leading to a distinctly lower basis of values, growers were not so anxious to sell, and the quantities moderated. The weekly selling season opened this year on September 4, as compared with September 26 last year. Certainly there was a week's suspension of sales last month, while auctions were held in Brisbane. Still, it was an earlier shearing, an earlier selling, and an earlier shipping season. These features would be seen clearly enough here as the result of an earlier handling of the clip; and not as a sure indication of supplies being greater during the current statistical wool year than during the previous 12 months. For the three months ended September 30 last 96,852 bales had been offered in the Sydney market; as compared with 71,620 bales during the corresponding three months last year. The exports showed an even greater proportional increase—123,991 bales, as compared to 85,284 bales, an increase of 38,707 bales. Those figures have gone forward to manufacturing centres, and since then lower limits for buyers have come to hand. Since then supplies have been steadied, and the increase in the quantity catalogued is now 7610 bales, and as only about 35,000 bales will be offered next week, as compared with 41,892 bales during the corresponding week last year, the increase tends to be wiped out next week, so far as offerings are concerned. The shipping position is also steadying, there being an increase now of 4230 bales. More significant still, so far as indicating the probable wool output, is the fact that although the shearing season is earlier by a week to a fortnight, the receipts by rail show an increase of only 16,499 bales out of 308,805; and a net increase of only 6029 bales, out of an aggregate, by rail and boat, of 345,838 bales. These figures are significant in the light of the fact that the wool output last year was within requirements, and that the indications so far are against any material increase.

The principal point, however, is the fact that while the quantities of wool now being catalogued in Sydney are on a very moderate scale, and that when sales are held in Brisbane there is a recess in Sydney, similar reasonable selling conditions are not in force in the southern markets. On Monday last, in one day over 26,000 bales were catalogued in Adelaide; Melbourne buyers journeyed to the South Australian capital, while sales were being held simultaneously in both selling centres. Certainly the offerings were light in Melbourne, but the offerings were heavy for one day's sales in Adelaide, at a time when they needed to be particularly light, and the buying power was split up. All going to show the necessity for some federal council control of the markets. It may be somewhat difficult for a federal council of wool-selling interests to be created; but surely it should not be difficult for Melbourne to adjourn while Adelaide is selling. That is one phase of the subject; and the other, as well as far greater, is that of moderating supplies when market condition are unfavourable to selling interests. If values for wool were coming down now through over-supply, through last year's clip being only partly absorbed, and through there being a certainty of an increase beyond trade requirements, then the unpleasant fact might be accepted with good grace; but when rates are coming down partly in consequence of the persistent "bear" movement, and partly because supplies are available in sufficient quantity to enable the old, old game to be played with some considerable measure of success, then it seems a pity that one side should have so much of its own way.

It is not ancient history to recall the effect of the coal strike in the early part of the 1909-10 wool year. All the elements were in evidence for "bearing" the market, and it seemed hopeless to look for any steadying factor till the coal-miners' strike seemed likely to block shipping. As soon as it was clear that wool shipments would be slow, and supplies late in arriving at consuming centres then values went steadily ahead, and woolgrowers had the most successful season that they ever experienced. The trade conditions to-day are not precisely similar; they are not so good; while on the other hand they are not so bad as to warrant the slumpy conditions that are now being forced on to the market.

THE WEEK'S OFFERINGS.

On the opening day this week two catalogues totalled 6878 bales, and the clearances at auction 5595 bales. The offerings mainly comprised average wools from the north-western and western districts, a number of which were heavy in condition; with no super lots. The scoured included some lines of crossbred skin wool. A large attendance of buyers was present, and while the Continental section secured the bulk of the purchases, the English operators were rather more active than previously. There was a good deal of irregularity in the market, and values were occasionally weaker, more especially in crossbreds the highest price for greasy was /11¼ for 22 bales 1st e of ME over Forest Vale, from Gurley.

Upwards of 9585 bales were catalogued on Tuesday by two firms of selling brokers, of which 8597 were sold at auction. The offerings comprised a large proportion of good, useful wools in fair condition, but including a number rather short in the staple. A few super lines were also in evidence. The market was active, but values generally were below the rates of the previous week, and were reported as 5 per cent. lower than a fortnight previously for merinos, except choice lots and crossbreds 5 to 7½ per cent. lower. Greasy sold to /14, which is the highest price so far reached this season, for six bales 1st w of AM over Ferndale (Blandford), 8 bales 1st e /13¾, and 11 bales 1st w /13¼, a well-bred, fine wool, of good length, in attractive condition. A line of six bales AA e and 6 bales AA h of Longarno (Barraba) sold to /13¼ and /13¼ respectively, a fine, soft, bright wool of good staple. But the /14 and /13¾ parcels were bought by Japanese.

On Wednesday three catalogues totalled 8008 bales, of which 7000 were sold at auction. There was strong competition for fine, free wools of good length at hardening rates, while wasty, short, and faulty sorts were still irregular. Crossbreds showed no improvement. The highest for greasy was /12, paid for 8 bales com w of SK over Gundry and TJB over S (Moree). There were no super scoureds in the offerings.

Two catalogues on the closing day totalled 8458 bales, and the clearances at auction 7245 bales. The offerings included a number of well-grown Riverina wools, with some fine spinning wools from the north and north-west, as well as short, medium-conditioned wools from the west. Greasy sold to /12½, paid for 82 bales sup com e of GRLY from Gurley, a super wool of good colour and in dry condition. The market was firm and without change for merinos; lambs' wool was in special demand, and crossbreds showed no improvement.

Rates current for the principal descriptions of staple may be given as follows:—

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

At the Adelaide sales on Monday last (the second of the series), when 26,000 odd bales were offered, the market was irregular; at times competition was animated, and at other times dull and dragging. The Continental buying power was not so strong as at the opening sales, while the English section was more active; the market was quoted as down ½d on good Continental wools and ½d down on the lines mostly taken by Bradford. Lambs were irregular and lower.

In Melbourne the market is on a par with Sydney, merino wools of good quality and condition selling relatively well, but skirtings and inferior-conditioned, faulty fleece are quoted ½d below last week's rates. Faulty crossbreds were very weak. The "Age" says with regard to the selection that it has "been very representative of the Riverina district, the bulk of the clip wools so far offered being well grown and in good condition, although in most instances being somewhat heavier than last year. From the Western Riverina the clip is undoubtedly in first-class order, and from this part it is several years since such attractive-looking wools were placed on the market. Included in the offerings this week was a fairly big parcel of locally fellmongered wools, but for these competition was very indifferent, and the bulk was withdrawn. Although competition this week has been rather more general, Yorkshire buyers showing perhaps more disposition to operate, yet the tone of the market has not been strong, and biddings have been somewhat spasmodic."

BRADFORD TOPS LOWER.

Our cable message of yesterday's date states that the Bradford market is weak, very little business being transacted. Spot quotations are ½d lower for sixty-fours, ½d lower for super sixties, and ½d for common sixties (merino), being 26d, 25½d, and 24½d respectively. Future quotations are ½d lower for each of these qualities. On the corresponding date last year the "bear" movement developed considerable force; the spot price for sixty-fours tops was cabled as ½d lower, ½d lower for forty-sixes (medium crossbred), and ½d lower for forties. For future delivery, all qualities of merino were cabled at 1½d below the spot prices. The course of prices compares as follows:—

SYDNEY'S MEAT SUPPLY.

At the Sydney Abattoirs during September, 185,385 animals were slaughtered, and at country and suburban private slaughter houses 71,675. Out of these 897 were condemned at the Sydney Abattoirs and 273 at the other places. The dairy inspectors report having inspected 793 premises and 25,907 head of dairy cattle in the same period, 116 cattle being condemned.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.

The museum of agricultural products in connection with the Agricultural Department is now open to inspection in the building used as a mining museum in George-street, near Dawes' Point. There is an interesting display of entomological subjects, and specimens of wheat, oats, barley, grasses, etc. Inspection is invited by the Department of Agriculture.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN CROPS.

PERTH, Thursday.

Rains averaging from half an inch to two inches have fallen in the south-west agricultural areas, and lighter falls have occurred in the eastern wheat belt. The crop prospects as a result are much brighter. This year's rainfall in Perth is eight inches below the average.

DAIRYING.

HAY.—At the monthly meeting of the directors of the Hay butter factory the reports of the manager and secretary showed that 834 cans of cream, containing 45,086lb, yielding 20,452lb of butter were sent in by 50 suppliers. Two-thirds of that quantity was exported, and the local sales amounted to £378 8s 10d. It was decided to pay suppliers 10½d per lb on the commercial test.

MUDGEE.—At the Mudgee Dairy Company for the month of September the total amount of cream received was 60,523lb, from which 26,228lb of butter were manufactured. Prices ranged from 116s to 120s per cwt. The amount payable to suppliers is £1238 9s 4d.

MOLONG.—The output of butter by the Molong Dairying Company for September was 12,420lb.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BREWARRINA.—Waratah Station, the property of Messrs. W. and T. C. Dickson, was recently sold to Mr. Martin Ryan, of Dennawan. This property is situated about 28 miles from Brewarrina, and has a considerable frontage along the Barwon River. It consisted of freehold and leasehold, and averaged 8s per acre. All property held under the Western Lease Act is increasing in value.

HAY.—The lands classification board has been spending some days in the vicinity of Hay inspecting improvement leases and 18th section leases with a view of ascertaining if they were suitable for closer settlement. They have driven over a large area of country, and have been interviewed by a number of people who desire land.

DEGRADING SYDNEY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Re "Australian's" letter in this morning's "Herald," from what I can gather "Australian" has seen a "prize-fight," and can thus confirm his views by experience, unlike some individuals who run to press and express their opinions on a sport which they have never witnessed. Yet, judging from the tone of his letter, it is not at all improbable that "Australian" went to see the contest with a fixed idea to condemn it, whether it appeared to him degrading or otherwise. I have witnessed several of these contests, and whilst admitting that they are not of a mild nature, yet to a person athletically inclined it is but a "vigorous" sport.

Your correspondent quotes an instance where a boxer met his death at the hands of another. I do not know the particulars of this case, yet we may regard the number of fatalities occurring at racecourses, football matches, and other uncondemned sports. He remarks, indirectly, of the "brutal bashings" received by Lester and Burns; yet what traces do these men show of their contests? If "Australian" wishes to condemn some of Sydney's degrading traits, let him take up the subject of the displaying and showing of indecent postcards and pictures, which are to be still seen in shop windows, and which to any clean-minded person are disgusting, and tend to drag our young men and women to a more degrading depth than ever a boxing contest would; yet he instances where Mr. Flowers prohibited a film of this nature, and condemns this gentleman's action!

I am afraid "Australian" is like Foster Fraser, one-sided; for although this gentleman designates Sydney as a city of "so-called sport" he does not refer to our commercial progress. The latter portion of his letter is bunkum, for instances can be quoted not only of spectators, but the very machine of degradation, "these brutal prizefighters," being clean-living men, and not ashamed of pulling a slouch hat over their faces for fear of recognition.

I am, etc.,

Oct. 13. P.J.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I am in full accord with the views of your correspondent, Freddie Dawes, whose letter on the above subject appeared in to-day's "Herald." As Mr. Dawes pertinently observes, there is little or no comparison between the undoubtedly brutal elements of a bullfight and a scientific, properly governed boxing contest, between trained men. As for the morals of the average modern pugilist, I personally know a good many Australian boxers, and, while some of those are churchgoers, and others, so far as I know, are not enthusiastic churchmen, still, from a moral viewpoint, they are creditable citizens—neither adulterers, drunkards, or stealers, either of a man's cash or of his reputation; and those who class the boxing confraternity en globo as an immoral ratio of the community are unfairly passing, perhaps, a pharisaical judgment on a virile, and, in most cases (apart from and including their contests and training therefor), a hard-working body of young and intelligent citizens. As one who believes in encouraging the fortiter in re principle, even in athletic contests, for the reason that I believe strenuous exercises, such as professional or amateur boxing, are conducive to the proper development of the moral and physical health and spirit of the nation, I trust the authorities will not be unduly influenced by the somewhat childish and apprehensive views that are agitating the other side of the argument. Like the Gladiator of old, the modern boxer, though his contests are carried out under infinitely more humane conditions than those of the ancient Roman arena, stands as a type of national courage, force, and enterprise; and in the case of the Australian athlete, the myriad supporters of boxing claim that its exponents are schooled in the stern virtues of self-repression and stoical endurance; and that the spirit of revenge or dark reprisal is eradicated, or non-existent in the average healthy well-trained boxer, however severe his defeat may have been.

There are, no doubt, a number of electors who, like the writer, believe that we are suffering from an overdose of petty law and interference with innocent enjoyment and sports, conferred both by the Trades Hall-marked legislators and the Wadeite regime; and I, for one, hope the boxing boom, of course under stringent supervision, will wax and flourish exceedingly, and will result in the discovery of a real "White Hope."

I am, etc., G. McA.

RAILWAY TRAVELLING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It was with feelings of satisfaction that I read your leader in Thursday's issue on railway travelling, and your strictures on the accommodation that is provided, and fully agree with the suggestion that the Commissioners appear to think the public should feel honoured by being allowed to travel at all. From time to time we hear it stated, when dealing with railway matters here, that they will compare with any system in the world. The point not quite elucidated is whether the comparison is favourable or unfavourable; one is left to view the matter generously and concede it is favourable. Leaving aside the experience of returned visitors from other lands, where railways are managed, one can deal with our own daily travelling, for 20 years, and take only a few disabilities to give point to dissatisfaction. The line I purpose drawing attention to is the suburban—Sydney to Hornsby. On Saturdays and Sundays the authorities cater for week-end visitors to the Hawkesbury, mostly groups of fishing enthusiasts, and crowded trains result; to return these tourists to the city they make no special provision; as a consequence the morning business train, always crowded with city employees, has the influx passenger crowd dumped down on them, with the result that regular season ticket travellers have to stand. This is an every Monday morning occurrence, and frequent complaints only appear to amuse the department. Another disquieting element in connection with this train is the inrush of Strathfield people, who look quite annoyed to find all the seats filled, and they obliged to stand. Considering the very frequent service they have, they should not be allowed to ride in these long-distance trains. It was always considered by travellers by this train that it was designed that it would set down passengers there only. Again, the accommodation for smokers is most inadequate, and is frequently occupied by girls and school boys. There does not appear to be any supervision; trains filled up anyhow, and despatched like so much produce. In connection with this particular morning train, a new scheme has been evolved which has already invoked a lot of wrath. Commencing on the 16th instant this train, which made Eastwood the last call before reaching Strathfield, will now make Epping the last call, notwithstanding the fact that ten people get in at Eastwood for one at Epping. To give the Eastwood people an opportunity of getting to business—not that it matters, I suppose—the train leaving Ryde is to be brought up to Epping, to leave there at 8.2 a.m., Eastwood at 8.6 a.m. The before-referred-to train running through to Strathfield to start at 8.12 a.m., and, as it reaches Sydney only three minutes after the 8.2 a.m. from there, it is only natural to assume that Eppingites will take advantage of the later train, in which case no possible convenience is conferred on them. It is quite in keeping with many brilliant achievements of railway management. The sensible and practical thing would have been to start the train from Eastwood. Again, the carriages on this line are a disgrace. Some of them look as though they were the first turned out of the workshops. Cleanliness does not seem to trouble the department. Dealing with smoker accommodation, one would think they would be considered, as, besides paying railway travelling charges, they are a further contributor to the revenue in their consumption of tobacco and cigars—therefore double contributors. The only interest the officials take in smokers is to watch narrowly for an opportunity to catch them in a non-smoker, and secure a fine, and help to swell their surplus. A few days ago, in your columns, an account appeared of a gathering of the coaching branch of the railway, in which one of the speakers, after dealing with the matter of public complaints, remarked that no credit was given for their meeting travellers wishes. Could anything be more absurd than praising men for doing the work they were expected to do, and for which they were paid. Imagine the employees in a business house lamenting that their employer did not give them credit for doing the work he paid them to do. The working of the railways only serves as an illustration to show what we might expect if all the schemes afloat for nationalisation were to materialise. The general conception is that the employees of all grades are the servants of the people, who have formed some sort of notion that the railways belong to them. The manner of the former leaves no room for doubt that they enjoy quite an opposite view.

THE LAW OF SUPPLY AND DEMAND is the one important factor which controls an article's price. The demand for is greater than the supply—hence the reason why Palmer Cord Tyres have not been further reduced. Motorists everywhere willingly pay the ruling price for these Tyres—they KNOW that the value is in them. You might buy cheaper Tyres, BUT you won't get the same wear. Price List on application.

LAND'S END TO JOHN O' GROATS ON TOP GEAR.

The "Autocar" of Sept. 9 says: "The most remarkable top gear run yet accomplished concluded on Saturday evening last, when the 45-h.p. 6-cylinder gear-box-less Sheffield-Simplex completed the journey of some 920 odd miles from Land's End to John o' Groats." The run was observed throughout by the R.A.C. Official Observer. It was practically a reliability trial, not a speed contest, and the facts speak for themselves.

CLEMENT-BAYARD MOTOR CARS. £225 UPWARDS.

All sizes 1911 Models, ready for the road, and we are advised of 50 of the last European sensation in the form of the new 4-cylinder 8-h.p. being shipped, to arrive shortly.

WHY

are so many Clement-Bayards sold? Well, for many reasons, some of which we mention here—but the vital reason—the absorbing reason—the life and death reason, is "The stuff that is in them." The wear-resisting materials, the specially-prepared metals, the critically tested parts, the guaranteed components.

A Clement-Bayard Car—small or large—has only the BEST of its kind in it; then every part is drastically tested before the assembling, and so, when a man buys a Bayard, he feels he has a machine that will stand up against hard wear—daily wear—and he knows he can trust his life to the reliability of every part.

He knows that his car will not recline at ease in the repairer's hands half its time, and he knows it will last half-a-dozen of the cheap machines being offered.

There are cheap cars being sold that are merely castings, and got up to sell—cars that it is positively dangerous to trust life and limbs to.

Another reason for the popularity of Clement-Bayards is they are without doubt the simplest of all cars to drive and to maintain, and so the ordinary man (without a chauffeur) can safely run one.

Then, owing to their lightness (and yet great strength) they are very economical in upkeep, light on tyres and naphtha.

Finally, they are 20 per cent. cheaper than any car on the market that is comparable with them for quality, finish, and reliability.

Mr. John Lee, proprietor of Lee's line of motor cars between Coonabarabran and Dunedoo, writes us:—"The 12/18 Clement-Bayard car I purchased from you last October has given me entire satisfaction. I have no hesitation in saying that it is a marvel to stand the wear and tear over rough roads. Up to the present it has covered 40,000 miles, and to-day is better than when purchased. We have frequently had as many as eleven passengers over 70 miles of rough and hilly country. No car has ever had so much ill-usage and less care. Everything is so simple, and my son (only 16 years of age) is prepared to take a full load over any road in Australia, sand and wet thrown in."

SMITH and SON, Ltd., of London, make the All-British Speedometers, that have been adopted by his Majesty the King, his Majesty the King of Spain, and most of the Nobility of England. FACTS ABOUT THE WORLD-FAMOUS MEA MAGNETO.

12 REASONS WHY

EVERY CAR SHOULD BE EQUIPPED WITH MEA HIGH-TENSION MAGNETO.

MEA insures easy and absolutely safe cranking on the magneto, as the motor can be started with a fully retarded spark.

MEA increases the speed-range of the motor, owing to its practically unlimited range of timing; without the short-comings of either it increases the maximum of speed possible with horseshoe magnetos, and permits minimum speeds heretofore only obtained with batteries.

MEA'S hot-spark in the retard allows hill-climbing on high gear, and increases power.

MEA'S Breaker Construction insures reliable sparking at any speed without speed adjustment, and with minimum wear on the contact points.

MEA is a strictly high-tension, self-contained magneto, requiring no step up coils and complicated wiring.

MEA is compact and simple in construction; it is of the smallest weight, neatest design, and requires little room. It can be placed in many cars, where there is not sufficient room for any other types.

MEA is absolutely protected against dirt and splash water.

MEA is the most accessible magneto in existence; it can easily be dismounted and remounted for cleaning purposes. No adjustments are necessary.

MEA is provided with an indicator, showing number of cylinder fired.

MEA is second to none in workmanship, and all parts are interchangeable.

MEA'S installation in place of other types offers no difficulties.

MEA is the ideal magneto in principle and design.

THE MEA MAGNETO IS EXCLUSIVELY FITTED ON ALL OF THE WORLD'S FOREMOST CARS, SUCH AS THE F.I.A.T., BENZ, DE DIETRICH, HOTCHKISS, AUSTRIAN-DAIMLER, MERCEDES, S.P.A., ETC.

DEPRECIATION, FIRST COST, AND UPKEEP.

These are the three points to be remembered when purchasing a Car. Some Cars are low in first cost, but high in upkeep. Some are high in depreciation. Some are high all round.

"STAR" CARS

are higher in first cost than some other makes, but they are low in depreciation, and low in upkeep. One reason is that "STAR" Cars are built specially for Australia. Another reason is that we keep a full stock of parts.

Mr. C. E. Henson, the well-known Cordial Manufacturer, of Maclean, Clarence River, has a four-cylinder "Star" Car, which has been in constant service. He writes, October 6th, 1911: —"Car still covers the miles in good time."

There are plenty of "Star" owners all over New South Wales, ask them for their experience. Send for catalogue.

BRITISH SUNBEAM CARS.

BUILT THROUGHOUT AT WORKS, WOLVERHAMPTON.

OFFICIAL RECORD: BROOKLANDS, October, 1911, 900 miles in 12 hours.

The 24-hours Record is held by a SIX-CYLINDER 60-H.P. NAPIER, which covered 1500 miles, or thereabouts, in that time.

A comparison shows the 30-H.P. Sunbeam's performance to be a wonderful demonstration of efficiency. Motorists who have travelled at 75 miles an hour for even five minutes will admit this. From a standing start at 7 p.m., the 30-h.p. Sunbeam Car ran without engine stop for 12 hours, averaging 75 miles per hour, including time wasted in tyre changes. Speed ranging from 75 miles to 79 miles per hour.

The Sunbeam Cars have beaten one Record after another for Hill Climb, Speed, and Endurance during the last three years.

"I'M THE BAKING POWDER you ought to use."
Dr WAUGH'S UNEQUALLED BAKING POWDER

Only HALF as much is required of Dr. WAUGH'S

A simple and most conclusive test to prove the Unequalled strength of Dr. WAUGH'S BAKING POWDER is to compare the results you obtain with using only HALF the quantity of Dr. WAUGH'S to what you use of "Ordinary" Baking Powder. Instead of a full teaspoonful to each cup, half a teaspoonful of Dr. Waugh's is all you require. This shows, not only how much you can save, but how much better a Baking Powder Dr. WAUGH'S must be. Besides the superiority in quality and purity of Dr. WAUGH'S, you gain the advantage of a considerable saving. There is nothing nicer or lighter than Bread, Cakes, Scones, and Puddings made with this—the Best of BAKING POWDERS.

Once use Dr. WAUGH'S BAKING POWDER and you will never use prepared Self-raising Flour again. It is more economical, makes the food lighter, and its purity, quality, and strength are certainly beyond question.

Ask your Grocer and Storekeeper for Dr. WAUGH'S. Try the new 6d and 1/ tins with patent lever lids. Also sold in packets.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY HENRY LUCY).

Payment of Members.—Political Spite.—London 'Buses.—Lambs a Penny Each.—Edwin Abbey, R.A.

WESTMINSTER, Sept. 8.

Some months ago, discussing in this column the bearings of payment of members, at the time not yet submitted to the House of Commons, I pointed out what seemed to me a serious danger underlying the proposal. It appeared to open up a prospect of bribery and corruption not less effective than the custom common before the passage of the Corrupt Practices Act, and free from the restraint of that wholesome statute. Whilst to some members an addition to their income of £300 or £400 a year would be exceedingly welcome, there would be scores of others to whom it would be of small consequence. They would, therefore, ingratiate themselves with their constituency by passing on to them in some attractive form the pittance paid by the State, thereby placing at serious disadvantage poorer brethren to whom the wage meant the difference between penury and competence.

Verification of this forecast has not long been delayed. The first quarter's distribution of Parliamentary wages has just been made (less income tax, as the Chancellor of the Exchequer will note with grim amusement), and one Tory member has loudly announced in the columns of the "Times" that he will divide the money among the hospitals in the borough he represents. There is no doubt this example will be followed by members of the affluent class, who find placed in their hands a powerful weapon, especially effective at election time against sitting members who may not have been in the position to be equally generous with the taxpayer's money.

During the height of the frenzy following on defeat of the Halsbury troupe in the House of Lords, one of the journals largely responsible for the plight of the Peers whom it egged on to throw out the Budget, made the hysterical suggestion that the names of the minority resisting the Veto Bill should be emblazoned in gold letters on a scroll to be hung up over the kitchen mantelpiece of the cottage homes of England. It was believed that this particular burst of hysteria had died under the shout of laughter its appearance evoked. On the contrary, it has taken practical form. An advertisement calls attention to "a neatly-printed card in two colours, measuring 12½ x 10, giving the names of the 114 Peers who voted against the Parliament Bill, and the 29 Peers called Unionists, who voted in the Government lobby. Copies may be had at 3d each, or suitably framed at 1s 3d."

Whilst "the stalwarts" as they are called, Marquises, Dukes, and a' that, including two bishops, have their names fully displayed, the titles of the 29 Peers who saved their House from being swamped by a flood of 300 newcomers, are set in small italics, enclosed in a square edged with black lines after the manner of a funeral card. It is noteworthy that the inventors of this pleasing device have not ventured to include in the list held up to scorn in the cottage homes aforesaid the names of the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Earl of Rosebery, whose assistance in passing the obnoxious measure was equal in value to any dozen of the others thus publicly branded. The demonstration is notable equally for petty malignancy and lamentable lack of humour, characteristics not infrequently co-existent.

With the opening of this month an old friend practically disappears from the streets of London. The horse 'bus, anticipating by brief period final decay of the hansom and the four-wheeler, has, like Hans Breitmann's Barty, "gone away in the ewigkeit." Possibly on the outskirts of London a few relics of private property may still trundle along. But the London General Omnibus Company, having absorbed all its former big rivals, at the beginning of this week withdrew its horsed 'buses from the thoroughfares, trusting entirely to motor traction. Gradually, but at increasing pace, there has taken place in the traffic of London a revolution second only to the upset in the House of Lords that has, amongst other things, finally riven the Unionist party. There were living a few years ago men who rode in the first 'buses that appeared on the streets. I knew one in the person of Mr. Gladstone, who told me how, when he first came to London, he rode in a 'bus from Northumberland House to Hyde Park Corner, paying a fare of sixpence. Over the waste of years memory of how "bang went saxpence" rankled in his breast. At the time he spoke he might at the price of a penny ride on cushioned seats behind a smart pair of horses from Charing Cross to the Bank.

Among the ups and downs of commercial enterprises, the London General Omnibus Company occupies a prominent position. Something less than 20 years ago, when 'buses had the monopoly of general carrying traffic, it regularly paid a minimum dividend of 10 per cent., and its £100 stock was dealt in at prices exceeding £290. In February of last year the £100 stock might have been bought at £17. It has since been up to £129, and to-day stands at £107. Bold, well-directed management has within a space not exceeding 18 months performed the apparent impossibility of dragging the concern out of the slough of despond. Resistance to the incursion of the motor 'bus, prolonged for some months, brought it to the verge of ruin. Tardily acknowledging defeat, the directors began to put on a few motor 'buses. Next they joined forces with their earlier rival, the London Road Car Company, itself staggering under the attack of the modern means of locomotion. Proceeding to buy up other motor 'bus properties, "the General" has become once more master of the situation, to the satisfaction of the shareholders and the comfort and convenience of its millions of passengers.

One of the greatest finds of the Historical Manuscripts Commission turning over old documents stored in ancient mansions rewarded their visit to Wollaton Hall, the residence of the present Lord Middleton. The musty papers flash light on the social habits of England in Tudor times and earlier. In a book of household accounts strictly kept through the year 1512, there is a list of prices that will cause to water the mouth of the thrifty housekeeper of to-day. Geese were sold for fourpence a piece. You might have choice of woodcock, chicken, or a whole lamb, the price for each being one penny. Sheep ran up as high as one and eightpence. A cow with her calf brought 15s. Drink was as cheap as meat. Malmsey wine (spelt in the account Malmyrey) was to be had at the price of one and fourpence a gallon. Sack fetched a shilling for the same quantity, and claret eightpence. Ale and stout have at this date no place in the household cellar or its accounts.

I hear a pathetic story in connection with Edwin Abbey, whose premature death left a gap in the ranks of the Royal Academy and in the hearts of many friends that can never be filled up. In addition to his house and studio in Tite-street, Chelsea, he had a charming old place in Gloucestershire, where he spent a considerable portion of the year. At Chelsea Lodge, by throwing together several rooms on the first floor, he constructed a spacious studio sufficiently lofty for working at his panels for the dome of the Pennsylvania State Capitol. In the autumn of last year, the fell disease that carried him off being as yet undeveloped and unsuspected, he was attracted by a town house with studio, the property of a well-known fellow artist, that had come upon the market. He purchased it, and for some months prior to the day he was stricken down he personally supervised the decoration of his new house, on the tenancy of which he had arranged to enter next month. He spent considerable sums in improving and enlarging a studio in which he was destined never to work.

THE LUXURY OF A BATH is incomplete without the addition of SCRUBB'S AMMONIA, which refreshes and invigorates, and is a most valuable adjunct in the home for all domestic purposes. Sold everywhere, but avoid injurious imitations.—Advt.

A WOMAN'S LETTER.

New Season Dress.

WESTCOTT (Surrey), Sept. 7.

The autumn models are hardly yet on view, and people are replenishing their summer wardrobes rather than refitting for the autumn. In Paris the great designers hold back their new creations until the fashionable folk return from the beaches, so that one can get but a meagre idea of what will be worn. I often think that both in Paris and London it is a mistake to show no new models during August and September, when so many women are passing through both cities on their way homewards. Australians naturally want the last cry in summer models, tempered with the fashions that are coming. Americans want the latest "notions" for the fall. Yet so conservative are the great French designers and modistes generally it is no use looking for the really new fashions until towards the end of September.

There seems to be a feeling for a wider skirt and more trimmings. The edge of the skirt is to be stiffened by means of a fine steel, and the slope of the skirt will be set out in a line from the waist. This, we are told, does not mean a reversion to crinolines. I don't think the fashion will go so far as that, nor do I attach much importance to the advent of a wider and more stiffened skirt. Women are very independent these days, and will probably refuse to wear even a moderately wide skirt, and the normal waist line. The line of the raised waist is so generally becoming it may not be discarded at all.

But I do think we shall have wider skirts, which will allow of more graceful movements. And it seems certain that tailors will cut cloth and tweed skirts longer. The feet will be in evidence, and the skirts will clear the ground, but the ankles will be covered. The coats will be a trifle longer, and will define the figure rather more than the summer coats have done.

Everyone says the make of the coat and skirt will be much simpler. There will be less braiding, and more stitched lines; buttons will be freely used.

I myself have just had a very useful costume made in mole alpaca, with a tiny line, a little lighter, running through it. It has the effect of a summer tweed. This is double stitched on the seams, and has on its panels rows of round-topped gunmetal buttons. The coat is below one's hips, and closes with a row of gunmetal buttons set close together, and secured by loops of pleated soutache. It is quite a success, and I have been complimented upon it.

Nothing is so useful for a summer travelling costume as alpaca. In white, for girls, it cannot be beaten, and the dust slips off, and you come out so fresh after a journey.

You will be safe for your summer attire if you continue the raised waist line, and put little frills and ruches on your best frocks. You can cut your sleeves wider at the wrist, rather like the old bell sleeve, but narrower; and the general cut may be kimono if you wish, with the new cut under the armpiece, which does away with the difficulty of raising one's arm. You will like the fashion of wearing a black chiffon blouse over cream or white lace, with a touch of colour underneath, by means of ribbon, and the various gold and silver tissues which look so well veiled in some of the various transparencies.

Altogether dress is exceedingly artistic if you can afford the costly fabrics of which the reception and dinner gowns are made. The gold brocaded gauzes—brocades in artistic designs, all veiled with ninon, or some shimmering shot effects—all tend to make this class of gown very becoming.

In your summer nothing will be more attractive than the beautiful cotton voiles, printed in soft sweet pea designs—the colouring is so soft you would think they had been handpainted. A girl I know, who will visit Sydney during an extended tour, is taking one of these gowns in the faintest shade of mauve sweet peas on an ivory ground. I have seen them in pink, and in pale blue or green. In all cases the printing of the flowers is quite lovely.

Then there are the silk crepons, which wash so exquisitely, and only need be ironed when they are damp to bring back the pristine crinkle so characteristic of this enchanting fabric. It wears marvellously well, too, and always drapes gracefully.

All tints of grey and mole are still much worn. Combined with silver under-veiling of chiffon there is nothing more beautiful.

For the rest wear white, "toujours la robe blanche," in linen, pique, muslin, what you will. In the case of white muslin use plenty of the new "roundhole" Valenciennes, which are now designed after the point de Flandre laces; very handsome, and at the same time very durable for laundry purposes.

You cannot do better than have a skirt of fine French muslin, made with three narrow frills at the foot, with a narrow apron tunic, and plain waterfall back, trimmed with broad Valenciennes. The bodice should be made with a fichu front, edged with the same lace, and a vest of plain white net, lined with chiffon. In a gown of this kind, worn with a broad white satin straw hat, lined with fine black lace, and a cluster of shaded pink roses at one side of the crown—white suede gloves, white shoes and stockings, and a rose-coloured parasol, you could do anything smart you wish to do.

I can tell you nothing about winter hats yet; but you can apply to your summer hats some of the new touches I see on the autumn modes. The ladders of loops of ribbons are put on rather as if they followed the lines of feathers. The curious rosettes are made of gathered ribbon. I made one myself, after seeing one in the window of a noted establishment. I made my rosette of broad nattier blue ribbon; I turned the edges towards the middle, leaving about 1in space; then gathered the ribbon along the fold, leaving half an inch of turning, and drew it up on both sides, making the centre smaller than the outside. This has the look at this stage of an electric light shade; but don't despair. I secured the outer edge on to wire, and made it fluff out nicely, the edge forming a little frill beyond the gathering; then below the gathering on the narrower part I put a full frill of fine black lace, which stands out over the gathered blue ribbon, forming a most elegant rosette with a circular opening.

The hat is very fine Tagal, in a pale fawn shade. I lined the brim with fine black lace from the wire inwards, having the pattern towards the head opening. I then fixed a black lace feather in position exactly in front, and secured it with my rosette. The effect is charming—quite Parisian—for the hat is a beautiful shape—large—with the left side slightly turned upwards towards the back.

These lace feathers will please you. They are so light and graceful. Be sure and allow yourself plenty of lace. It takes six yards to make a good long feather of 21 to 27 inches, and you should have a good stout satin wire. They can fall as gracefully as one of the new willow feathers. I like them best in black lace. Then again there are hats trimmed with frayed out silk, which is very soft, especially when ruched; and I think the experiment of a silk "feather" might be tried, provided you fray the silk sufficiently deep. When gathered up on a wire it would fall well. For one of this kind—I have not seen the thing I am describing—I would get some soft make of silk, grosgrain, or a good glace, and cut the piece of stuff wide enough to make a broad feather and round the ends, then fray away on each side and the end as deep as you wish. Having done this make a casing for your wire by doubling the silk in half and gather it with silk, allowing room for the wire you will insert. It must be a strong make of wire to hold the silk. Gather it carefully on the wire and regulate the fulness, and you will find you have made a very handsome trimming. Set this at the angle most becoming to you, and fasten, in the case of a white feather, with either a cluster of roses or a broad black velvet bow folded flat, without the usual "waist."

It will be a season of hand-made trimmings. I must own that I write with some degree of diffidence in advising you with reference to trimmings, for an Australian lady brought in a few days ago a gown made at a Sydney house, trimmed and embroidered so exquisitely that I felt I need make but few suggestions. But this letter is rather intended to help the amateur than give hints to professionals. The art of dress-trimming is of French origin. England knows it not. All our passementeries and dress embroideries are done in Paris or Germany. We can "do" embroidery, per se, better perhaps than any other country, on linen, serge, and other fabrics. Ribbon-work is, of course, borrowed from the French, and so is the best class of our linen work. Ireland holds her own in white work. I was told by the manager of a French house that they can safely entrust the very best French designs to the various convents and schools in Ireland, where this class of work is undertaken.

THE FIRST HOMELAND.

OUR ORIGINAL ANCESTORS.

THE CRAFT THEY SAILED IN.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

I.

LONDON, Sept. 7.

I have lately been amongst some of the ancestors of the Australian race; some of the original ancestors, that is. England itself, which colonised Australia, is really only a colony of another land which still exists. I believe there are old Scottish poems in which the old English writer speaks of quite a different country—a low-lying bleak island fringed country, on the Continent of Europe, across the sea—as the home country, just as we in Australia speak of the British Isles to-day. That must have been at the time when they still talked practically the same English as certain other lowlands up on the Baltic coast. Indeed the whole of that north-west coast of Europe was busy moving then, and perhaps some of the only half-settled families in Scotland or England would still go sailing off at times, the same as their kinsmen from across the sea, on pillaging voyages, down the coasts of Africa, or around into the Mediterranean.

In a museum in Copenhagen a few days since we saw, as any Australian who passes that way can see, the figures of two of the ancestors of Australians—a man and a woman—clothed exactly as they were some 2000 years ago—long before they even thought of colonising the British Islands; and in Christiania, in a shed behind the University, the other day we saw the actual remains of one of the ships in which these fierce old seamen carried on their explorations, crossed the sea to colonise England, Scotland, parts of Ireland, Normandy, and Southern Italy, and carried terror and death quite impartially along all the coasts of Europe, and amongst their own earlier colonists in Britain.

THE SHIP OF OUR FATHERS.

It is a ship in which some of the Vikings once sailed. It is only preserved because some forgotten chief was buried in it. They know nothing about the chief—there was no history in those days. All they know is that on the ocean side of the fiord on which Christiania lies, about 100 miles down from Christiania, near the farmhouses of Gokstad, not far from the coast, there had from time immemorial existed a large mound known throughout the district as the King's Heap (Kong's haugen). There was no history of it, except a tradition that a king was buried there with all his treasures. It was an old, old fable, come down from goodness knows when, but the people of the neighbourhood in 1880 thought that it might be a good speculation to dig the mound up to see if any treasure was left. Fortunately they were stopped from doing so by order of the Antiquarian Society of Norway, which apparently, by the good laws of that country, had some power to stop them. The Antiquarian Society did the excavation very carefully itself.

They had scarcely begun to dig when they came upon what was clearly the woodwork of a complete ship. The old tradition, that had been told to generations of children all these years had been true enough. A king had been buried there. The true story must have been handed down amongst the farmhouses from father to son for century after century from the actual time when the little crowd—women with their long plaited hair, flaxen-haired men, and children, with their swathed and bandaged leg wear—stood around and watched the ceremony in the days when Alfred was just turning the scales against the plundering Danes in England. The last relic of that tradition still lingered in the nineteenth century. They had buried this chief here by the coast with his treasure, sure enough. They had buried him in his ship.

We saw that ship a few days ago. We were expecting to see something roughly shaped, bulky, clumsily fitted with a few rough expedients. What we saw was a long, lightly-built galley, as graceful as a swan, shaped to lines as delicate as those of the P. and O. liner at Fort Macquarie. The thin bow curved away at a delicate angle, bluffed out gradually above, and curved in lightly beneath, until the bottom amidships was almost as flat as that of a modern steamship. There was no clumsy, blunt-ended stern—the same delicate lines as those at the bow swept up to the point of the stern as cleanly as in a Manly ferry boat. The light planking on the sides was studded regularly with big flat-headed iron nails—the joints were planed down so as to be barely noticeable; the stern-post was finished off along all its length with a groove and bevelling as neat as a dining-room table.

THE OFFICERS' BEDSTEADS.

There were the bedsteads of the ship's officers, five of them—very like a low wooden bed of these days, with short turned bed-posts, made so that they could be taken to pieces and stowed in the hold. There were the three ship's boats—or, rather, pieces of them—13ft, 17ft, and 23ft long; the biggest must have been nearly a third as long as the ship herself. I suppose they kept her either towing behind or turned upside down along the deck. The boats were shaped exactly like the ship—double-ended, like any modern Norwegian rowing boat. But they all had rudders like the big boat.

The big ship herself—she was 75ft long and 17ft wide—has her rudder still fixed. It was not hinged on the stern as rudders afterwards were, but on the righthand side of the ship, over the counter, a little way from the stern. It was hinged by a thick rope to a couple of big wooden buttons on the outside of the ship. The rudder itself was a stout, dumpy oar, with a very big, thick blade; the modern rudder is really the same thing, only a little more developed. They learned to stick them on to the stern of the boat a few centuries later, but at this time they were only about half way on their development from the oar stage, although there was already a tiller on this one—the tiller pointed athwart the boat instead of fore and aft. At this time the rudders were always on the righthand side of every boat—I suppose where a man could work them with his right hand. And that was why they called the right side of a ship the "steerboard" or starboard—the word comes direct to us from the time of the Vikings, only we have long forgotten its old meaning.

THE FIRST PORT-HOLE.

Down the centre of the ship, aft of the mast, exactly as you may find in a modern yacht to-day, are a couple of raised brackets on which to place spars—and there are the spars still resting on them. When the ship was sailing they must have heeled over a bit at times—so they closed up the oar-holes with wooden ports. There are the openings for the oars in the third plank from the top of the ship's side—16 holes along each side. As you see them to this day some of the ports are closed with wooden shutters, and others are open. They are round holes (miniatures of the modern porthole, of which I suppose they are really the great-grandfathers), but with a small slit running out of the top of each of them like the tail of a capital Q inverted. That slit was for allowing the blade of the oar to pass through from inside the ship whenever the order came to out-oars.

And there, laid out beside the ship, are the oars—exactly the modern shape. The same ridge runs down the centre of the blade; the end of the handle is fined off in exactly the same manner. Of course they are very long—more like the sweeps of a barge than a boat's oar, 17ft to 18½ft. But they are lighter than modern sweeps, with much smaller blades, and made of spruce. There is no question that each of them was used by one man only. But one would say he was a big man.

She was a handsome ship, no question. The two upper planks in her sides—the bulwarks—are slightly tumblehome, like the sides of a modern battleship. And along these bulwarks on the port side near the stern there are still fixed—each one half overlapping the next, so as to make a row along the bulwarks—four round shields. One had often seen them arranged so in pictures. There was evidently a row of them along each bulwark originally, for many more shields were found lying along either side of the ship. But most of the bulwarks had fallen in. The shields had big iron bosses in the centre to protect the man's hand that held them, and they were originally painted alternately yellow and black.

You often see pictures of Viking ships with these shields along their sides, at the same time when all their oars are working, not to mention the sail. In this ship at any rate, the oars could not have been used when the shields were fixed, because the shields which we saw were covering up the portholes for the oars. They were probably fixed so as an ornament on ceremonial occasions.

And that was how they came to be put there this last time, when the old chief was laid on a special bed inside a sort of strong lean-to of timbers built up in the centre of his ship. The ship had before this been floated up to the beach, and then dragged up the shore by a team of the chief's own horses, and embedded in potter's clay, which was the reason why it was so perfectly preserved. Then, with his chief treasures around him, the harness of his horses, his richest cloak, his precious weapons, and the rare bird—a peacock—which he had brought home from some long cruise down to Spain or the Mediterranean, the old warrior was buried beneath a mound of earth heaped high over the top of his ship, and the chamber by the mast, in which he lay.

PLUNDERED.

The antiquaries did not find the treasure. Somebody had been there long before them in search of that. Long ago when the story of the burial was still fairly fresh, someone, some towhaired outlaw with a friend or two, that cared as little for dead men as living, had come along, probably in the night, and cut straight down into the chamber where the dead man lay all these years in the dark, with his cloak and his gold weapons and drinking cups, and bronze and leaden horse harness around him. It must have been in the days when the people in the neighbourhood could still remember under what part of the mound the treasure chamber lay, because the robbers were in no doubt. You can see the big hole they made right through the port side of the ship, as big as a door, straight into the chamber in which they had left the old chief on his bed of state, perhaps a hundred years or two before. And when the antiquarians opened it up a thousand years later they found the dishevelled chamber just as the robbers left it. There were the bones of a very tall, big man, a man getting on in years at the time of his death; and, in a confused heap, where they had been thrown by plunderers in the hurry to get away with all that was valuable, were a few scraps of gold-embroidered silk, a shred of dark woollen cloak, a leather purse, a few harness ornaments of gilded bronze, and lead thrown aside as worthless. There was still the bed—somewhat different from the others they found in the ship—on which the old chief had been laid; and some of the feathers of the beloved peacock.

TERRIGAL.

(BY J. M. B.)

A little hamlet of a score of houses at most, nestling inside a protecting haven, and flanked by sea and beach on one side and wooded hill on the other—this is Terrigal. It is an ideal spot for a seaside resort, and some day will be very popular. Just now it is standing still for the want of a few enterprising spirits. There is money to be made in several ways by anyone who will take the trouble to make it. For instance, there is no regular means of transit from Gosford—its link to the city. Certainly one can be taken out and brought back again, but there is no regular transit at stated hours, when one knows that the coach or waggonette will start whether he be there or not. What is required is a distinct statement of times at which the coach leaves—probably run in conjunction with the mail—and the fare, say two shillings or half a crown each way, in the railway time-table book. If this little matter alone were adjusted Terrigal would go ahead by leaps and bounds.

There is good fishing, suitable for the differing tastes of sportsmen. A mile or two off Terrigal Head is fine deepsea fishing, and splendid schnapper respond. Off the rocks some good sport is obtained, the rods bringing in red and black rock cod, sea blackfish, while in the haven itself there are constant catches of red and black bream, whiting, and flathead. Some of the largest and finest garfish I have ever seen or tasted I saw hauled in on the beach. The lake, which is divided from the sea by a mere strip of beach, and which after heavy rains has to be let out through a channel cut across the beach, adds its quota to the sport. Good mullet and other fish are caught in it, and even children go prawn fishing there with their nets, and bring home quantities of fine specimens. All these make the spot attractive to the angler, while wild fowl of all sorts on the lakes—Terrigal and Womberal—are waiting for the man with the gun.

For the mother with the restless brood from school it is ideal. A long beach stretches the full crescent of the Haven, the yellow sand offering all those fascinations to which childhood and youth most eagerly repond. Shells are there in abundance, and all those wonders which are only found near the sea are to be had for the taking. To those fond of surf-bathing the beach lends itself admirably. Wide open to the Pacific, the bathing within the Haven is not dangerous, as the beach slopes so gradually and gently. A swimmer can go out a great distance without danger there, the nature of the bathing doing away with anxiety as regards youngsters, who cannot be sucked away by cross-currents, or lose their footing with sudden shelvings. Further round the beach, however, a rougher sea awaits the more venturesome, and to those whose ambition it is to be buffeted the breakers are not wanting.

And then to the artist! Most of our well-known painters have given us specimens of Terrigal from one point or another, but there are still scores of pictures to be painted from different vantage points. A bay almost in crescent shape, with miles of brilliantly gold sand outlining water sparkling from topaz to emerald, and from emerald to sapphire! Where the houses nestle, the land slopes down with the intimate green of the inland country almost to the water's edge, broken by beautiful colourings of copper-crested she-oaks, brilliant green and red-tipped scrub, and various shaded gums. Round further, where the open ocean rushes in more freely, sandhills lie capped with the stunted scrub only found near the ocean, and standing jagged and broken. It does not, however, look desolate, as in some places, for the sandhills are banked up by the rise and fall of near and more distant hills, while headland after headland repeats itself out to the horizon. Terrigal faces due east, and in the morning looks into the eye of the rising sun, which colours everything in the most delicate pinks and mauves, which are indescribably beautiful. Most of the land round the Haven proper has been reserved by the Government. This retards the growth of the place to a great extent, as it takes away a great many good building sites. A small hamlet, with a broad beach of some miles in length, does not require a reserve of all its best building sites. If for defence purposes, the headland is surely enough, and if for the people, The Skillion—that remarkably thickly-grassed headland, which leads one up gradually, and leaves one stranded, heart in mouth, several hundred feet sheer above the ocean—is all that is required.

THIRTY YEARS OF DISFIGURING ECZEMA CURED.

"Ever since I was a little girl, 30 years ago, I had suffered tortures from eczema in one of its worst forms. The disease runs in my family, and mine was of a most disfiguring kind. The eczema formed in round rings, and then scales all over my face and limbs. I have been smothered from head to foot. I was born in Leamington, which is famous for its sulphur baths and pump waters, and one would think that after taking the treatment there regularly as I did the disease would long ago have been cured, but it was not. I attended the ——— hospital for years and years, so you will see I gave it a fair trial. Everyone in the town knew of my case. When I was a girl I lived for a short time at Chapeltown, Leeds, and I was treated at a hospital there, but without receiving any benefit. My face was disfigured very badly. A doctor told me that I would never get rid of it. I spent pounds in doctors' bills, and I attended several hospitals, but nothing did me any good.

"Then, one day, an uncle of mine recommended the Cuticura Remedies. He had also been troubled for some years with severe eczema of a different kind, and had tried hundreds of different things, but nothing did him any good until he tried the Cuticura treatment. Now he is entirely cured; he uses Cuticura Soap regularly, and has no sign of eczema. I took his advice, and commenced to use the Cuticura Soap. To my astonishment an improvement at once set in, and my hair, which had been a complete mass of scales and scurf, soon began to look in splendid condition. Then I bought a box of Cuticura Ointment, and this cleared my skin wonderfully. In a few weeks' time all traces of the scaly eruptions had completely disappeared. Now my skin is clear and healthy, and thanks to the Cuticura Remedies I am completely cured of eczema. All my neighbours were astounded; they knew what a sight I was, and the manner of my cure by Cuticura Remedies was nothing short of a marvel. People often ask me how I was cured, and I tell everyone that it was Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. The Cuticura Remedies are worth their weight in gold, and one tablet of Cuticura Soap goes farther than four cakes of cheaper soaps. I shall always keep it in the house, for it has brought happiness into my home." (Signed) Mrs. Butler, 17 Francis-road, The Cotteridge, King's Norton, Birmingham, England, July 28, 1910.

REAL ESTATE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

The feature of this week's real estate market was the record collection of city properties that was brought under the hammer in the rooms of Messrs. Hardie and Gorman on Wednesday, and the great interest that was displayed in the sale by business men and investors generally. There were 13 real good properties catalogued, all returning first-class rentals, but the pick of the basket, as far as competition was concerned, was a small block of land in King-street, next to the Theatre Royal, which realised £21,000. This is equal to about £700 per foot on the frontage, but as the depth is narrow, the price works out at about £15 15s per square foot. This is regarded as one of the biggest prices ever paid for land in this city—and yet it is small when compared to the recent price paid per square foot in London, which was something in the neighbourhood of £800.

This King-street block of two shops nine years ago was owned by Mr. John Dalley, and was purchased at that time by Dr. Marks as a trustee for £15,000. The adjoining shops had, it is said, been previously sold to another buyer for £5000 each, and it was considered by some that Dr. Marks paid too much money for his proerty. But this week's events have proved to the contrary, for after the trustees had expended a certain amount of money and had received nine years' rental at £1000 per annum they disposed of the property for £21,000. Most people would say "Good business." It also shows the increase in values in nine years.

There is still a good demand for large suburban property. For instance, this week Messrs. Raine and Horne disposed of a residence with a frontage to Fairfax-road, Bellevue Hill. This property adjoins the residence of Mr. J. Russell French. It realised £4750. Another large residence which changed hands this week was a leasehold property fronting Elizabeth Bay-road, Elizabeth Bay, and overlooking the harbour. The price was £3000, and the salesmen were Messrs. Hardie and Gorman.

In addition to the big sale on Wednesday, there has been a general inquiry for city property for several weeks past. The people seem to have got over the scare caused by the imposition of the Federal land tax, and they are settling down again, and are looking for good city investments. Shop property is mostly sought after. This week Messrs. Raine and Horne disposed of three shops in George-street, Brickfield Hill, opposite A. Hordern and Sons' establishment, at a fairly good figure. The price is kept back for special reasons. Yesterday, in the rooms of Messrs. Richardson and Wrench, a shop and two dwellings at the corner of Goulburn and Nithsdale streets were passed in at £2500. Negotiations are going on for several other large city properties.

The Saturday subdivision sales are proving very successful this year, and almost daily new ones are finding their way on to the books of the auctioneers. The attendances at all the sales are reported to be unusually large. Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co. are trying to do the hat trick, and thus establish a record by disposing of every block on the plan without leaving the rostrum for three Saturdays in succession. Mr. Horning has so far got two such sales in, and he hopes to get his third one in to-day. On Eight-hour Day he sold 51 allotments at Cronulla without leaving the box. Last Saturday he disposed of 15 blocks at Centennial Park under similar conditions, and to-day he offers 26 blocks of good land at Drummoyne. It is situated about five or six minutes from the tram, and occupies an elevated position.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman last Saturday sold the whole of the Mona Estate, at Beecroft, and also the Lynton Estate, at Newtown. Both sales were very successful, and a feature was the very large attendance at each centre. To-day this firm will offer the Dalley Mansion Estate, at Rose Bay. This comprises Clairvaux, the very fine and historical residence of the late Hon. W. B. Dalley, together with an acre and a half of ground in one lot, and about 36 real good building blocks alongside. The land is situated in one of the premier positions of Rose Bay. The grounds gradually slope towards South Head-road. The area is perfect from a building point of view, and the outlook over the harbour is the advantage of every lot. Messrs. Hardie and Gorman announce a new subdivision at North Harbour, Manly.

Messrs. Raine and Horne last Saturday held a very successful sale at Rose Bay. This estate also contained the historic residence of the Cooper family. To-day the firm will submit 24 blocks of land at Moss Vale, known as the Throsby Park Estate. The land really forms one of the suburbs of Moss Vale. It is about half a mile from the railway station, and comprises real good agricultural land and residential sites. The blocks in size are from four to nine acres.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will submit to auction to-day the Cintra Estate, between Croydon and Burwood. The land, which adjoins the railway line, comprises 63 good building blocks.

Messrs. Hugh Duff and Co. will offer to-day five very choice lots on the heights of Chatswood, with frontages to Mowbray-road by a depth of over 200 feet. The land is surrounded by good property.

Those wishing to invest on the Illawarra line will have an opportunity of doing so to-day, for Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co. will submit the Regents' Park Estate, at Bexley. There are over 200 good building allotments within five minutes of the tram and 10 minutes from the Carlton Railway Station.

New subdivisions still continue to come into the market; a sale of note at Manly will take place on the 28th inst., when 40 allotments, at the top of Raglan-street, and about a minute from Spit to Manly tram, will be submitted by Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co.

THE CHURCHES.

A NEW BISHOP FOR LONDON.

The Bishop of London is to have a fourth suffragan bishop to assist him in the oversight of his vast populous diocese. Dr. William Willcox Perrin, Bishop of Columbia, is nominated for the new post, and will take the title of Bishop-Suffragan of Willesden. For nearly 20 years Dr. Perrin has done vigorous service as Bishop in British Columbia, which includes Vancouver and the neighbouring islands. He is practically unknown in the London diocese, though the Bishop of London, as president of the British Columbia Church Aid Society, knows his good work. After graduating at Oxford in 1871, Dr. Perrin was for ten years curate to Canon (now Archdeacon) Wilberforce at St. Mary's, Southampton, and afterwards held the vicarage of St. Luke's, Southampton, for a dozen years. The new appointment will considerably relieve the Bishop of Islington, who is nearly 78. He will hand over to Dr. Perrin the oversight of the deaneries of Hampstead, Hornsey, St. Pancras, and Willesden, while the deaneries of Holborn, Islington, Tottenham, and Enfield will remain in his own care. One of the old city livings usually provides means for London suffragan bishops, and the Bishop of Islington will probably resign the rectory of St. Andrew Undershaft in favour of Dr. Perrin, receiving, however, by arrangement, some small share of the stipend to meet his episcopal expenses.

With the approval of the Archbishop of Sydney, arrangements are being made by the women's auxiliary of A.B.M. and the ladies' committee of C.M.A., working conjointly, to hold a day of continuous intercession for missions in St. Andrew's Cathedral on Wednesday, November 29, the eve of St. Andrew's Day.

In delivering the opening address of the synod at St. Andrew's Cathedral, the Rev. G. H. Allnutt, rural dean of Camden and Liverpool, said:—"There can be no question we are face to face with perilous times. The Master's warning about the latter days is receiving a fulfilment: 'There shall be distress of nations with perplexity, the sea and the waves roaring, men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth.' We meet in a time of social and industrial upheaval and revolution, such as the Christian world has never before experienced. The shadow of the 'Lawless One' to be revealed seems to be already darkening the outlook. The spirit of lawlessness is growing everywhere. We see impatience of constituted authority, repudiation of pledges and agreements directly they are felt to gall in any part or run counter to desires. And this not only in industrial centres, but political parties. Oh, let us keep it out of the Church. Arbitration Courts, wages boards, conciliation boards, Coercion Acts, all have earnestly tried; all have failed, as all mere legislation, or force, must fail while such a spirit is abroad. It is too late now to assign the blame for these miseries, for the hardness of man to man as soon as he is in power, and for the failure of the Christian Church to make such a state of things impossible in a professedly Christian community."

Archbishop Kelly will receive representatives of the various religious and benefit associations connected with the Cathedral parish at St. Mary's Presbytery to-morrow.

At a special meeting of the Cork County Council on August 30, Mr. Leo. O'Gorman said he was quite satisfied he was only fulfilling the wish of the council, and the wishes of the people of the County of Cork, whom they represented, in expressing their great and sincere regret on the passing away of a very great Irishman—a Prince of the Church and a patriot, who never forgot his native land; a prelate—he referred to the late Cardinal Moran—who had at home and abroad worked in a wholehearted way for the Irish race.

Monsignor O'Haran is at present dividing his time between St. Mary's Cathedral Presbytery and St. Columba's Missionary College, Springwood, and is fast regaining his strength and vigour.

Rev. Father James Carroll, who died at Lewisham Hospital on Sunday, 1st inst., was formerly attached to the Archdiocese of Sydney, and subsequently laboured in the Rockhampton diocese. He was a brother of the late Father Carroll, of Crookwell, and had been in ill-health for some time, having only recently returned to Sydney from an extended trip to Europe.

The Rev. Father John Hearn, uncle of the Rev. Father Power, Albion Park, died at the age of 58 in St. Vincent's Hospital on October 4.

The Home Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Assembly has made a number of new appointments.

At the conference on immigration called by the Young Women's Christian Association, which took place last Tuesday, after some introductory remarks the president, Mrs. Edward Sully, voted Mrs. Jenkins, corresponding secretary of the National Council of Women, to the chair. Representatives from each society then spoke of their individual work and difficulties. Miss Meager summarised the work being done by the Presbyterian Immigration Union, in the absence of their delegates. A discussion followed, considering especially the trouble caused by a want of supervision on the voyage, by the need of a central home, with cheaper accommodation than is at present available, and by the need of an organised interchange of addresses, which will make it possible for the religious bodies to keep in touch with the girls. It was agreed that before the Government were approached on these and other difficulties the societies interested in the welfare of immigrants should co-operate in a united body to formulate their suggestions for development.

Mr. George Wilson, secretary of the Ceylon and Indian General Mission, who has figured prominently in Christian enterprises, both of the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A., is at present in Melbourne. It has been decided to invite him to hold a convention at the Young Women's Christian Association, Sydney, early in March, prior to the opening of classes, clubs, etc., in the new year. The object of this convention will be the deepening of spiritual life.

The festival services were continued on Saturday at the Great Synagogue, when the first day of Succoth was celebrated. On this occasion there was again a large assemblage of worshippers, and the officiating ministers, the Revs. Rabbi Cohen, M. Einfeld, and A. D. Wolinski, carried out the various portions. The choir rendered the incidental music. Service was also held on Sunday for this second day of the festival, when again there was a fair assemblage of worshippers.

During the recent visit of the King and Queen of England to Ireland the address of welcome from the Dublin Hebrew Congregation was presented in the Throne Room, Dublin Castle, to the King by Mr. Ernest W. Harris, LL.D., and Mr. Hoseas Weiner, the president and vice-president of the congregation. Dr. Harris subsequently attended the King's levee.

The Baptist Union concurs with the action of the New South Wales Alliance in seeking legislation for the earlier closing of hotels.

Dr. Francis E. Clark, the founder of the Christian Endeavour movement, is making arrangements for another tour of the world.

"The Salvation Army is directly helping the State by raising the general character of the workmen and the people generally. That is the ground of my real admiration for the Army."—Mr. M'Gowen, Premier of New South Wales.

On Wednesday evening last an inaugural meeting was held at the King's Hall in connection with the Order of the Star in the East, which has been founded to draw together those who believe in the near coming of a great spiritual Teacher, whose mission will be the helping of the world. An extraordinary amount of interest has been taken in this movement in London, crowds of people being turned away nightly, unable to procure seats at Mrs. Besant's lectures at the Queen's Hall.

The Anglican Diocesan Synod recently concluded was one of the lengthiest yet held in Sydney. It occupied six days, and during that period many interesting subjects were debated. The Archbishop's address, besides touching upon the business of the synod, voiced the protest of the Anglican community against the ne temere decree, and also reiterated his objections to the Royal Agricultural Society's show being held on Good Friday. A new departure was the introduction of missionary addresses, which coming contemporaneously with the constitution of the new Home Mission Society gave a necessary impetus to missionary activity. Though a few members held that the time thus occupied should have been devoted to the ordinary business of synod, the majority of synodsmen thoroughly appreciated the interpolation. A move in the direction of church extension was the establishment of a new parish at St. Peter's, Neutral Bay North. Three years ago local Anglicans held services in a room above a wine bar. To-day they have one of the largest and finest churches in the diocese. In order to secure a larger representation at the opening service of the synod it was decided that in future the service should be held on the evening preceding the business session. The present method of electing and appointing clergy to parishes having worked to some degree unsatisfactorily, a new presentation ordinance was very carefully prepared and submitted to synod, but was shelved by a narrow majority.

A resolution that met with approval from the other evangelical bodies was that asking the provincial synod to take steps to have all public schools opened with the Lord's Prayer. A sign of the democratic tendency of the period was the resolution that all seats in the churches should be free and unappropriated, and that a system of proportionate free-will offerings be instituted. Synod agreed to the proposal to appoint honorary canons, and the power to so appoint was left in the hands of the Archbishop. A new synod hall is to be erected at the rear of the present deanery. A resolution was agreed to protesting against gambling in art unions in connection with Eight-hour Day and hospital fairs. A protest against the ne temere decree was also passed, and a pastoral is to be issued on the subject.

A hurricane membership campaign was initiated in the Hobart Y.M.C.A. It lasted five days. In that period 250 new members were wanted, but the result was 309, thus increasing the total membership to 609.

The Presbytery of Moree has nominated the Rev. R. Scott West, of Burwood, as Moderator of the next State Assembly. Rev. Thos. Morgan, of Mill Hill, has also been nominated by the North Sydney Presbytery.

The Rev. J. C. Jamieson has been touring the Illawarra district in the interests of the Fellowship Union.

The Presbyterian Summer School, which will be at Wollongong from December 27 to January 3, promises to be a success. The arrangements are in the hands of Rev. D. M. Barnet, B.A., chairman, Welfare of Youth Council; Mr. J. S. Mollison, president, Fellowship Union; Mr. J. B. Scobie, convener, Summer School committee; Mr. Thomas Grieve, Registrar, Wollongong; and Rev. J. C. Jamieson, travelling secretary. Addresses will be delivered by Professor M'Intyre, Revs. C. H. Talbot, Hugh Paton, John Patterson, James Pattison, and Mr. W. Gillanders.

Very successful services have been held in connection with the jubilee of the Congregational Church at Gerringong. The chairman of the Congregational Union, Rev. A. H. Austin, B.A., was the preacher, and Rev. Walter Mathieson, B.A., attended the public meeting on the Monday. Thanksgiving collections totalled £50.

The Rev. N. J. Cocks, minister of Pitt-street Congregational Church, is returning from England by the R.M.S. Otway, and is expected to arrive in Sydney on October 26.

Dr. Karl Kumm, the African explorer, will probably return to Sydney from Melbourne on October 18, and lecture on missionary work in Africa.

At the monthly meeting of the general committee of the N.S.W. Christian Endeavour Union the Rev. R. B. Reynolds was elected president-elect for the ensuing year.

Mr. J. J. Virgo, general secretary of the London Central Y.M.C.A., is completing plans for a great financial canvass for £100,000 for the completion of the great building in Tottenham Court-road.

The 107th annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society held recently at Queen's Hall was a memorable occasion. The Marquis of Northampton presided, and leading ministers of all the evangelical denominations attended and delivered addresses. Since its foundation in 1804 the Bible Society has issued 229,000,000 copies of the Scriptures.

Lord Gladstone has accepted the position of president of the Transvaal auxiliary to the British and Foreign Bible Society.

The issues of the Bible during the five months ended May 31 in China amounted to a total of 1,009,000 copies, an increase of 438,000 over the same period of last year.

The tenth annual general meeting of the Religious Society of Friends in the Commonwealth has just been held in Sydney. Representatives gathered from long distances and isolated places, and an increased interest in the proceedings at the various sittings indicates a widespread awakening in the life of the society in Australia. Meetings for worship have been held for upwards of 250 years in the home land, and Quakers have been among some of the earliest pioneer settlers in Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand. The society's organisation is being developed, and settled meetings of Friends are increasing in number and usefulness. The next general meeting of the Society of Friends in Australia is to be held at Hobart in 1912.

The recently-formed Open-air Gospel Mission held meetings at Manly and Coogee on Eight-hour Day. Large gatherings listened to the Gospel message. The speakers at Manly included the Revs. T. Morgan, J. Straughen, W. J. Smith, M.A., Mr. J. H. M'Donald, and Mr. G. E. Ardill. At Coogee [illegible] William Arnott, the president of the mission, was the leader, and amongst the speakers was the Rev. [illegible] Davies, Messrs. R. Hickson, and John M'Donald. It is intended during the Christmas season to arrange for meetings at several other seaside resorts. The committee have also resolved to purchase a Gospel van and arrange for a competent evangelist. The van will be utilised for visiting outlying and newly-settled districts, especially places where religious services are not being conducted.

News of the sudden death of Mrs. Berka, president of the Adelaide Young Women's Christian Association, caused a great shock to members and friends of the Y.W.C.A. throughout the Commonwealth.

Union of the churches is still to the fore in church circles. It cropped up at the Baptist Union, when Rev. Professor Macintyre referred to the need for combination in the evangelisation of the world. On October 17 the subject will be discussed by the Congregational Union. An attempt has been made to define the Congregational attitude towards the general question of union, and to make practical proposals by which denominations that are in earnest regarding closer union may establish the fact. The "Congregationalist" states: "One thing has been made clear to those who have represented the Union in these negotiations with other Churches, namely, that although union may not be accomplished along the lines suggested, the deliberations cannot, in the long run, be fruitless. Should union ever be accomplished—and it is absurd to suppose that it will be beyond the earnest leaders of the future, especially if there is something in the nature of immediate co-operation in certain directions—it will be largely owing to negotiations which have been conducted in such excellent temper, and with so strong a desire to find some way of more effectually evangelising the land."

Arrangements have been completed to bring Mr. T. R. Coleman, evangelist at Wigan, England, to New South Wales, as State evangelist for the Churches of Christ. He will arrive early in 1912, and will hold missions at various centres throughout the State. His son, Mr. Enos Coleman, will accompany him, having accepted an engagement with the Petersham church.

Mr. A. T. Waters, of the Church of Christ, has left for Pentecost, New Hebrides, to relieve Mr. F. G. Filmer, missionary, who is returning on furlough. Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Purdy, missionaries to Aoba, New Hebrides, are retiring for health reasons, and will be succeeded by Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Goodwin.

Recently a notification was issued by the Aborigines Board that no one unmarried should be permitted to be within the precincts of the aboriginal reserves. The organisation which attends to the spiritual welfare of the natives found itself in a difficulty in consequence of this order, inasmuch as it is not easy always to obtain married missioners for the camp-visiting work. The Acting Chief Secretary (Mr. Flowers) has accordingly taken the matter under consideration with a view to arranging in some way to meet the wishes of the Australian Aboriginal Mission.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE.

SYDNEY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

At the last meeting of the council of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce, Mr. J. M. Paxton, president, in the chair, a proposal was received from London to take part in what is called a Calcutta All-British Exhibition. It is proposed to open this in November, 1912, and continue it till March, 1913.

The council discussed the matter of gauge for the transcontinental railway, and were of the opinion that the 4ft 8½in gauge recommended by the interstate expert was the most desirable. A report was received from the Comptroller of Customs forwarding a report showing the openings that exist for trade with Mexico. The matter of foreign tariffs was debated, and it was agreed that the preferential treatment being granted by outside countries to other nations made it difficult for exporters in Australia to increase their business relations with these countries, the Commonwealth being outside the scope of British treaties.

TO THE DOUBTERS.

Some people who have thought seriously of snapping up a home site at Taren Point have had misgivings as to how they will manage to get household stores, and, in the first place, building material on to the land. There's no need to worry. Kogarah and Miranda have splendid shops that are less than no distance from Taren Point (which used to be called Common's Point). The Sans Souci tram will carry all the building material for you. You have perhaps heard, too, that the new ferry from Sans Souci across to the Point will only run up to sale day on October 28th. Don't you believe it. That ferry has only just started on a seven years' journey. The first contract is up to 1918, and you will get your house built before then, and by that time maybe there'll be a bridge or a punt. If there is not the ferry will go on running. Raine and Horne in Pitt-street will tell you all you don't already know about the land, and will hand you lithos and a tasteful little booklet of views.—Advt.

HEALTH and VITALITY.

Everyone will agree as to the value of good health. The amount of pleasure to be derived from life depends upon our condition. One who is in a poor state of health, who lacks vitality and endurance, is less fitted to do big things in this world than he who abounds in vitality. While the ability to lift heavy weights, etc., is, no doubt, very gratifying to the individual concerned, it is not ESSENTIAL to Physical wellbeing.

Modern Civilisation Requires Vitality.

DO YOU POSSESS IT?

Without Health and Vitality you are at a disadvantage physically, commercially, and socially.

If you have kidney weakness you cannot retain your vitality and energy, for kidney weakness gradually, but surely, plays out the strongest man or woman, undermining the constitution and weakening the vital forces.

In this era of bustle, worry, and hard work, the kidneys are very likely to get out of order. They are not unlike a piece of complicated machinery. If over-taxed in their duties they naturally give way to the constant strain. Nature tries to get you back to health, but nature requires help.

DO YOU EXPERIENCE SHARP TWINGES OF PAIN IN THE BACK?
THIS IS NATURE'S CRY FOR HELP. TAKE CARE!

Do not neglect the warning. It means a loss to you in health, money, and enjoyment of life. To be free from trouble and to possess vigorous and robust health take

KIDNEY AND BLADDER COMPOUND HERBAL REMEDY.

This Natural Herbal Remedy renews the life and energy of the weak and inactive organs. It is specially prepared for Kidney and Bladder complaints. It makes the kidneys strong, healthy, and vigorous, and thus enables them to perform their natural functions of filtering the blood thoroughly, and thereby removes the poisonous waste products from it. When this is not properly done, these impurities remain to poison the entire system. You have to suffer if the kidneys do not work properly all the time. When the least little thing goes wrong or interferes with their action inflammation and congestion follow, often with most serious results. You should not attempt to convince yourself that this is merely a passing pain, and that you will be all right in a few days. The pain may pass off for the time being, but the organs are weakened, and the trouble will surely occur later with a renewed vigour and activity for ill. You are merely allowing your system to become clogged with poisons, preparing the way for disease, which may fall upon you when you least expect it.

Steer clear of trouble by taking TROUCHET'S HERBAL REMEDY. The diuretic or cleansing action of the Herbs tones up and reinvigorates the whole system.

RHEUMATISM, LUMBAGO, URINARY DISORDERS, STONE IN THE BLADDER, AND COMPLAINTS BROUGHT ON BY AN EXCESS OF URIC ACID IN THE SYSTEM, yield to the curative properties of TROUCHET'S HERBAL REMEDY, because it gets to the cause of the trouble.

CHEMISTS AND STOREKEEPERS, or DIRECT FROM THE AGENTS. PRICE, 2/6 per Packet.

MOTOR NOTES.

THE DUST PROBLEM.

With the approach of summer comes the usual old-world complaint of the "dust nuisance." In Australia, as in Europe and America, the motor car is blamed for breaking up roads and for making them impassable to pedestrians by reason of the dust they raise. The motorist can repudiate the charge of breaking up the roads; but he is undoubtedly the cause of raising clouds of dust wherever he goes.

In Great Britain, from the earliest days of motoring, the inherited prejudice against anything new gave an excellent opportunity of fixing on the motorist scores of sins he never committed, and amongst the most grievous crimes was that of road-destroying. When a road got deeply rutted by continual passage of narrow iron-shod vehicles, and when the horses had broken the surface into holes with their hoofs, the local community raised a loud voice against the motor, and although it was plain to any but a prejudiced mind what was the real cause, the motorist was blamed, and every art and influence employed to lay upon him a tax to make good a road which he never damaged.

It is really marvellous that men of intellect and men occupying public positions should have allowed themselves to be biassed by the prevailing prejudice. It is, nevertheless, true that such men were found to head petitions and deputations with the object of taxing motor cars out of existence. People in this country, where class distinction and conservatism are scarcely known, and where freedom of thought is greater than in the old country, cannot realise to what an extent the prejudice obtained. The writer was on one occasion called as a witness at some local sessions where a man who had been driving a horse and trap sued a motorist because his horse took fright and overturned when passing the motor car, and although the local police acknowledged that the man rarely drove home other than in an intoxicated condition, the Judge summed-up with the remark that "he was a carriage man himself, and understood the danger of driving on high roads in these days with so many motor cars about," and gave the verdict for the plaintiff, with costs, although I am quite certain the motorist was in no way to blame for the accident.

This crusade against motor cars as destroyers of the roads was maintained up to the last two years, and culminated in the present Chancellor of the Exchequer imposing a "petrol tax," a portion of the proceeds of which is promised to be devoted to road improvement. This tax, although somewhat unjust, has been "swallowed" by the motorist, as he knows the improvement of roads will be to his advantage, whilst now that the public have attained their object, one at least of the forms of prejudice against motor cars is dying.

The dust nuisance is undoubtedly one requiring a remedy, and it will receive more attention in this country as residences and private gardens on main roads increase. The nuisance is most keenly felt by the private resident who has a beautiful home and garden made almost uninhabitable by passing motor cars, whilst the humble cottager on the wayside has much to complain of. In this country there is considerably more dust than in Europe, chiefly because so many roads here are not "made" roads, whilst those which are supposed to be macadamised are but poor specimens, due, no doubt, to the difficulty of obtaining suitable metal locally.

Attention has already been drawn in this column to the bad state of our local roads, which could be considerably improved with no more expense than at present. Several correspondents have pointed out how the main roads have deteriorated since they have come under the shire councils, and how one shire is so much ahead of its neighbour in road maintenance. This latter complaint is heard to-day in Great Britain, where one shire or county has excellent hard roads, and its neighbour bad and soft roads. Parsimonious grants or fear of initial outlay is the primary cause of bad main roads, and, like many other necessary works dealt with in a like manner, it is the most expensive in the long run, as the badly-made road requires continual repair and never gives any satisfaction. A true macadam road is made entirely of metal, without any loose binding, and it is rolled until it has a perfectly smooth surface. When mud, sand, etc., are used for binding, the road will never remain long unbroken, as so soon as the surface dries the binding works loose, leaving crevices into which the horses' hoofs get, and break away the metal; and once started a hole will attain a considerable size in a day.

In the South of England, where Scotch or Welsh granite metal is expensive, the main roads for some 50 to 60 miles around London have been "tarred," and this has been found the finest preventive of dust. The initial outlay is greater, but it is a cheaper method in the end, and has the advantage of always being a splendid, smooth, dustless road. Thousands of motor cars travel on these roads daily, yet there is never a complaint about dust, and the pedestrian can walk the road in comfort.

The method of repairing roads in this country cannot be too strongly condemned, and it is remarkable that the various authorities do not see the absurdity of the system. To send a gang of men to fill up holes with loose metal and soil, in the hope that vehicular traffic will roll it in, is too foolish for words; whilst the laying of long stretches of the whole width of the main road with loose metal is equally bad. What is the use of this method, when every horse and every motor car that passes is undoing the road repairer's work as fast as he does it. The writer took special note of this foolish method a few weeks ago on one of our most frequented main roads; hundreds of small and large holes had been filled with ballast, and patches of a hundred yards of the whole road spread over with the same material. Scores of the holes had been entirely scooped out, and the ballast scattered in all directions, to the inconvenience of cyclists and pedestrians; whilst those portions entirely covered with loose metal were circumnavigated by every vehicle driving on to the roadside. A week later, when passing over the same road, the same holes were in evidence, as bad as ever. Much of the ballast had worked to the side of the road, and the remainder was lying loose and in the road of every passer-by. In labour alone a considerable sum of money had been uselessly thrown away, whilst the cost of cartage and metal—no inconsiderable amount—was wasted. Had a steam roller or even a horse roller been used as soon as the holes were filled, a permanent job would have been made, and the money spent to some advantage.

Our main streets in the suburbs are treated in an equally absurd manner. The tramways are repaired, and then the sleepers are filled in with loose metal and left to take "pot-luck," but no attempt is made to "bed" in the ballast, with the result that loose metal is eventually thrown all over the road. Bad holes in the streets are filled with loose ballast in the same manner as on the main roads, all to no purpose, as the holes remain and the ballast becomes a danger and nuisance to the community.

A motorist coming down Glebe Point-road last week found himself in the deep holes between the tram line sleepers, and had to be hauled out by some scores of willing helpers. His accident was really due to the careless methods adopted by the road repairers, who excavate and deal with the main streets with utter disregard to the safety of road users. On the left of the road were heaps of ballast marked by a small red flag on the first heap, which the motorist said he saw plainly, thinking the first was the only obstruction. He got on the tram lines, and when about twenty yards further on he saw a small green flag between the two pairs of lines, and before he could pull up he was in the holes between the sleepers. In any other community but this, or had the trams been privately owned or even municipal, greater care would ahve been taken to prevent a vehicle entering upon that portion of the tram line which was under repair. When a tram line is undergoing such repairs as to make it dangerous to other vehicles, particularly when it is seen that the trams themselves are running over that section, it is only reasonable to expect a man with a flag to be placed at each end of the section under repair to warn other users of the road of the danger.

Although it cannot be expected that the main roads and streets of this country should be perfect, it is, nevertheless, obvious to even a casual observer that much could be done to improve their present state, whilst the money expended is not laid out to the best advantage.

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT.

There is no doubt about the curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which is the best, safest, and most reliable cough medicine you can take. For harsh, hard, chronic coughs it is a splendid cure. Easily taken, and it quickly relieves and cures the most obstinate cases.—Advt.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.

DEATH OF MR. WALTER HALL

SPORTSMAN AND PHILANTHROPIST.

THE HORSE WITH THE GOLDEN SHOES.

With the death of Mr. Walter Russell Hall, which took place at his residence, Wildfell, Potts Point, yesterday, there passes away another of our old Australian identities, one who was a pioneer of this country, and whose name was a familiar one from one end of Australia to the other.

Mr. Hall's death was quite unexpected. Since 1873 he had been a member of the committee of the Australian Jockey Club—in our racing world no man was better known—and he was to be seen at Randwick on the occasion of the recent Spring meeting of the A.J.C., following the racing with the same keen interest, the same enthusiasm, as he had displayed all his days. Despite the fact that he was in his eighty-first year, he appeared to be in excellent health, and his sudden demise was unlooked for. But he suffered with his heart, and yesterday he had a seizure that proved fatal, death taking place at his home at 1.30 p.m.

If the name of Walter Hall was a familiar one in the sporting world, it was no less familiar in the broad fields of charity. When last year he celebrated his eightieth birthday he distributed several thousands of pounds among the charitable institutions of New South Wales and Queensland. But he asked that there should be no public mention of the fact. The act was characteristic of the man. He had accumulated a large fortune, and quietly and unostentatiously he gave of it to his fellows. Though he had not entered the political arena, he was prominently identified with many of our public movements. When on the occasion of the Boer war Australia sent her contingents to South Africa, and a public fund was opened in Sydney in connection therewith, Mr. Hall gave £5000 to the fund, with a promise of more if it were required. When, not long ago, the Dreadnought fund was started by the Lord Mayor of Sydney, he gave £10,000 to it, so that the Dreadnought Farm and the Naval College owe something to his generosity.

Mr. Hall was born at Kingston, in Herefordshire, and came to Australia when quite a young man, arriving in Sydney on February 14, 1852. Australia was young then. It was only in that year, a few months after he came here, that the first steamer—the Chusan—arrived from England. It was in that year that the Government of New South Wales offered a bonus varying from £6000 to £20,000 for the establishment of a monthly line of steamers to England. Mr. Hall lived to see Australia grow from little things to great. He was not long in Sydney before the gold fever seized him, and he went to Victoria. Another man who went to the Victorian goldfields about that time was the late Mr. James Rutherford, of Bathurst, the father of the famous coaching line of Cobb and Co., who died quite recently. The two met and became friends.

The means of communication in those days were such that Rutherford, the young American, quickly saw the opening that presented itself, and he gave up the search for gold for the more certain rewards of a practical business scheme. Hall, the young Englishman, threw in his lot with him. These men started the wheels of Cobb and Co. running. They linked up the scattered populations; they gave speedy communication between town and town; they made roads over country where were no roads before. Their coming to this country was the beginning of a new era.

Mr. Hall could tell stories of those days of adventure such as few men could. They were thrilling times, and coaching was a hazardous business. Bushrangers like Gardiner and Gilbert, Morgan and Dunn, and Ben Hall were the scourge of the country. The sticking-up of the gold escort might take place at any time. In Victoria Captain Melville, and in Queensland Macgregor, the "wild Scotchman," struck terror into the hearts of travellers.

Among other things that Mr. Hall remembered was the day when Mr. Cameron, a storekeeper at the Woolshed, New El Dorado—the first member of the Victorian Legislative Assembly for the Ovens—rode into Beechworth on a horse called Castor, shod with golden shoes, the weight of each shoe being 7oz 4dwt. That was in 1856. The horse belonged to a Mr. Brown, of Wagga, who was in Beechworth at the time.

Cobb and Co.'s coaches paid their way handsomely, and the proprietors made money. Mr. Hall came back to Sydney, and here most of his life was spent, though he was a frequent visitor to other States. Money makes money, and, following up his successes with wise investments, Mr. Hall soon became a wealthy man. He was one of the original owners of the great Mount Morgan mine in Queensland. In our commerce he played no small part. He was for many years a director of the Sydney Meat Preserving Company and of the Mercantile Mutual Insurance Company, of which Mr. Kelso King is general manager. Mr. King was one of his most intimate friends. He was valued alike for his sound knowledge of affairs, his public spirit, and his many fine personal qualities. As one who had known him put it, he was "a true sport and a true friend."

Mr. Hall married Miss Kirk, the daughter of the late Mr. George Kirk, a Victorian pastoralist, who survives him. He leaves no children.

The body is to be taken to Melbourne for burial, leaving Sydney to-morrow.

THE LATE WALTER RUSSELL HALL.

THREE SHIFTS FOR WHARF LABOURERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In regard to wharf labouring, I would suggest that this class of work be brought into line with all other kinds of labour—that is, three alternate shifts of eight hours, with half-hour for crib included, say, at 1s 6d an hour, and no overtime. This would give the thousands of men in this union a chance to get an honest living, instead of the rule in vogue at present, whereby many are making five and six pounds a week, while others only make a pound and thirty shillings a week. It would also be an incentive to keep men at home, instead of hanging around hotels and drinking their earnings that are wanted at home for their families' comfort, as they would know exactly what time they were wanted to go on shift.

Oct. 13. I am, etc., UNIONIST.

THE WINNER OF THE KING'S.

Armourer-Sergeant H. Motton, this year's King's Prize winner, is one of the best-known riflemen in Australia, having been intimately connected with marksmanship for many years. This is the second time he has won the blue riband, the previous occasion being in 1905, when he came from Charters Towers to compete in the N.R.A. meeting at Randwick. He secures first prize, £100 and gold medal.

Attendance at school for two hours on an half-day will constitute attendance. A certi fied register is to be kept, and information t be given as to the attendance of scholars.

When the Minister is satisfied that a chil is obtaining efficient instruction at home o elsewhere he may grant an exemption ticket; or when poverty or other conditions make it necessary that it should be given he may grant it.

Any person employing a child in any labour by way of a trade or for purposes of gain during school hours will be liable to a penalty of 40s, unless it is proved that exemption has been granted, or that the child has received an education certificate, or that the child is over 14 years of age.

In prosecutions for persistent truancy the Court may order a child to be sent to an institution set apart by the Minister for the treatment of such cases, where the child will be detained until it is 14 years old, or until released on license by the Minister. The Crown will be empowered to recover the cost of maintenance in the institution when the parents are able to pay. Power will be given to persons authorised by the Minister to accost and detain a child not over 14, or apparently not, who is apparently not attending school, as required by the Act, or who is apparently employed in any labour, for the purpose of obtaining the child's name and address.

IN GAOL.

DENMEAD'S TREATMENT.

THE INQUIRY.

The inquiry was continued yesterday before Judge Edmunds into the allegations of ill-treatment of Joseph Henry Denmead, a prisoner in Darlinghurst Gaol, who is serving a sentence of five years penal servitude for breaking and entering.

Mr. Robison, of the Crown Law Office, appeared for the Comptroller-General of Prisons: Mr. Knox, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Macnamara and Smith), for Dr. Palmer; and Mr. R. D. Meagher and Mr. H. Hourigan, for Denmead; and Mr. D. Levy, for Warder Wallace.

John M'Kowne, Acting Governor, Darlinghurst Gaol, related a conversation which took place when prisoner was questioned by Dr. Sinclair about the trouble he was causing. The doctor told Denmead that if he continued he would wind up in an asylum. Denmead replied, "You can't put me in an asylum, doctor. If you did I would clear out in an hour." Prisoner also remarked that he had had his senses all the time, and knew what was going on. Witness said, "Prisoner works very well, and his conduct is good." Denmead had also said at the interview that his head was sometimes peculiar, but if left alone he got all right. Sometimes he would have to lie down for two or three days.

To Mr. Meagher witness explained the fact of Denmead not having a mattress whilst in the observation ward, that it was on account of his dirty habits. When prisoner arrived at Darlinghurst from Parramatta he appeared dazed, though apparently in good health. Prisoner was undoubtedly in a weak condition, but witness did not agree with the evidence of a previous witness that Denmead was pale and emaciated.

Warder Lawson said that he was in the observation ward on July 13. Warder Wallace said to witness: "This man Denmead has made a mess in his cell again." Then Wallace called two prisoner attendants, one of whom was Hounibal. Wallace went into the cell with one of the attendants. He called witness, and said, "Look here." Wallace had hold of Denmead. There was no struggling. Subsequently Wallace gave instructions that prisoner was to receive a warm bath. Witness said it appeared to him that Warder Wallace wanted him to be a witness.

To Mr. Meagher: Witness said that if it had been a warder in another part of the gaol he would have reported the matter. Warder Wallace was, however, his superior officer. Wallace had also told him that he had the authority of the visiting surgeon.

Warder William Chapman, who was in charge of the observation ward, said that prisoner appeared to come round suddenly on August 5, when he jumped up, and struck a fighting attitude. Previous to that he had been very shaky in his limbs.

To Mr. Meagher: Witness said Denmead used to "cry out" when the battery was applied to him.

Warder Achurch stated that on August 6 he said to prisoner: "Well, Denmead, you have chucked the game up?" "Yes," replied Denmead. "I was only 'kidding.' I'm all right."

T. R. Iceley, examined by Mr. Meagher, stated that in his capacity as visiting justice he saw Denmead at Darlinghurst Gaol. Referring to prisoner's condition a few days before the inquiry at the gaol witness said: "I had never seen a man in such a state before." Denmead's eyes were shut. He was shaking and in an emaciated condition, and apparently on the verge of collapse.

To Mr. Knox witness said he was very much surprised to know that Denmead had been "kidding."

The inquiry was adjourned until Tuesday next.

VERDICT OF INCENDIARISM.

The circumstances surrounding a fire at 125 Abercrombie-street, Redfern, on Eight-hours Day, led to an inquiry being held yesterday at the City Coroner's Court by Mr. Murphy. The house, which is the property of William Baser, was used as a restaurant, and occupied by Elizabeth Ann Branson and Walter John Branson, who were present in court. The contents of the house were insured in the New Zealand Insurance Company, which was represented by Mr. Bell.

Richard Frederick Lewis, a cook, who had a room at the restaurant, said he had arranged to go to the races with Walter John Branson on Eight-hours Day, but owing to being delayed by work, he did not return to the restaurant till Branson had left. The front door was locked, and when he knocked he could get no answer. He then thought he would climb the fence and get into his room by the window. He was just going to climb in the window when he saw Mrs. Branson in his room, who told him to go to the front door and she would open it. She did so, and he got dressed and went out. He did not observe any signs of fire, but on returning at night was told the place had been on fire, and the clothes at the foot of the bed in his room were burnt. He had never found the door locked before.

Mr. Bell: What was Mrs. Branson doing in your room; was she working?

Witness: There were no signs that she had been working.

Christopher George Digby, an officer in the district fire brigade, said that when the engines arrived he rushed into the middle room on the first floor, and got to the window, which was securely covered with two blinds. He tore the blinds away, and pushed up the window. Thick smoke was coming from the front room, and the men made several attempts to get in before succeeding. The fire was chiefly in the front room. In the back room he found two burnt-out fires on the foot of two beds, and in the centre of one of the beds was a half-used safety match. Three bottles, one of benzine and the others of methylated spirits, were found in various parts of the house. Evidence was further given by another witness, who found five different fires. Three different rooms had been alight, and there were two other origins of fire, one under the stairs and one on a shelf, where was a bottle of benzine. There was no connection between any two of the fires.

Mrs. Branson said the contents of the house were insured in the New Zealand Insurance Company for £150, and the clothing for £50. Her reason for going to Lewis's room was that she heard a noise and went to investigate it.

The coroner returned a verdict that the fire was wilfully and feloniously caused by some person or persons to him unknown.

LAW REPORT.

IN CHAMBERS.

(Before Mr. Acting Justice Rich.)

ALLEGED BREACH OF THE LIQUOR ACT.

Sheridan v Willmott.

Mr. Pickburn, instructed by Mr. J. V. Tillett, Crown Solicitor, appeared for the complainant, Senior-sergeant Richard Sheridan, in support of the appeal; and Mr. Cowan, instructed by Mr. F. C. Petrie (agent for Mr. D. Cowan, of Taree), for the defendant, Robert Willmott, to oppose. This was an appeal from the decision of four justices of the peace at Wingham on September 6 last. It appeared that defendant was charged that he, not being the holder of a license under the Liquor Act, 1898, authorising him to sell liquor, carried whisky about for sale on April 25 in the main part of Manning-road, near Washpool, in the Manning River licensing district. He pleaded not guilty, and after hearing the evidence the members of the Bench dismissed the information on the ground that they were not satisfied from the whole of the evidence, including the examination and cross-examination of Senior-sergeant Sheridan, Constable Moore, and Mr. Burney, and after reading the exhibits, that the liquor mentioned in the information was carried about by defendant for sale. Complainant now appealed.

His Honor: I have read the special case, and I do not see any point of law in it.

Mr. Pickburn said that as far as the Crown was concerned the point was whether the magistrates could find a particular fact without any evidence to support it. By the proviso to the 99th section of the Liquor Act the onus was thrown upon the accused of proving that he was not carrying the liquor about for sale. The evidence of the police showed that defendant gave a lot of contradictory answers as to his possession of the liquor, and there was no evidence on oath from which the magistrates could say that defendant had proved that he had not possession of the whisky for purposes of sale.

The case was referred back to the magistrates to state whether there was any evidence upon which they could find as they did.

MOTOR AND BICYCLE.

Lovedee v Hanson.

Mr. King, instructed by Mr. P. B. Colquhoun, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. W. D. Schrader for the defendant. This was an action brought by George Shirley Lovedee, of Mosman, carpenter, against W. G. Hanson, financier, of 51 Hunter-street, Sydney, to recover compensation for injuries sustained by him on Sunday, August 6, on the Spit-road, Manly, through the alleged negligence of the defendant in the control and management of a motor car, and for the detention of a bicycle. He claimed £25 compensation, £1 for the bicycle, which had been detained by the defendant, and the return of the machine, or its value, £10.

Defendant denied negligence or the detention of the bicycle, and pleaded that the machine was, by plaintiff's consent, taken to be repaired, and had been at his disposal ever since.

His Honor gave a verdict for the defendant.

THE SALE OF AN HOTEL.

Whitehead v Greevy.

Mr. Horace De Lissa, instructed by Mr. G. Banks Smith, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. G. J. Barry for the defendant. This was an action brought by Joshua Stansfield Whitehead against Thomas Greevy to recover the sum of £63 15s, claimed to be due to the plaintiff as commission on the sale for the defendant on June 20 to Edward Percival of the Glen Hotel, corner of Liverpool and West streets, Darlinghurst, for the sum of £1550. Plaintiff charged 5 per cent. on £1000, and 2½ per cent. on the balance. The defendant denied his indebtedness, and stated that he did not know plaintiff in the transaction at all. Defendant, in his evidence, stated that the first time plaintiff saw him about the hotel was on the 26th June, after the contract for sale had been completed. He said that witness owed him commission for the sale of the hotel, and after asking him for his name he told plaintiff that he did not know him in the matter, and that the sale had been effected through the agency of one Davis, to whom he had already paid commission. He never gave particulars of the hotel to plaintiff or anyone else, and he never knew plaintiff until the 26th June.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Backhouse and jury.)

Mr. Herbert Harris, Crown Prosecutor.

A BIGAMOUS MARRIAGE.

Charles Edward Moss, middle-aged, pleaded guilty to having bigamously married Florence Elizabeth Packer in April, 1911, he having been married to Amelia Elizabeth Stevens in March, 1897.

Mr. J. W. Abigail, who appeared for prisoner, submitted certain facts showing that Moss was not altogether responsible for his actions. Fifteen years ago Moss struck his head on a rock whilst diving, and since then had been a patient at several hospitals. Witnesses testified to prisoner's mental condition, and Moss was remanded for sentence.

ACQUITTED.

William Candy, a youth of 17, was charged with breaking and entering and stealing in the dwelling-house of Robert Little, at Sutherland, on August 16, 1911. The charge was altered to stealing from a dwelling, to which accused pleaded guilty. Candy was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour, sentence being suspended under the provisions of the first offenders' clause upon his entering into recognisances to be of good behaviour for 12 months, and making restitution.

Mr. J. W. Abigail was for the defence.

NOT GUILTY.

Charles Anderson, a young man, was charged with stealing two horses, the property of Walter Jones, at Newtown.

The Crown alleged that accused, who was employed by Jones, proprietor of livery stables at Newtown, was told to take the horses to a paddock at Bankstown. The Crown alleged that one of the horses had never been put in the paddock, and in respect of the other Anderson said he had exchanged for it a turnout with the prosecutor.

Accused was found not guilty, and discharged.

THE COUNTESS'S JEWELS.

A young man, named William M'Mullan, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with having on September 23 stolen in the dwelling-house of John Ure Smith a purse, two finger rings, a foreign coin, and money to the extent of £4, the property of Francis de Cisneros. Accused also pleaded guilty to having stolen in the dwelling-house of William Foster, at Manly, on September 24, several articles, the property of James Ernest O'Rourke, and other property belonging to William Langton Sargent. The finger-rings and foreign coin and £4 were, it was stated, stolen from the Australia Hotel. The owner is the husband of Signora de Cisneros, of the Melba Opera Company.

M'Mullan was remanded for sentence.

SENTENCED.

Sidney Quill, convicted of assault and robbery, was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment in Darlinghurst Gaol, sentence being suspended on sureties being found for two years' good behaviour.

Alexander Bowling, convicted of assault, with intent to rob, was sentenced to two years in Bathurst Gaol, leave being given to prisoner to petition after serving eight months.

Patrick Summers, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing in a dwelling, was sentenced to four months' imprisonment in Darlinghurst Gaol.

Kendrick Hampson, found guilty of robbery with violence, was sentenced to three years in Bathurst Gaol.

Alfred James Joseph Pepper, convicted of indecent assault, received a sentence of 15 months' imprisonment in Grafton Gaol.

Thornton Hosking, who had pleaded guilty to larceny, was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment. His Honor said he would recommend prisoner's release as soon as certain arrangements regarding restitution were carried out.

A. M'Donald, steamer Cape Finisterre (two cases); J. Gaunt, steamer Morea; and C. H. S. Tocque, R.M.S. Mongolia.

At the Water Police Court on Friday, before Mr. E. L. Maitland, S.M., Eric Schrieber, 27, a German, was charged with importing five tins of opium, suitable for smoking. Mr. J. T. Donohoe, Customs-officer, said the accused was a storekeeper on the steamer Coblenz, and on coming ashore from that vessel he was searched, and the opium was found upon him. The accused, who pleaded guilty, was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour.

BUYING BROKER CHARGED.

At the Water Police Court on Friday, before Mr. E. L. Maitland, S.M., Charles A. Hinds was charged with stealing £41 1s 4d, in money, the property of Albert Robert Wilkinson and another. Mr. D'Apice appeared for the prosecution. Evidence for the prosecution was to the effect that accused, who was described as a buying broker, went to Mr. Wilkinson and, after certain negotiations, it was arranged that he should purchase a quantity of cocoanut butter for resale, accused representing that he could buy at 2s per lb, and sell at 2s 1½d. The butter was bought at the price stated, and paid for by prosecutor's firm, and accused sold it for 1s 10d per lb, and collected the proceeds, which he had no authority to do, and had not since accounted for the money. He was committed for trial, bail being allowed.

The same accused was committed for trial on a charge of stealing £32 18s 2d, the money of Albert Robert Wilkinson. In this case the article dealt in was ginger, which, it was stated, in evidence, accused said he could buy for 6½d per lb, and sell at 7¼d. According to the story for the prosecution, accused bought the ginger at the price stated, and sold it at 5d, and, further, had collected the money (£32 18s 2d), which had not since been accounted for.

RELIGION IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Somebody has been so kind as to mail me the "thirty-first annual report of the committee appointed to carry into effect the resolutions passed by the synod (Church of England) on the subject of special religious instruction in Public schools."

I sincerely trust that I am far removed from that narrowness of sympathy or of view which could allow me to regard without deep concern the failure of any religious body to realise its ideals. To me, the report is very sad reading; and there are some parts of it that should—wherever the religious spirit is not already fled—rouse the Church of England like a trumpet-call.

And, first, the general apathy has been found to be so great that the words of the third annual report are quoted as still "appropriate at the present time." Here they are:—"The committee are reluctantly compelled to avow their conviction that, unless a more lively and persistent interest in this work shall be shown by members of synod, in recess as well as in session, and by members of the Church at large, the work itself must languish, perhaps even be finally abandoned."

And what makes present apathy more disconcerting is that the salve to the public conscience that was provided by the knowledge that at least general religious instruction was given by the teachers is, it seems, less available now than in the past. For "the time formerly given by the State teachers to general religious instruction is now, to a large extent, devoted to the teaching of history civics and morals."

A quotation is next made from the report of the original committee, in order to show how far the actual work that the present committee finds it possible to accomplish falls short of the ideals which supplied the first inspiration:—"The committee is of opinion that the Church of England ought to be satisfied with nothing short of effectively occupying the entire time sanctioned by the Public Schools Act, and thus securing for each child the opportunity of regular and systematic religious instruction daily, if possible."

Though the returns from the clergy "are more complete than they have been for several years," still, "in some schools it must reluctantly be assumed that no special religious instruction is given, for the rectors of 20 parishes have failed, after repeated application, to furnish any information." As a consequence, out "of the 45,000 children of the Church of England in attendance at the Public schools, only 29,000 receive any religious instruction; and these generally but one lesson a week."

Let me repeat—my intention is not in the least polemical. I have no desire, in anything that I have written, to catch Protestantism "in the slips." Indeed, I imagine that the committee should benefit financially by the publicity thus given to their report. But I do feel that the above facts should only need to be stated in order to open the eyes of the public to the awful absence of provision for the religious training of the young. And, if it be contended that we Catholic priests make few visits to Public schools for the purpose of ourselves giving religious instruction, I shall have no objection to deal with that fact, once the general deplorable state of things is admitted. At this stage, it could only distract attention from the great central scandal.

But here we are in the twentieth century, with the floodgates of religion and immorality opened, and striving, with Dame Partington's mop, to keep out the Atlantic. And may I be allowed to say—for I do not mean it unkindly—that, for many, the only reason for not applying a solution is simply lest Rome should benefit. As if we had not shown during 30 years of fruitless opposition that we, at any rate, are able to go alone, and that our educational position is now impregnable. Are not Protestant Prussia, Protestant Holland, and, above all, Protestant England, able to safeguard Protestantism? And yet they have adopted the solution we suggest—one which will save Protestantism from disintegration, and Christianity itself from being submerged—as it is being submerged—by materialism. Under such circumstances, it is unspeakably sad to find the Sydney Synod bothering itself about the Ne Temere, on the ground of its opposition to certain marriages, while the far more pertinent question is unsolved:—Are the men and women of the coming time going to have any belief in the marriage-tie at all?

I am, etc., M. J. O'REILLY, C.M.

An undigested meal does not contribute to the nourishment of the body, and the majority of mothers give their children too much food and a vast deal of indigestible food. WHAT THEY THINK IN GERMANY ABOUT BEALE High-Grade PIANOS.

The London "Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review," an important trade journal published in Great Britain, says (July, 1911):—

"A Hamburg trade journalist, who has just returned from the Antipodes, states that the pianos manufactured by the Beale Company in Sydney greatly resemble in touch and in tone those turned out at the best German factories. The Beale is sold at forty-five pounds and upwards, and enjoys a good reputation, not only in Australia, but in India, Java, South Sea Islands, and other colonial countries with hot climates. The 'Hamburger' fears that if these British colonials extend their piano manufacturing operations there will be little room left for Continental makers in the musical instrument line."

SLIGHTLY-USED PIANO BARGAINS AT PIANOLA HALL.

There is always an excellent assortment of Pianos by leading makers, such as Steck, Bechstein, Ronisch, Lipp, Bluthner, and others, available at enormous reductions at Pianola Hall. The reason, and the only reason, they have been exchanged is the desire of their owners to replace instruments they could not play with others which they could play. For the first time in the history of the Piano business, Pianos which were entirely satisfactory have been exchanged by their owners. They have come from some of the best homes in Sydney, and are remarkable for their excellent condition as well as their uniformly high grade.

The PIANOLA PIANO (Steck or Steinway Piano) represents an entirely new thought in musical instruments. Its advantages for the accepted type of pianoforte are so manifest that thousands of Pianos heretofore satisfactory are destined to be disposed of to make room for this 20th Century production.

THE PIANOLA COMPANY are manufacturers of the Steck and Stroud (ordinary Pianos) as well as the Steck Pianola Piano. They control the largest producing factories in the world, making last year over 20,000 Instruments. All Instruments sold by the Australasian houses are manufactured expressly to meet Australian climatic conditions. They are shipped direct from our factory, and are sold throughout Australia with but one profit added to the cost—that of the manufacturer, thus saving the profit of the home exporter and indenter. We invite you to visit our showrooms, where we carry large stocks of Steck and Stroud Pianos, Steinway and Steck Pianola Pianos, besides a huge selection of Slightly-used and Second-hand Pianos. The Steck is represented in Burr Walnut, Circassian Walnut, Rosewood, Mahogany, and Waxed Oak from a small Upright Piano to a Concert Grand.

BARRIER MINES.

THE BRITISH BROKEN HILL.

III.

(BY GERARD W. WILLIAMS, B.I.M.M.)

The phenomenal developments on this mine have recently attracted public attention, both to the mine itself and to the field in general, and have reflected their value in the rise in share values that has taken place within the past few months. Since April, 1911, the share capitalisation has increased from £270,000 to £750,000, a rise of approximately half a million sterling.

The British mine has had a not uneventful career since the days when it was first floated under a hopeless burden of over capitalisation. Some fifteen years ago the company reconstructed by cutting down the capital, and at the same time drastic changes in the control were effected. Since then it has battled against comparatively low-grade ore, narrow and erratic ore bodies, difficult to mine, and costly to treat. Those days are ended; to-day it is certain, as far as anything can be certain in mining, that the mine is destined to become one of the biggest producers on the Barrier, and, as will be shown, the probable life is extremely great.

When the mine closed down in 1907 the reserves of ore were under half a million tons, and the grade was such that it was not possible to treat the ore profitably under the then ruling metal prices. The main ore shoot in the block 17 had apparently cut out somewhere about 350ft in depth, whilst at Marsh's shaft, in the north-west corner of block 16, the ore passed into the adjoining North and Junction North mines at a depth of 600ft.

Fortunately, the British had obtained a considerable sum of ready money from the sale of accumulated tailings to the Zinc Corporation, and a portion of the money so obtained, amounting in all to over £100,000 sterling, was devoted to the reorganisation of the mill and power plant, the erection of an Elmore zinc plant, whilst an active development policy was inaugurated.

As a result of the development a new ore body was opened up in the unexplored country lying between Howell's shaft in block 15 and Thomson's shaft in block 16. This new ore body was first cut in a level at 800ft, driven out, to connect the two shafts. After sinking Thomson shaft to meet this level, stoping work was recommenced in the latter part of 1910, and early in the current year it was realised that a very large body of ore existed in the new country.

The British holdings comprise Blocks 15 and 16, which include 40 and 62 acres respectively, and are situated in line with the Proprietary, Block 14, and North mine leases. The North mine adjoins the northern boundary of Block 16; the Junction lies along the greater portion of the western boundary of this block; whilst the Junction North comes in on the south-west corner. Thomson's shaft is situated 1700ft from the northern boundary of Block 16, and 1600ft from the southern boundary of Block 15. I mention this fact because there is often a tendency to imagine that developments in any one mine will continue into neighbouring mines, and from these measurements it will be seen that, assuming the "new" ore body to be an independent ore deposit, it will have to be of very great extent before it could benefit either the northern or southern neighbours of the British. As a matter of fact, there is evidence which seems to indicate that this is the main lode swung violently off its true course by some latent thrust which occurred prior to the deposition of the mineral contents—that, although it is a new lode in so far as the British mine is concerned, it is not so from a geological standpoint. This question can in no wise be regarded as definitely settled, but up to date the balance of the evidence points to the "new" ore body as being a part of the main ore channel that traverses the leading mines of the field, and not merely a fortuitous occurrence of rich ore of small extent, as was imagined at one time.

With the exception of the small body of ore worked from Marsh's shaft, the whole of Block 16 is virgin ground, and when the "new" ore body was opened up at the 800ft level, the management were able to develop almost simultaneously at the 800, 700, 600, 500, and 300 feet levels. At the same time, the shaft was sunk to 900ft, and a crosscut driven out to the ore. The results obtained by diamond drilling were astonishing, but the crosscuts and drives now following the track of the drills have more than confirmed the ore values obtained from the bores. In view of the great importance of this development, it is advisable to consider the development on each level separately.

At the 900ft level the crosscut south-east intersected the ore body within 15ft of the shaft, and at the time of writing is in some 107ft of high-grade ore, with ore still in the face. It is probable that the ore in this crosscut is of higher grade than anywhere else in the mine; this is good promise for the unopened levels in depth.

On the 800ft level the ore has been stoped for a width of 110 feet, and the drill has shown that another ore body, 22 feet in width, lies over to the east, separated from the big ore body by a thin wall of schist. This eastern ore body is high grade. The length of the ore at this level is not yet known, but the evidence points to a minimum area south of the shaft of 300ft by 100ft, exclusive of the ore lying to the east. It is almost certain that the ore will extend well to the north of the shaft, for boring from a shaft in the Junction mine, 900ft to the north of Thomson's shaft, showed the presence of payable ore at 900ft in depth in the British lease.

On the 700ft level a main stope drive is going south from the shaft along the assumed centre line of the ore body. The ore is of average grade. From the face of this drive a bore went horizontally along the line of the ore body, and disclosed 230 feet of sulphide ore. Stoping work is in progress on this level, but it will be many months before the limits of the ore body are even approximately determined.

At the 600ft level four diamond drills were put out to the west of the level that connects Thomson's shaft with Howell's shaft in block 15. The first of these showed ore at a point 60 feet south of Thomson's shaft, and a stope is now working at this point. The ore is 50ft wide. At a point 266ft south of the same shaft a drill showed 79 feet of ore, 100 feet further south a drill gave 154 feet of lode, and yet another 100 feet to the south a drill returned 120 feet of lode. Making allowance for the deflection of the bores from the true angle, and allowing a very safe margin for error, the ore at this level, as proved by these bores, may be taken as 500 feet in length by an average width of 95 feet, equivalent to an area of over one acre. Crosscuts are now following in the bores, and in every case the average assay of the ore in the crosscuts has exceeded that obtained from the drill results.

A bore was also put out to the north of the shaft, and at a point 250 feet north the continuation of this ore body was intersected, the drill showing some 40ft of sulphide ore. The true width will be less than this, for the drill must have crossed the lode more or less obliquely. The development is of importance, however, as it indicates that the estimate of length given above will be certainly exceeded.

At the 500ft level a bore was run out in a north-westerly direction from a level driven northwards from Howell's shaft. This bore showed the presence of high-grade sulphide ore. Owing to the angle at which the drill was set it is not possible to regard this bore as more than qualitative, it indicates the presence of ore, but gives no measure of the width. A plat has just been cut at 500ft in Thomson's shaft, and within a few months drives and cross-cuts will explore the ore at this level.

At the 300ft level a bore was started in a south-westerly direction from the drive south from Thomson's shaft. The bore passed through 33ft of sulphide ore, and then entered schists. Another bore was started from the same point, but inclined in a more southerly direction. This bore intersected the same make of sulphide ore as that passed through by the first-mentioned bore, and then, after passing through 60ft of schist, the drill re-entered more ore of good grade. These two bores conclusively showed that at the 300ft level the ore preserved the general outline shown at the 600ft level, i.e., a large bulge or head followed by a comparatively narrow tail.

At the 600ft level this tail was south of the shaft, but owing to the pitch of the ore body the tail is well over to the south of the shaft in the upper level, and the head, or bulge, is correspondingly further to the south.

At the 300ft level from Thomson's shaft a drill is now proceeding south-westerly. This drill is running more or less with the strike of the country, and there is every probability that it will miss the ore, for bores running more or less with the country are liable to serious deflection.

The management have announced that when this drill is withdrawn, boring will be commenced from an old level at 200ft from Howell's shaft, in the Block 15 lease. This drill will be directed in a northerly direction. There is reason to believe that the pitch of the "new" ore body is flatter in the upper levels than in depth, and that the widest portion of the chute is well within Block 15.

A crosscut from a point about 200ft south of Thomson's shaft on the 100ft level has intersected carbonate. The ore is narrow, but it can scarcely be otherwise, for this ore represents the "tail" of the "new" ore body, and the bulk of the ore lies well to the south. But if the comparatively narrow "tail" can live up to 100ft, it seems certain that the "bulge," which averages nearly 100ft in width, will live up into the zone of carbonates.

What has definitely been proved is that a large sulphide ore body exists at the 300ft level, and that carbonates occur on the 100ft level. The probability of ore at 200ft is, therefore, almost a certainty. The odds in favour of carbonates at the 200ft level are, therefore, very great, and if the bulge persists up to the carbonate zone, the easily-won and cheaply-realised carbonates will add very materially to the profits of the company.

To turn, however, from speculation to actual fact. The developments outlined have opened up a very large body of ore, and although this cannot be regarded as ore proven it is really more than "ore probable." Some of it, indeed, is fairly well blocked out. I shall, however, regard it as all "ore probable," and estimate the tonnage between the 900ft and 300ft levels at 2,250,000 tons. This estimate is confined to the ore to the south of Thomson's shaft, and includes nothing above the 300ft or below the 900ft levels. If an important development occurs at the 200ft level it will add materially to these figures, and the same applies to any development below the 900ft level. Within a few weeks the sinking of the shaft will be restarted, and about the end of the year the company will be in the position to open out at 1000ft in depth.

It is more difficult to speak of the grade of this ore. The management afforded me every facility in inspecting the mine, and, judging by appearances and by the assays obtained, it seems safe to estimate the ore at an average value of 17 per cent. lead, 8oz of silver, and 15 per cent. of zinc. The ore reserves in Block 15 and at Marsh's shaft amount to 400,000 tons, of an average value of 13.5 per cent. lead, 8oz silver, and 13 per cent. zinc.

The mill has a capacity of 4000 tons per week. At present it is running only two shifts per day, but on and after October 1 the full time will be run. The present output is over 6000 tons per fortnight with two shifts. At present costs average about 21s, exclusive of development and London office charges. This is on a fortnightly tonnage of 5500 to 6000, but when the three shifts are running the working costs will fall to about 18s per ton. The British has its own zinc recovery plant, and obtains the full value of its concentrates. The South mine, where the ore is slightly poorer in zinc than in the British, sells the zinc tailings to the Amalgamated Zinc Company on a half-profits system. At present prices this half-share is worth about 8s 6d per ton of zinc tailings, so that the profits accruing to the British should be very large. The British slime is sold to the Junction North Company, and is paid for at the rate of 8s 6d per ton.

If the mine continues to develop as well as may reasonably be expected, the company will have to consider the advisability of constructing a new mill, capable of treating at least 6000 tons per week, for, with reserves of the size of those on this mine, the present plant is too small to give the maximum "present worth" of the reserves. On the basis of the figures given previously, the ore in sight and "probable" ore between the 500ft and 900ft levels is equivalent to a life of 11 years on the full output with the existing mill.

In view of the very "live" state of the mine the milling capacity should certainly be increased.

The profit-earning capacity cannot be judged from past results, for the mill has been improved, and the grade of ore now mined is materially in excess of that previously treated. For the last fortnight the mill, running two shifts, treated 6169 tons, for a return of 1036 tons of lead and 958 tons of zinc concentrates. Assuming that with three shifts the mill treats 8500 tons per fortnight, and that costs average 18s 6d per ton, exclusive of development and London charges (the latter including income tax), the profit with metals at present prices should be in the neighbourhood of £160,000 per annum, and any variation from this figure will be in the nature of an increase in profits. With a larger mill profits will become proportionately greater, for costs will be lower. The mine gets the full benefit of all its zinc, and incidentally has the advantage of favourable returning charges under the new contracts, which come into operation in 1912. The above profits are from sulphide ore. Any discovery of carbonate ore would mean an immediate increase in the estimated profits.

PHILATELIC CONGRESS

AUSTRALIAN STAMPS.

The third session of the Philatelic Congress of Australasia was continued yesterday at the Sydney Sports Club. Mr. Alfred H. Pettifer presided.

A motion was advanced that the various societies should federate, but was lost on the ground that the time was not yet ripe for such a movement.

The principal subject of discussion set down on the business paper was the question whether the compilation of an Australasian catalogue should be undertaken, and, if so, on what lines.

Mr. J. H. Welfare (South Australia) said that difficulty would be experienced in getting people to purchase such a work. It would be an easy matter to give the books away, but to sell them would be quite a different thing. He thought that each of the societies should revise the list of stamps pertaining to their own State, and submit the lists to Mr. Gibbon, central authority. He moved,—"That each society prepare a catalogue of the stamps used in its State."

Mr. J. H. Smyth (Sydney) seconded, and the motion was carried.

Mr. A. T. Bate (New Zealand) introduced the question as to whether the desirableness of having a list of Australasian stamp forgeries compiled. As far as New Zealand was concerned he knew of only one forgery. Genuine stamps might look like "fakes."

It was pointed out by several delegates that forgeries in Western Australian stamps had occurred. The congress decided that a list should be compiled in respect to each State.

Mr. J. H. Welfare (South Australia) moved that some method should be adopted to insure stamps against fire and theft. He pointed out that the question covered a very wide field. In regard to fire they were pretty well provided for by insurance societies.

A delegate: No, that is not so; the companies will not insure stamps.

Mr. Welfare: I understood that provision was made.

Mr. A. T. Bate (New Zealand) said his own collection was insured in three companies, but the whole of the amounts would not reach one-third of the value of the stamps. When companies accepted stamps as a risk it was done purely out of regard for the owner. If they knew the owner well they might be induced to take the risk, but it certainly was not a common practice.

Mr. J. H. Smyth suggested that the philatelic societies should take the matter up and establish a fund to reimburse owners for losses.

The motion was carried.

Mr. H. W. Johnson introduced the subject of perforations of stamps, and moved "that something should be done by the members of the Australasian philatelic societies to define to what extent varieties of perforations should be collected."

Mr. J. H. Welfare formally seconded the motion. He said the stamp world was extending, and the varieties of perforations were becoming very numerous. Perforation could denote a good deal, but it often had no practical value to the science.

The motion was withdrawn, and the following, which was carried, was substituted by Mr. Edmundson:—"That this congress send a message to the Postmasters-General of Australia and New Zealand respectfully suggesting that all new issues of stamps be kept uniform in respect to gauge, perforation, and other similar details."

EXHIBITION PROJECT.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OPPOSITION.

The Sydney Chamber of Commerce, after discussing the proposal emanating from the City Council to hold an international exhibition in Sydney, has come to the conclusion that the time is not opportune, and gives the following reasons:—That the necessary expenditure could be more profitably devoted to railway extension and duplication in New South Wales, additional wharf facilities, and the like; that a better advertisement could be secured for Australia by the adequate exhibition of her exports in the older countries, which constitute her principal markets; and that the suggested exhibition would involve disturbance of ordinary trade channels without commensurate benefit to the community.

EASTERN'S PASSENGERS

VESSEL TO BE RELEASED.

All the passengers by the Eastern have now been landed at the quarantine station. The medical examination has disclosed no new cases of smallpox. The steamer, after fumigation has been completed, will be brought to a berth at Circular Quay—probably on Monday.

Some idea of the volume of Transatlantic traffic just at the moment may be gathered from the fact that during a recent week the three Cunard steamers, the Lusitania, Caronia, and Mauretania, sailed from Liverpool for New York with passengers to the large number of over 4500.

FEDERAL PARLIAMENT.

THE SENATE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The President took the Chair at 10.30.

Senator Keating (Tas.) asked whether the Government would include in any post and telegraph rates bill introduced this session an amendment of existing rates of postage for savings bank and building society passbooks and similar postal articles.

Senator Findlay (Hon. Min.) replied that the Government did not propose to make any change of the rates of postage on the articles mentioned.

SUPPLY BILL.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council moved that the Standing Orders be suspended in order to allow of the passing of a supply bill through all its stages without delay.

The leader of the Opposition, Senator Millen, said it was a scandalous thing that the Senate was never given an opportunity to deal in a proper manner with the supply bill. It was always brought on at the eleventh hour, and Senators were unable to exercise a supervision over the finances. The delay was partly Ministerial and partly departmental—there was a deliberate attempt on the part of the Treasury officials to hold those bills back to the last moment.

The Minister for Defence said it was necessary to know at what date the Budget would be introduced before the items could be included in the Supply Bill.

The motion was carried and the first reading of the bill moved by the Vice-President of the Executive Council.

Senator Millen drew attention to a fatality that occurred in Melbourne several days ago, when a telephone lineman was killed through working on a quite rotten pole. The lineman was working on the pole when it fell to the ground, bringing the man with it. That pole had been condemned some time ago, and at the inquest the electrical engineer, Mr. Durcks, said that condemned poles were not removed until material was obtained to renew them. He (Senator Millen) failed to see why the Government should not be just as liable as a private employer.

Senator Walker (N.S.W.) asked what steps were being taken with respect to the Federal Government House. If the Government could not secure an extension of the lease he urged that an area be reserved that the Governor-General might have a residence in the capital.

Senator Rae (N.S.W.): Why should they? I hope they will do nothing of the kind.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council: Do you want a permanent residence in every State?

Senator Walker: I want to see the Governor-General treated like the State Governors are treated.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council: We will do that at the Federal capital.

Senator Walker: I don't think Senator Rae should run those down that sent him here.

Senator Rae: Don't get excited.

Senator Rae (N.S.W.) failed to see why Sydney Government House should be vacant for nine months out of the year. If that sort of thing was going to continue, it were better to throw the house and grounds open to the public. The Governor-General should either pay his own expenses when away from Melbourne, or a fund be started for that purpose.

Senator Chattaway (Q.) read some cables published by papers taking subsidised service. The cables were published in the "Standard of Empire," and a writer in that journal said: "This is curious stuff with which to feed Australian readers, and the circumstance is the more remarkable when we remember the new cable service is supported by the Federal Government of Australia. Parliament grants it a subvention of £6000, spread over three years. That sum was advanced on the demand of Labour members. The political intelligence sent from England by this service is equally grotesque with anything above described."

It was scandalous that the Federal Government should subsidise such "absolute rubbish."

Senator Findlay (Hon. Minister): This is a better service than the other.

Senator Chattaway: The hon. Minister is evidently a partisan.

Senator Sayers (Q.) stated that 15 men out of 64 have left the service. The Government was to blame.

The bill was passed through all its stages without amendment.

At 4.25 p.m. the House rose till Wednesday afternoon.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Speaker took the chair at 10.30 a.m.

FEDERAL CAPITAL DESIGNS.

Mr. Higgs (Q.) said it was not clear to him who was to do the actual judging in connection with the Federal Capital. Did the Minister for Home Affairs intend to judge himself?

The Minister for Home Affairs said the architects played only a minor part in town-planning, yet it had been suggested that he should bring architects from England and America to do the judging.

Mr. W. E. Johnson (N.S.W.): I don't think they want that.

The Minister for Home Affairs: That is what they say. We propose to appoint a surveyor, an engineer, and an architect from the three institutes. The Government decision will be final. We are not going to appoint them now, so that they will be chased and everything done to get a decision. That will not be correct.

Mr. Cook (N.S.W.): Is that not very nearly an insult?

Mr. Frazer: Nothing of the kind.

Mr. Cook: It is. I would like to know from the Minister whether he considers it to be the function of an architect to fix the location of a building?

The Minister for Home Affairs: We are not deciding the buildings at all. That will come later, and then architects will be in their own atmosphere.

Mr. Higgs: It is not yet clear to me after the board decides what, in its opinion, is the best design, who will get the prize. Does the award of the prize rest with the board, or with the Ministers?

The Prime Minister: I think I will answer that. In every instance where a board is appointed the Government must have power of final decision in case of a tie. If the Government makes a mistake it can always be corrected by this House.

Mr. Higgs: I want to know from the Minister for Home Affairs whether, in case the board decided that a certain design should get the prize, the Minister will abide by that award, or whether he will reserve the right to take another design.

The Minister for Home Affairs: I ask for notice of the question.

Mr. Higgs asked the Postmaster-General what was done in the case of designs for stamps.

Mr. Thomas replied that the board of judges decided which were the best designs and allotted the prizes. The Government paid the prize money to those persons, holding itself free afterwards to adopt the prize design or any other.

Mr. Higgs: That is all I want to get from Mr. O'Malley.

Mr. Cook asked whether it was proposed to receive nominations from institutes for the appointment of the board.

The Minister for Home Affairs: We will ask institutes to nominate the men.

The Prime Minister: You cannot get anything fairer than that.

DISSATISFACTION OF TELEGRAPHISTS.

Mr. Finlayson (Q.) drew attention to dissatisfaction existing amongst telegraphists at Brisbane and Sydney with regard to the regulation concerning broken time.

The Postmaster-General stated that it was the policy of the Government as far as possible to do away with broken time, but, he added, the public interest has to be considered. Everything that can be done in reason for the men in the service will be done consistent with the public interest.

VISIT OF THE CADETS.

Colonel Ryrie gave notice that he would move for the appointment of a committee of seven members to inquire into the visit of the cadets to England.

TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILWAY.

The transcontinental railway was further considered in committee. On clause 7, "Inquiries to be used," Mr. Fenton (Vic.) asked if the Minister had made up his mind to have the engines made in the Commonwealth.

The Minister for Home Affairs: There won't be any need to worry about that. The policy of the Government is to foster Australian industries.

On clause 12, which gives the Minister power to make by-laws, Mr. Glynn (S.A.) contended that the by-laws and regulations should be subject to the control of Parliament. He moved an amendment to the effect, which the Minister accepted, and the House agreed to.

On clause 15, which provides that the Minister may appoint all such officers as he thinks necessary for the purposes of construction or working of railway, Mr. Groom (Queensland) complained that the clause was very wide and indeterminate, and would interfere with the general scheme of the Public Service Act. If these appointments were to be permanent, the candidates should be advertised for and tested on their merits.

The Minister for Home Affairs: This is only a construction bill. There would be no permanent staff for the construction.

Mr. Catts (N.S.W.) thought that the clause was positively ridiculous. He moved the addition of a sub-clause to provide that working hours should not exceed 48 a week, except in cases of emergency, and that the minimum wage should be 8s a day of eight hours.

The Prime Minister suggested the substitution of a separate clause instead of a sub-clause, and this was agreed upon.

Mr. Greene (N.S.W.) thought the matter should be under the control of the commissioners.

The Prime Minister assured the House that Ministerial patronage would not extend for a longer period than six months after the construction of the line. On the motion of the Minister for Home Affairs, the clause was amended by the addition of the words "for any period not exceeding six months beyond the date of the opening of the line for traffic."

A new sub-clause was inserted, giving the Minister power to connect the line with any State railway, or allow any State railway to be connected with the line, provided that this did not involve the Commonwealth in the construction of more than one mile of line.

Mr. Catts' clause, dealing with the hours of labour and the rate of wages, was again moved.

The Prime Minister said that he was willing to accept the amendment, although provision for a minimum wage was unnecessary.

Mr. Glynn (S.A.) described the clause as a placard, and Mr. Cook expressed surprise that so low a minimum as 8s was to be fixed, and he moved that the rate should be 9s.

Mr. Charlton (N.S.W.) thought that the wage should be 11s a day. The proposal to insert a new clause was negatived on the voices.

Mr. Bamford (Queensland) moved for the insertion of a new clause, providing for a survey being made of the old stock route.

The Minister for Home Affairs pointed out that as the line was being built mainly for defence purposes it was not advisable to have it any nearer the sea coast than it was. The amendment was negatived. The bill was passed through all stages.

The second reading of the Seamen's Compensation Bill was moved by the Minister for Customs. He pointed out that the measure was the same as the one passed by the last Government, and rejected by the High Court as unconstitutional, with the exception of an amendment of clause 4, which had caused all the trouble in the bill before in the House. A provision was inserted to get over the difficulty.

The debate was adjourned, and the House adjourned at 4.25.

NURSING BY PROXY.

SYDNEY HOME FOR BABIES.

LADY PRESIDENT CHALLENGES MINISTER.

WHY A LICENSE WAS REFUSED.

The refusal of the Minister presiding over the State Children's Relief Department to grant a license to the Sydney Home for Babies, at Waverley, has aroused the indignation of the authorities of this institution. The home is conducted by a committee of ladies engaged in what they regard as a charitable work.

The position the ladies take up is that there is no valid reason for withholding the licenses, and the president, Mrs. Greig-Smith, wife of Dr. Greig-Smith (D. Sc., Edinburgh), challenges Mr. Carmichael to make public all the official reports the State Children's Relief Board has received concerning the home.

Dr. Mackellar, the president of the board, declines at this stage to give any information to the press, with a view of the fact that the papers in the case are still with the Minister. It is understood, however, that the department, while admitting that the home is quite hygienic and sanitary, disapproves of institutions where, to use a term which has been applied in this connection, babies are "cuckoo-ed," that is, reared by artificial feeding. It appears that the State has institutions where both mothers and children are admitted free.

In view of this question being raised, it is of interest, as pointed out by Dr. Mackellar on a public occasion a few years ago, that investigations by Dr. Charles Cameron in Dublin as to the cause of death in the cases of 84 infants, showed that 73 died from want of nourishment, due to being artificially fed.

MRS. SMITH'S STATEMENT.

Mrs. Greig Smith, who is president of the home, said yesterday:—

"We don't want just bits of one particular report published. We want Mr. Carmichael to produce the whole lot. The fact is that Mr. Palmre, Government Medical Officer, gave us an excellent report. Another report, not in our favour, was made by a lady inspector. The joke of it is that Dr. Palmer came the same day as the lady inspector, or the day after, not knowing that she had been. This was about three months ago. And then the battle began.

"When the home was started about 18 months ago, Dr. Mackellar (chairman of the State Children's Relief Board) said that he would be pleased to give us every assistance, and that there was no reason why it should not be in existence. He is assisting us beautifully.

"Our trouble now is that the Minister won't hear both sides. We spoke to his secretary (Mr. Salmon) through the telephone, and asked him to arrange for a deputation. Mr. Carmichael sent back a message that it would not be necessary for him to receive a deputation. We still want that deputation.

"Mr. Carmichael says that he has given us every latitude. The truth is, I think, that the department forgot all about our application for a license till the other day. If the allegations which the inspector made were true the home should have been shut up immediately. There should have been no parleying about the matter at all. But the criticism of the lady inspector was wholly uncalled for. The sanitation of the home has been perfect all along. A properly qualified medical man visits the home every day and there is a bacteriologist attached to it. With medical supervision we would not be allowed to work under insanitary or unhygienic conditions, even if we wanted to.

"We don't separate the babies from their mothers, as Mr. Carmichael suggests. Most of the mothers who avail themselves of the home are girls who have to earn their living. In any case, most of them cannot remain with their babies, and are glad to place them in a home where they are well cared for, and skilfully fed at a small cost.

"There is nothing new-fangled about the treatment of the babies. They are just fed and cared for according to the usages of modern scientific teaching. As for separating mother and child, we sometimes have four or five mothers in at a time, for which we make no extra charge. Our total accommodation provides for 24 babies, and we charge the mothers from 7s to 10s per week. These charges do not pay expenses, and I can assure you it is hard work getting up entertainments to make good the difference. We have got a properly trained and qualified nursing staff, isolation is provided for infectious cases, under medical supervision, and, generally speaking, we are not wanting in the things which are supposed to be lacking. I think the home supplies a long-felt want in the community, and I am sure we can convince Mr. Carmichael of the truth of this if he will only see us."

Yesterday afternoon the ladies of the committee paid a surprise visit to the Minister's office. But Mr. Carmichael had escaped to West Maitland. The ladies were therefore received by Mr. Board, and a long discussion on babies ensued, the Under-Secretary venturing to dispute nothing, and promising to lay the facts before the Minister on his return. And the ladies are determined that Mr. Carmichael shall see them on his return, and renew the discussion.

20 YEARS' INDIGESTION ENDED BY BILE BEANS.

NOW ENJOYS PERFECT HEALTH AT 75.

"Violent attacks of indigestion completely incapacitated me and I was unable to attend to my household duties," says Mrs. F. Doorne, of Hampton-street, Goodwood, Adelaide. "Accumulations of wind around the heart caused terrific pains, and at times I was unable to stand or sit. These attacks would last for days, and the agony completely doubled me up. To get temporary relief I applied hot flannels. I was also distressed by periodical bilious attacks, the retching and straining causing me to suffer awful. I was so bad at times that I thought I should never be well again, and my suffering lasted on and off for twenty years.

"After almost despairing of ever getting better I commenced taking Bile Bean with really excellent results. I had only been taking Bile Beans for a short time when I felt better in every way. My appetite, which had disappeared, returned, the bilious attacks ceased, and no longer was I troubled with wind. With every succeeding dose of Bile Beans my health improved until all my ailments were ended and I was completely cured. Now at 75 years of age I can do a day's washing or any other household duty of the greatest hardship without any ill-effects. It is entirely due to the wonderful power of Bile Beans.

"For the many slight indispositions caused through climatic changes I find Bile Beans are an invaluable remedy."

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1911.

THE UNIVERSITY MOVEMENT.

It seems to be now generally agreed among the experienced in such matters that at all large congresses the most fruitful meetings are those which are not set out on the business paper. What attracts men to these gatherings is the prospect of meeting experts in their own branch of work, and, after the formal proceedings are over, comparing with them individual difficulties and experiences. During the recent Medical Congress some of the most important business was transacted at a meeting which, though it was to some extent formal, attracted little public attention, and was not actually a part of the Congress. It was composed of representatives of the universities of all the States, those from outside New South Wales being naturally for the most part teachers of natural science, and was held under the presidency of Sir Normand MacLaurin, the Chancellor of the Sydney University. The primary object of this conference was to make preliminary arrangements for a congress of the universities of the Empire, which is to be held in London in July, 1912. The result accomplished, however, went, as is usually the case, far beyond the purpose for which the members were assembled. It was found that the subject of Australasian universities was sufficiently interesting of itself to suggest any number of topics for debate, and it was therefore decided that the conference should be repeated at fixed intervals, which will probably be arranged so as to make it coincident with one of the larger gatherings—the Association for the Advancement of Science or the Medical Congress. Obviously, there is ample room for both the local and the Imperial conference. A meeting of the authorities responsible for the organisation and development of universities throughout the Empire should be extraordinarily interesting at the present time. Twenty or thirty years ago the English universities meant Oxford and Cambridge. The two still hold their place as national and imperial universities. They have to some extent freed themselves from the reproach of blind conservatism in respect of the nature of their academic training and of their encouragement to research. Their ordinances still control the curriculum of the Public schools, and they remain the chief sources of supply for certain of the professions and the Civil Services. But within the last twenty years there have come into existence a number of universities which do not aspire to be national or imperial, but which are distinctly local in character. It will be the meeting of their representatives with the delegates from overseas which should give its main interest to the gathering convened for next year. Oxford and Cambridge and the Scottish universities have all inherited a constitution framed by the course of history. No Englishman or Scotsman would be induced to remodel such a constitution entirely, even if he were persuaded to regard it as unsuitable to modern conditions. Both the local universities and those of the Dominions have been enabled to begin fortified by experience and untrammelled by anything but lack of funds and the prejudices of men in authority. Here in Australia we have seen the value of what may be called prejudices or traditions, according to the point of view of the speaker.

The University of Sydney was founded through the influence of men whose views had been formed under the scheme of tuition then in force in the University of Cambridge. Its subsequent career has been an illustration of the growth of a new or wider ideal, both among the University authorities and among the people from whom they sought to derive their funds. In this State more than in any other the course of the development of education has been controlled by personal effort. Professor Badham added to his vast scholarship an amount of energy and of zeal for the common good which compelled the public to realise the value of the institution of which he was a member, and especially of the branch of learning which he directed. The Challis endowment enabled the University to increase the scope of its teaching to a degree which could not have been anticipated while it had to depend on Parliament for funds. The two successive gifts of Sir Peter Nicol Russell have made the department of engineering famous beyond Australia. To a great extent the development of the University has been accomplished without the assistance of the Government. Nevertheless, the Government has made contributions which have excited the envy of visitors from the other States. Dr. Barrett recently, in an article in the "Argus," spoke with ill-concealed envy of the sums spent in building the Fisher Library, in addition to the Medical School and the School of Veterinary Science. Dr. Barrett infers from what he saw on his visit to the Medical Congress that, on the part of successive Governments, there has been a largeness of heart, and of purpose, and on the part of the University, a "response to stimulation which has entered into the promotion of knowledge in many and varied phases of human activity." One reason for the fulness of this response may be a recognition of the fact that the University has now come far more closely into touch with the life of the State than it had done in its earlier years. No profession affects the life of the whole community more nearly than that of teaching, of which the members are now enabled to secure a diploma, preferably after a course in arts. When the arrangements for the housing of the new training college are completed, and when the new grant for salaries has been allotted, the profession will at last be in a position worthy of a self-respecting community. The establishment of the Chairs of Agriculture and Veterinary Science has been taken as proof that the University is considering the especial needs of its own State just as the University of Birmingham considers the needs of its own town. Twenty years ago these Chairs would have been denounced as being fitted only to a technical school, and so they would have appeared to the founders of the University. The change in educated opinion is due to a growing sense of the truth that the University spirit, which must be preserved at all costs, may be found in all the more utilitarian branches of science. Agriculture may be an unskilled and monotonous means of living, or it may be a highly-scientific calling. It may be a means of deadening the faculties, or it may awake all the skill and the disinterested energy of the investigator. It is the business of the University to inculcate the scientific spirit. The teacher who can do so through agriculture or engineering is carrying on the university spirit as thoroughly as the teacher of classics. The difficulty is that it is far harder to teach a disinterested or scientific spirit in the bread-and-butter studies than in mathematics or classics. For this reason we should always prefer to see such subjects as agriculture or veterinary science confined to graduates, as was proposed when the Medical School was first established. The pretensions that have been made on behalf of the classics have brought the academic ideal into some degree of disrepute. It remains true, however, that in those cases where the academic ideal is proclaimed the University is of the greatest service to the State. The men of whom the Sydney University is most eager to boast were pupils of the great Badham. At the present day it is the chief reproach to the University that, with all its splendid developments, its students give no return to the State. The bread-and-butter studies lead only to the search for bread and butter. Neither in law, in medicine, nor in politics is there any sign of that spirit of disinterested activity which it is the first aim of a university to implant.

RETURN OF THE CADETS.

The Coronation cadets return home without any of the glamour that attaches to military triumphs or the honour and glory that is at service of fighting patriotism. They deserve their welcome, nevertheless. They have done what was required of them. They have fulfilled all the expectation of adequate service which sped them on their way six months ago. The function set them had its place in the scheme of things, and they were always able to meet it with considerable distinction to themselves and no small credit to their country. We have always been, and still are, of the opinion that the representation of Australia in London at so great a ceremonial occasion as the coronation of the King was hopelessly bungled from the first. It is due to this country that its Government should see that it appears on any representative Imperial platform with the dignity and the impressiveness befitting its national claim. The coronation provided not merely an Imperial platform, but an Imperial eminence set in the highest light of the spectacular, with resounding accompaniments and ancient splendour of ceremonial to give it witness of historic continuity and to reinforce its symbolism. In such a demonstration the pageantry of an Empire grown to be an aggregation of nations was not merely justifiable, but imperative, both from the fact that pageantry remains our best expression of pomp and ceremony, and that pomp and ceremony have their imaginative uses even in a prosaically material age. That these things were well recognised is evident from the fact that all the Empire dominions save Australia made effort to greet the occasion as it deserved. In our own case the curious lack of idealism, which has turned our politics into an after-dinner pleasantry, and our national significance into a museum of industrial wonders, constrained us to the view that Australia had no part in a merely outward demonstration of Imperialism, even where the crowning of the King was concerned. Hence we made no coronation display officially. Therein, of course, was both the opportunity and the justification of the cadet contingent, and it is at least a satisfaction that the boys not only did something towards hinting at Australia as an Empire dominion, more or less interested in the coronation, but also acquitted themselves ably and well in a service of responsibility.

The undignified squabbling which went on in London at one stage of the visit was regrettable, but not altogether unexpected. The whole episode of Australia's place at the coronation being a record of official failure to grip the occasion, any trouble between the Minister of Defence and the officer in charge of the cadets arising from differing points of view as to their status in London, can only be set down as a chapter which maintains the level of its surroundings. The public has yet to learn the real facts of the case, it is true, but it is enough that for some time in London the contingent was made the centre of very ill-advised publicity. The boys, themselves, however, were in no way to blame for that, and just now it is the boys with whom the public should be chiefly concerned. They will be assured of the satisfaction of the public with them. They have done nothing as far as we know to discredit their mission. They have been well received in the highest circles; they have been much in the eye of the British public, and they have been given warm praise for their bearing and their conduct by eminent soldiers. The advantage to themselves of the visit abroad should be great. They have been privileged to see the metropolis of the world at a time when, as the centre of Empire, it was at its height of Imperial rejoicing. The scenes in which they participated, the greatness of the occasion, the breadth and massiveness of London itself as the greatest city known to history, and so well worthy of its Empire eminence, will surely have stirred within them national enthusiasms which else had been but half-awakened. They have travelled far. They have seen something of the great world which is beyond the little world of their own country. They have been brought into contact with that marvellous activity of life outside which Australians are in danger of discounting because they are so far separated from it. They have had the rare privilege, above all, of sharing in a great Imperial ceremony. Nevertheless, in returning from these wonders, they return home, and the return home of them, as of all travellers abroad, should have all the value for Australia that is in the larger view, and the expanded mind. Australia has nothing to fear from reasonable direction of her destiny. Her danger is in the poor provincialism of localised politics, and the near horizon of localised life in general. Like the buried villagers in Tennyson's idyll, a people shut in upon their own concerns and deaf to the thunder of the really great things outside them, are doomed to loss of the sense of relative values. Hence the value to us of the increasing spirit of travel, for, given the seeing eye and the hearing ear, it is the travelled public which is the experienced public—and even Australia needs experience in those who direct her national affairs. For that reason especially the coronation cadet contingent will have had its value for us, and the boys themselves, the promoters of the idea, and its supporters, well deserve the congratulations due to national service.

To-day's "Herald."—The third of our series of articles on the Barrier mines by Mr. Gerard W. Williams, appears on page 15. This deals with the British mine, and describes the favourable change in the ore bodies disclosed recently, which has sent up shares in this company by half a million sterling since April last. Sir Henry Lucy (page 9) notices that the payment to members of the House of Commons is in cases being diverted to local subscriptions. The resentment of the Die-hards continues. They have brought out a gay little decoration for cottagers, showing the names of the faithful peers who resisted veto to the end; also the names of the faithless who voted for veto lest worse things should befall. The revival of the London General Omnibus Company is described as due to amalgamations and motors. The writer of "A Woman's Letter" deals with the early winter dress (page 9). On the same page our special London correspondent in the first of a short series of papers describes a Scandinavian holiday. A short sketch of one of Sydney's many delightful holiday spots, Terrigal, appears also on page 9. The fourth of our series of papers on "Golden Wool" will be found on page 5. It enters in some detail into the elaborate preparations that precede sale, and describes the sale of to-day and that of half a century ago. Mr. Louis Becke in a paper on "Cannibalism in Polynesia" (page 5) shows how ill-informed even modern mariners are of the islands and island folk of the South Seas.

The Much-abused Board.—The London "Daily Mirror" published the following letter, alleged to have been written by George Giffen, the famous Australian cricketer, to a friend in England:—"As a pretty keen observer, I don't think we are going to have the cricketers of a few seasons ago. This Board of Control we have are not giving too much satisfaction to some of the leading cricketers. I am afraid the game will fall rather flat if they are not very careful. Cricket in England and cricket in Australia are totally different. In England they look after the interests of the players, as in most sports, but in Australia it seems the other way about. Play for the love of the game! Never mind about the future. No benefits, etc., after 20 years' service. Oh, no. Go on the land or to the nut factory. Their troubles. My idea is that cricketers are finding out the position, and are not going to be dictated to by the Board of Control. As you know, there are not too many Trumpers, Nobles, or Clem Hills in Australia just at present." The "Mirror" thus comments on Mr. Giffen's alleged letter:—"All of this is rather pessimistic, but we usually hear something of the kind before an English side visits Australia, and the Cornstalks usually worry through all right. Of course, Mr. Giffen is speaking of the benefit matches played for a professional cricketer in England after his 10 or more years of service to the county. A great player like Hirst, in a rich county like Yorkshire, may get between £2000 and £3000, but the ordinary professional is lucky if he gets £1000. Touring English teams go out as professionals and amateurs. The former do well if they clear £300, and the amateurs get their expenses paid. The members of a touring team from Australia divide the greater part of the profits, and they are doing pretty badly if they do not net over £500 apiece. Again, the Australians come over here as amateurs, and the line is drawn pretty strictly between our two classes over there.

The Brisbane Art Gallery.—The National Art Gallery at Brisbane is to be enriched by the addition of two or three new pictures recently purchased in London by the Queensland Agent-General. One of the new works is "The Drove," described by the London press as a fine example of the manner of Mr. Arnesby Brown, A.R.A., and exhibited at one of the Royal Academy shows. The other is "Village Industries," by Stanhope Forbes, R.A., now being exhibited in Rome. The first-named work is in the London offices in the Strand of the Agent-General for Queensland, Sir Thomas Robinson, where also a new and striking portrait of that gentleman himself has just been placed.

Music for the Cadets.—The Coronation contingent of Australian cadets appear to have immensely profited, so far as their musical education is concerned, by their fleeting visit to the art centres of the old world. They had many pleasant distractions on board the Demosthenes when returning to Australia, doubtlessly including rope quoits outside the military routine; but they had no orchestra to revive the memories of the chef-d'-oeuvres of Europe. With characteristic Australian resourcefulness they employed the wireless telegraphic equipment of the Demosthenes to procure a substitute. They commandeered a supply of mouth-organs—by wireless telegraphy—from Paling and Co. The resources of the establishment were equal to the emergency. Mr. Southwell says the mouth-organs will be delivered to the cadets to-day on board the ship; but would the firm have been equal to the occasion had the musical soul of the boys, passing over mouth-organs, soared to the Elysian heights of Jew's harps?

A Critical Period.—The Attorney-General, Mr. Holman, had his attention directed yesterday to the statement in the "Herald" by Mr. Wade in regard to the Industrial Disputes Act being a dead letter by reason of the non-enforcement of penalties. Mr. Holman said that in view of the present state of affairs at Lithgow he would defer replying to it, as matters in the disturbed quarter would not be helped by a controversy.

Parliament at Port Darwin.—In the Senate yesterday several members referred to the necessity of developing the Northern Territory. Senator Walker (N.S.W.) made a novel suggestion. He expressed the opinion that a special session of the Federal Parliament should be held at Port Darwin to deal solely with Northern Territory affairs. This special session would extend over at least two months. He reminded the House of what was taking place just now in Tripoli, and inferred that a somewhat similar state of things could be brought about in an undefended and sparsely populated tract of coast like that of the Northern Territory.

Helping the Hospitals.—The Acting Chief Secretary (Mr. Flowers) stated yesterday that the Government is almost in a position to commence work on a number of hospital improvements. About £5000 is to be spent at the Hospital for Women in Crown-street. Preparations are in train to begin the erection of a new building at the Little Bay Hospital, and efforts will also be made to start on the additions to the Sydney Hospital, while the question of the nurses' home at the Royal Prince Alfred will be given attention. Preparations are being made to go straight ahead with the construction of a new hospital at Coledale. The Premier will probably visit the Sydney and Little Bay hospitals shortly.

Valuable Stamps.—Mr. A. H. Pettifer, president of the Philatelic Congress of Australasia, referred yesterday to the exhibition of stamps now being held in Sydney. He said that the various collections were of a most representative character, and covered practically all branches of philately. They were valued at considerably over £60,000. A letter had been received from Mr. Henry J. Crocker, the millionaire collector of San Francisco, stating that his collection, which had been on exhibition at Vienna, left that city on September 17 for Sydney. It is expected to arrive by the English mail next week, and will be included in the Sydney exhibition. It is valued at over £8000, and is fully covered by insurance. Mr. Crocker lost a collection of stamps valued at £20,000 in the San Francisco earthquake.

THE GOLF STANDARD

AUSTRALIANS ABROAD.

GOOD PERFORMANCES BY THE PEARCES.

SUCCESS OF THE HON. M. SCOTT.

Much controversy has been caused in the last few years by the question as to how our best golfers here compared in point of skill with those of England and Scotland. Itinerant players who, visiting the old country, have taken the opportunity to have a round or two, have, from time to time, expressed varying opinions, which, in the main, have been to the effect that the best British golfers could give our best players a greater or less number of strokes in every round, or in other words, that the standard of play was considerably higher in Great Britain than in Australia.

We have no desire to question the accuracy of observation of those golfers who, returning, have given us the benefit of their views, but during the past season Australia has been particularly fortunate in having several of its best players in England, and in having them there primarily for the delights of the game, and accordingly we are able, on the basis of actual performances, to make a much better comparison of the golf standard in each country than has hitherto been possible.

In the Hon. Michael Scott and Messrs. Clive and Bruce Pearce, Australia had on the other side of the world three of her very best players and in Mr. N. F. Christoe a thoroughly representative golfer, though not, perhaps, quite in the same golfing class as the others. The name of the latter has not often been mentioned in despatches from England. He played in the amateur championship, being beaten in the second round, and that is all that has been heard of him, but the Hon. M. Scott and the two Pearce brothers have achieved a large measure of success.

The Hon. M. Scott, as most golfers are aware, has won the Australian Open Championship twice, and the Amateur Championship four times, Mr. Clyde Pearce having won each event once. Mr. Bruce Pearce, who is still in his minority, in 1909 won the Amateur Championships of South Australia, Tasmania, and Southern Tasmania, and with his brother, won the Doubles Championship of Australia and of Victoria. It is evident, therefore, that these three players were of our best, and this being generally recognised, their play in England and Scotland has been followed with the greatest interest.

Australian golfers have no reason to be disappointed at the showing made by these, their representatives, each one of the three having several very fine performances to his credit.

Some months ago Dr. Brathwaite, of Sydney, endeavoured to organise a team of golfers to visit England and America, but unfortunately for the game, and much to his own disappointment, did not succeed. In view of the successes of the three golfers named, his failure is very much to be regretted.

HON. M. SCOTT.

The first Australian performance of note was borne over the cables in May, when it was reported that the Hon. M. Scott had won the open scratch tournament at Troon, a well-known Scottish course, with two good rounds of 77 and 78, beating several English and Scotch internationalists and other players of high class. This was distinctly flattering to Australian golf. On the following day it was learnt that the Hon. M. Scott had been selected to represent England in the international match against Scotland, and that he had defeated Mr. Guy Campbell, an amateur championship semi-finalist, and a distinguished Scottish player, by the handsome margin of 7 up and 6 to play. Quite recently also he won his way into the final of the Irish amateur championship, being only defeated by Mr. L. O. Munn.

The amateur championship followed soon after the international match, and here Hon. M. Scott was rather a disappointment, for he was defeated in the first round by the youngest entrant to the event, John Tulloch, junior, a lad of 18, in the first round. The Pearces, however, did better, Bruce especially. Clyde Pearce survived two rounds before succumbing, while Bruce, by successive defeats of such strong players as Angus Hambro, M.P., S. G. James, junior, John Thomson, and "Chick" Evans, was one of the last eight, being beaten, however, in the sixth round by Mr. Gordon Lockhart. His win over Mr. "Chick" Evans was commented upon very favourably by the home papers, his opponent being the brilliant young American, who was thought to have a good chance of taking the championship across the Atlantic, as Mr. W. J. Travis, an ex-Australian, did in 1904. Towards the end of the match Mr. Evans was 2 up with only 5 holes to play, but the young Tasmanian equalised matters in the 18th hole, and, playing on, won a splendid match on the 19th green. Mr. Evans later won the French amateur championship.

BRUCE PEARCE.

Another Australian success was at Cruden Bay, a Scottish course of note, where Bruce Pearce won the open scratch tournament in very good company, and was acclaimed by home golfing journals as probably the best left-handed player in the world. "Golfing," speaking of left-handed players, was very appreciative, saying:—"There is, of course, first and foremost, Mr. Bruce Pearce, the young Tasmanian, who, though not yet out of his minority, has figured in the last eight of the amateur championship, and carried off the Cruden Bay tournament from a field that was by no means lacking in distinction. It is worth emphasising also that it was to Mr. Bruce Pearce that there fell the task of overcoming the hope of America, Mr. "Chick" Evans, at Prestwick, and as he also had to defeat Mr. Angus Hambro and Mr. John Thomson, it is obvious that he did not win his way into that last eight through any softness in the draw."

Mr. Clyde Pearce was not to return home without a victory to his credit, and, singularly enough, it was at Peterhead, in Scotland, where he won the open tournament, so that each of the three Australian players during the season won an open scratch tournament of note in Scotland. He also finished sixth in the £50 guinea vase, a classical English competition, being ahead of Mr. H. H. Hilton, the amateur champion, and other well-known players. He, as well as the others, had other good performances, but those mentioned seem sufficient to show that our best players—or, at any rate, a few of them—can hold their own in the best golfing company in the world.

This does not perhaps go very far to prove that our golfing standard is as high as the British standard, but only that the players who actually represented Australia were not outclassed. Here we have a mere handful of players who could hope to compete successfully with the Hon. M. Scott and the two Pearces, while in England and Scotland there are probably hundreds of players of equal calibre to them. But at least it proves that Australia is already capable of turning out golfers to make a good showing against all-comers.

FIRES OF REVOLT.

SPREADING IN CHINA.

FURTHER TOWNS SEIZED.

MUTINOUS TROOPS.

PEKING, Oct. 12.

The revolution in the Hupeh province is spreading rapidly.

The insurgents have captured Han-yang, near Wu-chang, which is already in their hands. They have now control of the arsenal and the Government iron-works at Han-yang. The latter employ 2500 men, including many English superintendents, and their products compete successfully with the Steel Trust on the American market.

The mint, with two millions taels of Government silver, is also among the institutions at Han-yang that are in the hands of the rebels.

The Minister for War has ordered two army divisions and several warships to proceed to Wu-chang. Admiral Sah's squadron is now on its way thither from Shanghai.

Oct. 13.

It is now admitted that the present revolt is the most formidable since the Tai-ping rebellion in 1851-64. It is part of a concerted movement to take the whole Empire, and create a republic under Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the leader of the Chinese Reform party. Misgovernment, overtaxation, and the distress caused by the recent floods, have paved the way for the movement.

The revolutionaries have occupied Han-kow unopposed.

There was some random shelling between the revolutionary forts at Wu-chang and the loyal cruisers in the river, but it ceased after British and Japanese protests that the concessions were being endangered.

The Peking-Han-kow railway has been torn up for a stretch of 20 miles, and a number of bridges have been destroyed.

Thirty modern guns were captured by the rebels at Wu-chang.

An edict has been issued cashiering the Viceroy of Hupeh, but ordering him to retake Wu-chang under pain of severe punishment.

The report that General Chang Piao, in command of the Government troops at Wu-chang, had been killed by the explosion of a bomb, has proved to be incorrect. He has taken refuge on a gunboat in the river.

Semi-martial law prevails in Peking, and the residences of the princes and high officials, as well as the gates of the city, are being guarded.

The foreigners in Han-kow, Wu-chang, and Han-yang, have been summoned to the foreign concessions at Han-kow. They report that they are being well treated at the hands of the revolutionaries.

WHOLESALE MUTINY.

Six thousand troops at Han-kow, across the Yang-tse-kiang from Wu-chang, in the province of Hupeh, have mutinied.

Oct. 13.

Between 10,000 and 15,000 troops have mutinied in the province of Hupeh.

The Government is stupefied at the disaffection among the troops.

THE SZE-CHUAN REVOLT.

Two hundred and fifty Manchus have been killed by the rebels in the province of Sze-chuan.

The insurgents have occupied Sui-fu, and hold the country west of the Min River, between Kia-ting and Kwan-hsien.

OUTBREAK IN HONAN.

Chang-sha, in the province of Honan, adjoining Hupeh, has risen, and the Viceroy's Yamen and the residence of the Tartar general there, have been destroyed.

A total of 23,000 troops has already been landed in Tripoli.

A proclamation has been issued conferring freedom upon the population of Tripoli, protection of all their civil and religious rights, and permitting them to be governed by their chiefs under King Emmanuel's patronage. It is also announced that they are not to be subject to military service against their will.

ROME, Oct. 12.

The Turks have captured two Italian sailors near Massowah, the capital of Eritrea, the Italian colony on the Red Sea.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 13.

The Government has declared cereals and preserved foodstuffs contraband. Flour is not mentioned. Although the Porte did not adhere to the Declaration of London, nevertheless the Cabinet has now decided to observe it in regard to neutrals and contraband.

The boycott of Italian goods has begun in various ports. A Bulgarian steamer that was laden in Italy has not been allowed to discharge here.

The refusal of journalists to obey a summons to a court-martial to answer charges of publishing articles against the Cabinet has led to the revelation that the Grand Vizier authorised the criticisms. The suspension of several papers has aroused a feeling against Shefket Pasha, Minister for War, who is charged with gagging the press.

MALTA, Oct. 13.

Two hundred British refugees from Tripoli are claiming against the Government for losses sustained through their flight, which, they declare, the British Consul ordered.

CANADA.

Scores of messages await the new Governor-General from every city in the Dominion.

STRIKE RIOTS AT SWANSEA.

The police were furiously stoned, and had to temporarily retreat.

Oct. 13.

The riots at Swansea were renewed last evening. Burning cotton waste was thrown into a paint shop, and three places caught fire as a result. The police eventually extinguished the fire under a fusilade of stones from the mob.

It is stated that the Spaniards were defeated, and that the Moors decapitated a hundred soldiers who fell into their hands.

THE IDLE RICH.

A CARD-SHARPING COUNT.

NINE MONTHS' IMPRISONMENT.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.

Count Giesbert Wolff-Metternich, who in December last was arrested with alleged associates, named Captain Newton and Jules Steinman, said to be international card-sharpers, has been sentenced to nine months' imprisonment.

Six months of the sentence is to be considered served, owing to the length of time the proceedings have taken.

Oct. 13.

During the trial of Count Wolff-Metternich various acts of fraud of the ordinary type were proved against him. He had a paternal allowance of 30s per month, but he lived in a state of magnificence, and squandered money profusely.

The trial has caused the press to deplore the low morals of the idle rich.

The prisoner threatens that he will fight a duel with the Crown Prosecutor when he is released.

The three men, who were arrested in December last, were charged with winning £1000 from Herr Bacthus, a German officer, in a London hotel. The Count denied complicity in the offence, and stated that he had lost considerably himself. The trial of Count Wolff-Metternich was considerably delayed, owing to remands, with a view to ascertaining whether he was mentally sound.

NATIONAL INSURANCE.

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES' ATTITUDE.

LONDON, Oct. 13.

The National Conference of Friendly Societies at Edinburgh, representing a membership of four millions, rejected a proposal to urge the Government to postpone the National Insurance Bill for a year.

It was, on the other hand, resolved to accept the main provisions of the measure, but to demand alterations conferring self-government on approved societies, majority representation on the health committees, and permission to those earning over £160 per annum to become voluntary subscribers without Government subsidy. Failing these concessions, the conference recommends all societies to strenuously oppose the bill.

"A GIGANTIC EVIL."

DECLINING BIRTH-RATE.

LONDON, Oct. 12.

The Right Rev. Dr. Ingram, Bishop of London, has issued a charge to the clergy of the diocese, in which he stigmatises the deliberately declining birthrate as a gigantic evil.

CHAGRIN IN BERLIN.

MOROCCAN NEGOTIATIONS.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.

The conclusion of the first part of the Moroccan negotiations has been received here most unenthusiastically. This is mainly due to the delays that have occurred, coupled with the feeling that the negotiations have brought little honour and glory to Germany.

The "Labour Leader" states that the new Industrial Council does not remove the causes which have generated the present industrial upheaval; it is merely tantamount to sitting on the safety-valve. The socialist press also condemns the scheme.

CHARITIES DAY.

THREE THOUSAND COLLECTORS OUT.

The annual street collection under the auspices of the United Charities Fund will be made to-day. The work of the fund is very extensive, and no fewer than 60 charities have applied for financial help from this year's collection. Included in the list of charities participating in the distribution are the whole of the suburban benevolent societies and a number of the children's homes and orphanages. There will be 3000 lady collectors, appropriately dressed in white, and the collection will be throughout the city and suburbs, extending as far as Liverpool and Richmond.

The Commercial Banking Company of Sydney has undertaken the task of receiving the donations, and its city and suburban branches to the number of 24 will remain open to meet the rush of depositors. The branches of the City Bank, Commercial Bank of Australia, and the Australian Bank of Commerce where the Commercial Bank has no branches will perform a similar service. THE WRECK.

A FATAL BLUNDER.

MACLEAY RIPPED OPEN.

FIFTEEN LIVES LOST.

BODIES RECOVERED.

STORY OF A SURVIVOR.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

TEA GARDENS, Friday.

It is now practically certain that all hands on the wrecked steamer Macleay have been lost—with the exception of the two men Swanney and Petersen. The calamity happening as it did at the very gates of one of the finest natural harbours in Australia will be all the more deeply felt as it will suggest an answer to at least two other recent sea mysteries on our coast. An atmosphere of gloom rests on the small township at Tea Gardens, which is intensified by the presence of solemn processions conveying the dead from the launches as they arrive from the scene of the disaster.

So far only five men have been accounted for. These include the two survivors, William Swanney and Charles Petersen. Three bodies have been recovered from the breakers. These have been identified as Jones, the steward; Hans Hansen, a seaman; and an elderly fireman, between 50 and 60 years of age, with a grey moustache, at present only known by the name of "Tom."

COURSE ALTERED.

A FATAL BLUNDER.

TEA GARDENS, Friday Night.

The two survivors were to-day both suffering from shock and the immersion of last night, but after a good breakfast and a pipe of tobacco they looked less like men nearly returned from their graves. Charles Petersen was able to give a much clearer statement than on the previous night. He emphatically and continually stated that the whole affair was due to a fatal blunder on the part of the first mate. Petersen was at the wheel, and states that Captain Keith had set the course north-east. The first mate altered it three points north by east.

"When the captain came on deck," said Petersen, "his first words to the mate were: 'Why did you alter the course?' We tried to lower a boat, but the lanyard carried away, and they both jammed. I jumped for the lifeboat deck, and as I did so I noticed the captain on the bridge holding up a lifebelt, but that was the last I saw of him, and I think he must have sunk with the steamer, as he had a stiff knee, and would not be able to fight against the suction. I don't know why I have been saved. It is a wonder to me how I got ashore. I cannot swim, and I had my boots and clothes on all the time."

VISIT TO THE SCENE.

It was indeed a matter for wonderment. A visit to the scene of the wreck this morning showed that nothing but iron nerve and dogged perseverance, backed up by a powerful constitution could have helped a human being through the awful ordeal which Petersen and Swanney experienced. For 12 long icy hours Petersen battled against almost overwhelming odds.

This morning the two men were out of bed before 6 o'clock, and boarded Mr. H. Thurlow's launch, together with First-class Constable McCann. They were themselves again, and had no hesitation in revisiting the scene of their fight for life on the previous day. "I would be glad," said Petersen, "if we could find even a few of our old mates alive." But this was not to be. After landing at the gap, the party walked across to the wreckage-strewn beach, and entered a small boat in which to proceed to the tug Irresistible, lying outside. Once again the two men stepped into the breakers at a point not far distant from where they were washed up the previous day. After boarding the Irresistible Petersen was able to direct Captain Brinkworth to the very spot where the Macleay struck. This proved to be on a rugged stretch of rocks at the south-east end of Big Island. Big Island is almost directly opposite the entrance to Port Stephens.

It is situated north of Port Stephens light, and the Macleay struck on at 30 minutes after passing the light. There are two other islands close by, named Cabbage Tree and Little Island respectively. Cabbage Tree is a large island, closer in towards the shore, while Little Island is further north than Big Island, and further out from the shore. It seems practically certain that had the Macleay missed Big Island without altering her course, she would have struck Little Island shortly afterwards. The Irresistible proceeded close into Big Island this morning, and Petersen pointed out the spot where he considers the Macleay struck at about 7.30 p.m. on Wednesday.

A GRAPHIC ACCOUNT.

THE RIPPING AND TEARING.

In recounting the catastrophe from the decks of the tug Irresistible this morning, Petersen after repeating his conversation with the first mate, said:—"When we struck there was a crash and succession of bumps. I heard the steel plates rip and tear apart. The men rushed up from the forecastle clad only in their night attire. I threw the wheel over hard a-port, but she just answered to the helm. As she slid off the rocks her bow swung out towards the open sea. She keeled over to the port side, and I knew then her port bilge must have been torn completely. The steamer drifted slowly out towards the open for a short distance, and then suddenly sank out of sight.

WHEN THE SINKING OCCURRED.

"There was an awful hissing of steam and rushing of water in my ears. I remember noticing that the sea looked as if 50 huge whales were spouting water in the air. This, of course, was coming from the engines and furnaces. The suction drew me down, but when I rose to the surface I grabbed at an oar and clung on. I afterwards got hold of a hatch and a hurdle, but the hurdle broke away from me. I clung to the hatch, which kept twisting and turning over in the water with me. Every wave passed clean over me, and turned me round and round, but I still clung for my life to the hatch. I saw a lifebelt floating, and managed to catch hold of it. I heard some of my shipmates calling out and answered them. The second mate called out to me. I asked if he was alright. He just replied, 'I am done,' and I think he sank, as I did not hear him again.

IN THE DRIFT OF THE OCEAN.

"I drifted right round the outside of Cabbage Island, and thought I was floating out to sea, but after rounding the island, a current set inshore. I reached the breakers at about 9 a.m., and got rid of the hatch, as I feared it might butt me in the breakers. I never thought I would reach the shore, but I said to myself, 'Buck up, Charlie.' I could not swim, so I just let the breakers carry me over. One washed me almost up on the sand, but the back-wash drew me out again. Another wash carried me in, but drew me out again. The third to strike was a huge roller, and it simply threw me right up on the sand. I rose to my feet, but fell again, as my knees were too weak. When I recovered slightly I kept rising to my feet and falling down again, until a fisherman named J. Asquith came to my help.

SWANNEY'S NARRATIVE.

William Swanney, the other survivor, had another story of pluck and endurance to tell. He said:—"I dived over the side as the ship was going down. There was a spouting of water, and I was drawn down. I never had the slightest hope of coming up again. I did rise to the surface, however, and clung on to the floating hurdles. Hansen (whose body has just been found) was close by me, holding on to the signal-box which contains the flags. The donkeyman was also near me. He had hold of a plank, and we all three managed to come together. With the ropes in the signal-box we tied the hurdle, plank, and box together, making a rough raft. We were all in the water holding on by our arms, which were badly bruised and cut by the wood. The donkeyman refused to pick up a lifebelt, as he said it would hamper him. The donkeyman seemed despondent, and kept saying: 'We will not get ashore.' He secured an oar and tried to steer the raft. We drifted to the outside of Cabbage Tree Island and reached the breakers after twelve hours' buffeting.

LOST OVER THE BREAKERS.

"When we neared the breakers the donkeyman slipped off the raft, but managed to scramble back again. He again said the struggle was hopeless, and when I looked back both Hansen and the donkeyman were off the raft. I saw the donkeyman sink three times, and then he disappeared for good. I managed to get ashore, and on looking back I saw Hansen in the breakers, evidently sinking in the sand. The water was up to his chest, and he seemed to be struggling with the backwash. As I watched him he threw up his arms and disappeared."

BODIES ON THE BEACH.

The scene on the beach near North Head this morning spoke only too plainly of the disaster. The bodies of Hansen and the man known as Tom were lying on the beach. Both were fully dressed. Hansen had kept his boots on, while Tom had kicked his off. Hansen had a gash on the back of his neck. The beach was strewn with hatches, coverings, crosspieces, and driftwood. The body of a horse which had been washed up on the sand showed signs of having been attacked by sharks. A large portion of the animal's neck had been bitten out, and the body was generally torn about. A large shark about 12 feet long could be seen cruising up and down along the breakers with ominous intent.

The bodies of the two men were brought on to the Tea Gardens this morning.

Mr. J. Asquith, the fisherman who found the two survivors on the beach, brought them to the Tea Gardens in his boat straight away.

WRECKED BEFORE.

Charles Petersen has been a sailor most of his life. He was wrecked once before in an American schooner off the East Coast of America 11 years ago. Everyone was saved on that occasion, with the exception of the captain. Petersen is a native of Finland and has no relatives in Australia. He is a single man, as is also William Swanney. The latter is a native of Scotland, and when asked to-day what he thought of the sea as a means of earning one's livelihood he just smiled complacently and replied: "Oh, the same as before, I suppose."

THE CREW.

According to an amended list, those who comprised the crew were the following:—

Master: Captain DONALD KEITH, 38, Tomago.
Mate: Mr. GOLDSMITH.
Second mate: J. N. M'LEAN.
First engineer: A. T. TARLETON, 31, Sydney.
Second engineer: D. J. GOWING, 27, Bega.
Lamptrimmer: M. ALEXANDER, 24, Leith.
Cook: J. MEECHAN, 28, England.
Steward: W. JONES, Sydney.
A.B.: A. JABLIN, 20, Sweden.
A.B.: E. DREVER, 24, Scotland.
A.B.: J. MACKENZIE, 25, Scotland.
A.B.: C. PETERSEN, 31, Finland.
A.B.: W. SWANNEY, 30, Scotland.
A.B.: HANS HANSEN, 28, Norway.
A.B.: J. JOYCE, 27, Dublin.
Fireman: F. MONKS, 19, England.
Fireman: J. KILLEN, 40, England.

The only alteration on yesterday's list is that J. Mackenzie signed on in place of D. Tabett, of Glasgow, who was not there for the steamer on this fatal trip. A.Bs. Petersen and Swanney were saved.

WRECKAGE SIGHTED.

Captain Tyree, of the Adelaide Company's steamer Ouraka, reported to the Navigation Department yesterday, on arrival from Queensland ports, that when he was between Richmond River Heads and South Solitary on Wednesday he sighted 40 or 50 pieces of wood from 3 to 12 feet long, which looked like part of a vessel's ceiling. The Ouraka passed 11 miles off Richmond Heads, and steered S half W. In all probability this would be Rosedale's wreckage.

HOPE ABANDONED.

PILOT STEAMER RECALLED.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

Captain Cummings, Deputy Superintendent of Navigation, received a wire from the pilot steamer, then at Nelson's Bay, asking for instructions, and reporting, that nothing had been found to indicate where the wreck occurred. No trace was seen of any survivors.

Captain Cummings then wired for the Ajax to return to Newcastle as nothing was to be gained by her staying in the locality.

Mr. Hough, local manager of the North Coast Company, sent the tug Irresistible back to the scene of the disaster, with instructions to pick up the two survivors, and proceed to try and locate the wreck. He wired to the Tea Gardens for Peterson and Swanney to meet the tug at Nelson's Bay.

COMPANY'S NEW STEAMERS.

LEAVING ENGLAND AT ONCE.

The North Coast Steam Navigation Company, Limited, yesterday received cable news to the effect that the new express steamer Wollongbar, which is to replace the Orara in the Byron Bay trade, is to leave London on Saturday, and that the new cargo steamer Coramba is to sail on Wednesday. Both vessels are to travel by way of the Cape of Good Hope.

NURSES TO STRIKE.

AT ADELAIDE HOSPITAL.

PROTEST AGAINST A SISTER.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

Trouble has apparently been brewing lately among the nurses of the Adelaide Hospital, and to-day it reached a crisis.

"If we do not get satisfaction we will go out on strike to-night, after we have given the patients their tea, or else to-morrow morning," said a nurse to-day. "Sister Dunstan is in charge of the Victoria surgical ward, and practically none of the nurses can get on with her. She has been at the hospital for 12 months, and of the whole of the staff of 86 nurses only four are agreeable to work under her. Eight patients have also protested against her demeanour."

Eighty of the nurses have signed the following petition, which has been sent to the Adelaide Hospital Board:—

"We, owing to our lack of respect for Sister Dunstan, refuse to work under her, because of her behaviour to patients, and those with whom she has come into contact."

The petition was laid before a special meeting this afternoon, but consideration was adjourned until a full meeting of the board on Monday.

Sister Dunstan was asked by a reporter whether she would give her side of the case, but her reply was that she "must be reticent."

JEWELLERY ROBBERY.

EXTRADITIONS FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

The passengers by the Maitai from San Francisco include William Rodgers and Maud Rodgers, who are alleged to have committed the theft of jewellery, valued at £1000, from the establishment of Adolph Kohn in Auckland on March 18, and who were arrested in San Francisco, and subsequently extradited.

TELEGRAPHISTS' TROUBLES.

DEPUTATION TO MINISTER.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Postmaster-General, Mr. Thomas, said to-day that he had received from the Telegraphists' Association in Sydney a communication, asking him to delay the operation of the Public Service Commissioner's new regulation relating to broken time until Tuesday next. The Minister at once agreed to grant the delay, and advised the telegraphists that he would be in Sydney on Monday, and would receive the deputation.

THE LATE MR. HARRY RICKARDS.

DEATH IN LONDON YESTERDAY.

Mr. Harry Rickards, the well-known theatrical proprietor, died peacefully in London on Friday morning.

This information was contained in a private cable message received early this morning by Mr. Edward Maas, general manager for Mr. Harry Rickards in Australia.

The body will be brought to Australia for burial, and all Mr. Rickards' theatres will be closed for a week.

It seems strangely incongruous to refer to Harry Rickards as a Puritan, but in his early days he was one. He came of a very old Puritan family, his father being the late Benjamin Leete, chief engineer on the Egyptian railways. But young Leete early turned his attention to the music halls. He was apprenticed to a firm of engineers at Stratford, but ran off, and appeared as a singer on the stage. His father after a week or two found him, brought him home, gave him a thrashing, and set him again to work at the engineering. But music, rather than machinery, claimed his attention, so he ran away again, adopted the name of Rickards, and thenceforward spent his life in the music halls. It was not till years afterwards, when he was at the top of the vaudeville ladder, that his family were reconciled to his un-Puritan career.

He was born in London in 1847, and, going on the stage, took the name of a leading actor in the sixties, and began the strenuous and uncertain life of a music hall artist. Wages were then nothing like what they are now, but he persevered until he gained a name and a footing in the vaudeville world. He first came to Australia in the early seventies in a sailing ship. After a while in the Antipodes he returned to England, where he played leading comedian roles in pantomime. In 1881 at Leeds he played the chief comedian in Wilson Barrett's pantomime "Red Riding Hood," and until 1887 he had established himself in popular favour as a singer, his biggest hit being in the well-known "His Lordship Winked at the Counsel." Then he came again to Australia, and opened in the old Opera House, in King-street. Owing to a disagreement, he took a lease of the Garrick Theatre, which he called the Tivoli. This was burned down, and the present Tivoli erected in its place. For a while his company toured South Africa, but latterly he confined his attention entirely to Australia, returning each year to London to select artists. His last appearance in Australia was at the Tivoli Theatre at the Christmas benefit to the poor.

The deceased actor was one of the best-known figures in the vaudeville world, having travelled all over America and Europe at different times. He was the largest single-handed music hall manager and proprietor in the world, most of the vaudeville theatres in America and England being run by syndicates and companies. He was the sole proprietor of the Sydney Tivoli, Melbourne Opera House, Adelaide Tivoli, and the Palace Theatre in Perth. Up till the time of his death he was a most active worker, often attending six music halls in an evening in search of stars for his theatres. He spent his week-ends at his estate at Westwood, Margate. He leaves a widow and two daughters, Noni (Mrs. Maas) and Madge (Mrs. F. Harwood).

THE KING'S.

AN EXCITING STRUGGLE.

MOTTON THE WINNER.

CUTLER'S GREAT EFFORT.

"Harry Motton wins."

But it was a close and exciting finish, one of the most exciting finishes that have ever been witnessed in the King's match at Randwick. He won by a single point. Cutler, of Randwick, and Parsons, of Wollongong fought for second place.

The King's is, of course, the classic event of the Australian Bisley. It is the blue ribbon of marksmanship. The winner of the King's is the same kind of a popular hero as the cricketer who gets a century in a test match, or the winner of a world's sculling championship, or the jockey who is first home in the Melbourne Cup. Only he is a more useful kind of hero when an enemy knocks at the gate.

This classic contest always attracts a large crowd at Randwick. It was so yesterday. Hundreds of enthusiasts lined the mounds and watched with intense interest the black and white targets bobbing up and down, and the recording discs registering bullies or inners or magpies or outers. Ladies, too, were in evidence, scores of them, and they all had some champion, brother or husband or friend, fighting for the blue ribbon. And the ladies followed the shooting with the same enthusiastic interest as the men.

There were 850 competitors in the event. Almost every single one of these thought that he had a good chance of pulling off the prize. But it is a long and nerve-racking struggle. That is why one never knows how it will turn out till the numbers are up. That is why also it is well to keep tally of the old hands, the experienced marksmen who never lose their nerve, but plug away, confident that in the long ranges they will make up any lee-way they might lose in the early stages. That is how it worked out on this occasion.

FIRST STAGE.

The first stage was fired on Wednesday, at the close in ranges. Motton was here right out of the hunt, and Tickle, of Rockdale, headed the list. Then, on Thursday, came the second stage, the middle-distances, and Captain Goodsell, of Wollongong, jumped to the fore. Once again Motton was nowhere. Then, yesterday, came the final stage, the long distances, where all the resources of the marksman are called into play. It was here that Armourer-Sergeant Motton, of the Australian Rifles, first caught the eye of the cognoscenti. He registered a fine string of bullies at 800yds, finishing with one short of the possible. Then at 900yds he added a serviceable 45, further enhancing his chances. At the extreme distance, with a steady south-easter necessitating anything from 12 to 16 degrees of windage, he notched a splendid 45 with a great crowd behind him, applauding silently. To shout out and cheer might disconcert the marksman, so the men behind the ropes level telescopes, concentrate their gaze on the target, and whisper excitedly. But Motton had won the King's prize before. He plugged away indifferent to the crowds and the comments. All he minded was wind and the light, and the little black speck on the white patch, a thousand yards away. Eventually he rose with seven bullies to his credit and two magpies and an inner scattered amongst his figures.

A GOOD TOTAL.

The contest from then on resolved itself into the ineffectual attempts on the part of scores of riflemen to beat the 292 he had set them.

First came Captain Goodsell, of Wollongong. Starting confidently, he discarded his magpie sighters, scored an inner with his first business shot, crept into the black, and stopped there. But there came a break in the grey clouds. A patch of light caused a faulty elevation. There came a magpie, then a miss. That miss cost the marksman just £175.

There came crack shots from New Zealand and Victoria and Queensland and the Barrier, but all fell short of the required 293. Later came young Parsons, of Wollongong. He had been fifth at the end of the second stage, and only wanted 40 to equal Motton's score. His first shot was an outer. Then came a magpie, then a bully. And he kept to the bull till a lull in the wind sent him wide to the white, and he finished one point short, with his card showing 2, 3, 5, 5, 5, 5, 5, 2, 4, 5, 2—39. Motton the veteran stood behind the ropes, and already he was acclaimed the winner. Another score of champions—at this stage of the business only the champions are in the running—tried their hands, but they all fell short of the task set them, and it looked all over. Then came the tug of war.

H. Cutler, the Bathurst crack, now of Randwick, started to pile up the points. He wanted 46 to win. His sighters were useless, a magpie and a miss. His business shots opened 3, 3, 4, 5. At this stage he wanted six bullseyes to equal Motton. The crowd collected, and soon nearly 500 pairs of eyes were glued to the target. The N.R.A. officials, range officers, competitors, and visitors congregated behind the mound. The light was good and the wind fairly steady. Four more bullseyes rewarded the westerner, each time a subdued murmur of applause rising from the crowd. Then again came a break in the clouds. The sun shone. Cutler came down a shade, but not quite enough. After an anxious moment the target fell, and a red square showed up. It was inner at 12 o'clock, just over the bull. A cry almost of pain escaped from the crowd. It was a gallant effort, but came just short of success. Cutler's last shot was a bully, and his card read 3, 3, 4, 5, 5, 5, 5, 5, 4, 5=44. The crowd cheered and broke through to congratulate him. This done they surged back to congratulate Motton, now undisputed claimant for the King's Prize.

EARTH TREMORS.

ALARMING EVENTS IN THE WEST.

DAMAGE TO PROPERTY.

PERTH, Friday.

The Government Astronomer (Mr. W. Cooke) recently visited York and Quellington and found that the reports of earth tremors in those districts during the past three months were not exaggerated. The effects seemed to be confined mostly to within a radius of 20 miles. The disturbance is described as a sudden violent explosive noise, apparently always from the same direction, followed by a rumbling noise passing underfoot, accompanied by the shaking of the floor, cracking of buildings, rattle of crockery, etc. Each shock apparently lasts only a few seconds, and starts with a violent explosive sound, like the discharge of a great gun. On one occasion Mr. Gentle heard a terrific crash from his front verandah, and on investigation found that the foundations, made of granite, had been split from top to bottom. One of these quakes occurred during the progress of a meeting at the Agricultural Hall. The floor shook, and even the piano was seen to rock. A window was smashed, and upon examination the walls were found to be cracked in several places, in one instance the crack passing right through a solid block of stone.

At the Government school-house, built solidly of brick, Miss Kitchein actually saw a crack form during a shock, and this was found to be not merely a plaster crack, but to go right through the wall. "Every house I saw," says Mr. Cooke, "was cracked in several places, and I was told that not a house in the district has escaped. Many people have given up their sleeping quarters, and moved their beds outside, and a few are talking seriously of leaving the neighbourhood." Mr. Cooke proposes to make further investigations of the phenomenon.

TAKEN IN MISTAKE.

MR. RAMSAY SHARP'S PORTMANTEAU.

Last night Mr. Ramsay Sharp, the special officer who has been conducting the telephone tests, boarded a railway tram at the Circular Quay. He was going to join the limited division of the Melbourne express. As the car was crowded, he placed his portmanteau, a large, brown leathern one, marked with the letters R.B., on the platform at the rear of the smoking compartment, and then took his seat in the cabin. The rear platform was crowded with passengers and luggage, and as the bag was missing when the tram reached the railway, it is more than probable that one of the passengers picked up Mr. Sharp's bag and walked away with it, under the impression that it belonged to him.

The loss of the portmanteau has placed Mr. Sharp in a very awkward position. It contained, amongst other things, a quantity of clothing, and also a number of official papers, which Mr. Sharp is very anxious to re-obtain possession of, and for the restoration of which he is willing to pay a handsome reward.

THE VACANT PORTFOLIO.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The opinion was held to-day in Parliamentary circles that Mr. Frazer had been invited by the Prime Minister to take the vacant portfolio.

WOLFE'S SCHNAPPS —Advt. Should be in every home.

NE TEMERE.

AN ANGLICAN PASTORAL.

BLOW AT HOME AND STATE.

HISTORY OF THE DECREE.

Archbishop Wright, in his presidential address at the recent Anglican Synod, voiced the protest of the Anglican community against the promulgation of the Ne Temere decree. But he curtailed his remarks on account of the pastoral letter which the metropolitan and bishops of New South Wales intended issuing. That pastoral is now available. It has been issued to the clergy of the province, and will be read in all the Anglican churches of the State. It is as follows:—

"We have heard and read a great deal lately about the decree called 'Ne Temere,' from the first two words of the Latin original. We think it well to put as clearly as possible, from a practical point of view, the meaning of the decree, its possible effect upon our own people—and the attitude we should adopt with regard to it.

"It must be remembered that it is not really new. It is as old as the Council of Trent, in the 16th Century. At the 24th session of that council it was decreed that whoever contracted marriage except under certain special conditions as to the officiating clergy, and witnesses, did what was absolutely of no effect. 'Nihil agit' is the phrase used. This was a complete reversal of the older principle of canon law. Up to that time the essence of marriage had been held to consist in 'mutual consent,' and, while there were rules enough by which made a marriage 'irregular,' no disability to contract a 'valid' marriage was recognised save such as arose from defect or fault in one or other or both of the contracting parties.

"The language of the council declares marriages formerly considered 'irregular' to be 'null and void.' There was this excuse. Clandestine marriages were asserted to be common at the time of the Council of Trent, and, as the hope of the council was to preserve the outward unity of Christendom, it was, on the face of it, a matter of internal discipline—possibly necessary, probably salutary. But to proclaim it anew when there are so many millions of orthodox Christians, who do not accept the supremacy of the Papacy, is a very different matter. Nor can it now claim to be merely a matter of internal discipline; for by express language it is made to apply to cases where a 'Catholic' marries a 'non-Catholic.'

"It is first a very questionable attitude to adopt towards the civil Government, under whose protection we all, Romans and non-Romans, enjoy a common liberty. It asserts that a marriage which the State accepts as valid is nothing. And this not on grounds of the law of God, or lack of fitness of the parties to consent—grounds on which there might arise an unhappy necessity for all Christians to oppose the legislation of their State—but on grounds merely of ecclesiastical regulation as to method. Whether our State courts would allow State law to be set aside on such grounds remains to be proved. Then it strikes at the welfare of the State, for it offers a premium to the offence of wife desertion, a crime already only too common among us. It enables a man who has contracted a marriage valid by the laws of God and of his State, but null by the rules of his Church, to plead conscience as a justification for withdrawing from cohabitation, and so exposing his wife to special temptation, even though he may not go to the extreme of leaving her without maintenance. It strikes at the unity of the home, for it may easily act with terrible cruelty to an innocent girl, who, being a non-Roman, and believing in the affection and constancy of her Roman lover, contracts a marriage valid by the laws of God and the rules of the State, only to find herself stigmatised as his mistress by the disciplinary rules of her husband's Church, and liable to deprivation of conjugal rights if her husband's conscience becomes sensitive and alarmed. It will, of course, be objected that such cases are rare, and rarer still the exercise of such discipline. But this is what the decree says, and if it does not mean what it says, why is it published?

"We have no desire to interfere with the interior discipline of the Church of the Roman obedience. In the Constitution of our Commonwealth all Theistic religions are entitled to equal treatment. We grant to others the fullest liberty which is consistent with the fullest exercise of our own. But is this decree brotherly, or even fair? It does not deal equal liberty to all citizens. It constitutes a claim on the part of certain citizens, because they profess a certain religion, to the rights of foreign domicile, while claiming to the full the privileges of naturalisation. We protest against it most strongly as unjust, as hurtful to unity, national as well as social, and as almost clothing cowardly repudiation with religious sanction. We find that we have some valuable lessons to learn from the agitation. We, too, must oppose mixed marriages with all the influence we can command. They are clearly dangerous to that unity of faith and worship which is essential to a happy marriage, and to the perfection of the Christian home.

"But in cases where natural affection, older than all the Churches, draws to such a union of non-Roman with Roman, surely in such cases, since we cannot advise a compliance with the demands of the Roman clergy, we are bound to explain most carefully to the non-Roman partner the risk that lurks in the language of the decree. And we must insist upon all the safeguards that it is in our power to secure.

"We write without bitterness, and solely with the desire to protect our people from the dangers which lie hid in the decree, and which may come to the surface and work disaster when least expected. We desire to 'live peaceably with all men,' but we cannot, without protest and warning, allow to pass the promulgation of a decree which, put forth in these days of religious liberty, practically reverses the old and intelligible doctrine of canon law, and applies to all Christians other than those of the Roman obedience the treatment formerly meted out to pagans. We repudiate as false the charge that we regard marriage as solely a civil ceremony. In all civilised States, it has its civil sides, which the State deals with for the mere protection of property. But for us, it is 'a great mystery, signifying unto us the mystical union that is betwixt Christ and His Church.'

"The State rests on the home, and the home depends upon our reverence for marriage. The problems of our age call to us to urge upon our people such a thoughtful view of the responsibilities and blessedness of Christian marriage as shall make them very slow to contract it otherwise than in, and for, the fullest united exercise of all the privileges of their Common Faith."

A PIONEER BUILDER.

DEATH OF MR. J. BUCHANAN.

Mr. John Buchanan, who died at his residence, Rushcutter Bay, on Wednesday, was closely associated with the progress of the State. He was one of the pioneer builders and contractors, and was a highly respected citizen. Some of the finest residences in the State, particularly in Woollahra, were constructed by him.

Born in Perthshire, Scotland, in 1832, deceased, after receiving his education, came out to the colonies, and arrived in Melbourne in 1854. After a few months' residence there he went to Tasmania, where he visited the goldfields. He came to Sydney in 1856, taking up his residence at Rushcutter Bay. Mr. Buchanan commenced business as a builder and contractor in 1861, employing many hands. He saw Rushcutter Bay develop from a sparsely-populated district to its now populous state. He took an interest in municipal life, and was alderman for Woollahra and Paddington. Though he did not take an active part in politics, he was much sought after as chairman at important political meetings. The deceased, who was 79 years of age, suffered a severe illness about three years ago, and never fully regained his previous good health. Besides a widow, he leaves the following sons and daughters:—Mr. J. Buchanan, manager of the London Bank of Australia, Limited, Oxford-street branch; Mr. W. T. Buchanan, member of the firm of Mason Bros., Ltd.; Mr. F. Buchanan, of the Colonial Sugar Company; Mrs. R. Buchanan, Mrs. Bruce Clark, and Miss Maud Buchanan. The funeral was attended by a large number of leading citizens, and the Institute of Architects was represented by Messrs. Pritchard and Sheerin.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

City Tattersall's club provides an outing for metropolitan racegoers at Randwick this afternoon; the Victorian spring campaign opens at Caulfield, under the auspices of the Victorian Amateur Turf Club; the spring meeting of the South Australian Jockey Club will be brought to a close at Morphettville; the Toowoomba Turf Club caters for Southern Queensland sporting folk, and the Heddon Jockey Club holds its October meeting.

Up to 5 p.m. on Monday next, the secretary, Mr. H. Cobcroft, will receive entries for the seven events on the card for the Victoria Park Racing Club's pony and galloway fixture, on the 21st inst. The prize money totals £400, of which £75 each goes to the Hurdle Race and Park Handicap, and £50 each to the other five races.

The programme framed for the Moorefield October meeting on the 28th inst. demands attention of owners and trainers on Monday next, when at 4 p.m. entries close with the secretary, Mr. R. E. Jolly. The prize-money totals £520, of which £100 each goes to the Flying Handicap and October Handicap, and £80 each to the other events, which include a race for two-year-olds, at special weights over four furlongs.

The Ascot (Melbourne) spring pony and galloway fixture takes place on November 8, and, for the principal event, the Ascot Thousand (6½f), entries close on Tuesday next, the 17th inst, with the secretary, Mr. A. J. Gray, Russell-st, Melbourne; while Sydney owners and trainers can lodge their nominations with Mr. J. Underhill, at the office of the Associated Racing Clubs, 11 Elizabeth-street, city.

Cripple Creek out of the Hurdle Race and Tom Hood out of the Club Mile were the scratchings notified yesterday in connection with City Tattersall's Club spring meeting.

Wilcannia Picnic Race Club (December 26), Corowa Licensed Victuallers' Racing Club (November 22), and Wollongong Jockey Club (November 7) race meetings have been granted registration by the A.J.C.

Tachreet was yesterday struck out of all the A.J.C. classic races for two-year-olds.

A requisition signed by ten members was yesterday (wires our local correspondent) handed to the secretary of the Bathurst Turf Club, asking that official to call a public meeting to consider the question of seceding from the Western District Racing Association.

Messrs. William Inglis and Son announce that on Monday next, at noon, they will offer for sale by auction, at their bazaar, Pitt-street, the racehorses, Gold Rose, Jollyman, Mullengeen, and Bosio.

The different races at Caulfield to-day will be started as under:—Iolo Welter, 1 p.m.; Debutant Stakes, 2 p.m.; Caulfield Stakes, 2.45 p.m.; Ringwood Steeplechase, 3.30 p.m.; Caulfield Guineas, 4.15 p.m.; and Toorak Handicap, 5 p.m. Special arrangements have been made for the results to be wired direct to Randwick, where they will be posted in the grandstand reserve.

The announcement of the death of Mr. Walter R. Hall yesterday was received with deep regret in sporting circles. Mr. Hall was one of the oldest members of the Australian Jockey Club, and for many years was a member of the executive of that body. He bred and owned a number of horses, and his colours —pale blue, black, and gold—were very popular on the turf. He won the A.J.C. Champagne Stakes, 1899, and the Metropolitan, 1900, with Reviver; the A.J.C. Doncaster Handicap, 1895 with Delaware; the A.J.C. Champagne Stakes 1891, with Oxide; and a number of minor races with those mentioned, and other horses. He was actively engaged in the affairs of the A.J.C. almost to the end, for he was present at the last meeting of the committee on the 27th ult, and witnessed the racing at Randwick during the late Spring meeting.

CITY TATTERSALL'S CLUB.

SPRING MEETING.

ANTICIPATIONS.

The Spring campaign at Randwick will be brought to a close this afternoon, when City Tattersall's Club holds its customary fixture, and an enjoyable outing is promised. The tracks and reserves, thanks to the recent favourable weather, are covered with rich verdure, and the going is first-class. Large fields are promised, and the sport should be of a highly interesting character. The sport commences at 1.45 p.m., with the Hurdle Race, which should be responsible for an interesting race among Contorp, Ennismar, Fiddlestring, and Kairoma, and the judge may declare for Kairoma, Fiddlestring, and Ennismar.

Maltchester, Grist, Sweet Bay, and Lady Oliver should have most to say towards the finish of the Flying Handicap, and the numbers may be hoisted for Grist, Lady Olwen, and Maltchester.

Belle Vive, Maltee, and Malt Blossom may fill the situations for the Novice Handicap unless separated by Fugue.

The Club Mile promises an interesting battle among Gigandra, Bandon Lad, Miss Corelli, Malheur, and North Woodleigh, and Bandon Lad, Gigandra, and Miss Corelli may get home in that order.

Safrano, King Bee, Colma, and Mutilator should have the settlement of City Tattersall's Handicap among them, and Mutilator, Safrano, and Colma may fill the places.

The afternoon's sport winds up with the Flying Welter, in which Maltchester, Barley Water, Blackpool, and Little Lill, and Barley Water, Blackpool, and Maltchester may pass the post as named.

VICTORIA AMATEUR TURF CLUB.

ANTICIPATIONS.

The Spring Meeting of the Victoria Amateur Turf Club opens at Caulfield this afternoon, and, with races for two and three year olds and all horses at w.f.a., the sport is invested with plenty of interest. The racing commences at 1 p.m. with the Iolo Welter, which promises to attract a large field, and the race is very open; but at the weights the chances of Blast, Gay Bob, Golden Point, Gunboat, and Terragong seem the brightest, and the numbers may be hoisted for Blast, Gunboat, and Terragong.

The Debutant Stakes should bring about an interesting battle among Ventura, who carries 14lb penalty, Deeside (10lb penalty), Golden Gauntlet, and Marasca; and Ventura, Deeside, and Marasca may get home as named.

Malt King, Aurofodina, Comedy King, and Lady Medallist should have the settlement of the Caulfield Stakes among them; and the judge may declare for Malt King, Lady Medallist, and Aurofodina.

A large field is promised for the Ringwood Steeplechase, and at the weights Icicle, King Darius, Horizon, and Banshee seem the best in, while the places may be occupied by King Darius, Icicle, and Horizon.

The Caulfield Guineas should be responsible for a very interesting contest, in which the most prominent parts should be played by Radiator, Flaith, Woolerina, and Cisco, and Cisco, Flaith, and Woolerina may divide the honours.

The battle for the Toorak Handicap should be fought out among Lager, Full Sail, Hartfell, and Sylvander. Lager and Sylvander hail from the same stable, and the choice—probably Lager—may be escorted home by Hartfell and Full Sail.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Safrano, who was overlooked yesterday, was taken out of the Toorak Handicap to-day, leaving 14 still eligible to run.

Edinburgh, Soultberg, and Wheat King, who were left in the Caulfield Guineas by mistake, were also withdrawn to-day. There are still two doubtful starters—Swifty Joe and King Pharoah—among the list of acceptors for the Caulfield Guineas.

The following other scratchings for the V.A.T.C. meeting were recorded to-day:—Ringwood Steeple, Bullio; Iolo Welter, Rangare and Daybreak; Windsor Handicap, Mountain Princess; Caulfield Cup, Safrano, Chaste, and Mountain Princess.

Beyond some spurts of half a mile, there was little to interest in work at Flemington to-day. Flaith, who is in great heart, made the fastest time, just breaking 51s; while Mala made that time, and Lady Medallist was half a second longer. That there is nothing amiss with Woolerina was shown by his getting over the distance in 52s. Posio was in front of Ipidi in 52½s; Hartfell and Lord Kitcheran took 52¼s, and so did Bunting and Brewster.

At Caulfield, Ventura, Cisco, and Sconser were among those to spurt short distances.

Flavian will be ridden in the Caulfield Cup by G. Lambert.

The latest scratchings for the V.R.C. Spring Meeting are:—

Melbourne Cup: Mountain Princess, Danilo, Malheur, and Ocean Blue. Maribyrnong Plate: Mother's Day, Sylva Lari, Martha B., and Chin Chin.

M. Connell will have the mount on Elvanite in the Caulfield Guineas. W. H. M'Lachlan will ride Ventura in the Debutant Stakes, and Lager in the Toorak Handicap.

The recent arrivals from Sydney, Simmereen and The Maze, are located at Flemington. J. W. Cook has charge of them. Cadonia and Malt Bin, two other Sydney arrivals, are at Caulfield.

NAMOI PICNIC RACE CLUB.

WEE WAA, Friday.

Picnic races were held here on Wednesday and yesterday in perfect weather. The attendance was large, and the racing very good. Mr. M'Dougall, the president, acted as judge. CRICKET.

TO-DAY'S COMPETITION MATCHES.

The concluding half of the second round of grade matches will be played this afternoon, when some interesting cricket should be witnessed. At Chatswood Oval the premier club may find it difficult to keep Burwood from inflicting a defeat, for, with half the side out, Gordon require 96 runs to win. At Parramatta Central Cumberland and Petersham may provide an interesting finish, though the position—Petersham 189, and Cumberland three for 104—at present favours the home side. MR. BEEBY AT GUNNEDAH.

LIVING AREAS.

GUNNEDAH, Friday.

The Minister for Lands, Mr. Beeby, addressed a large and enthusiastic meting at Gunnedah on Friday night, the Mayor (Ald. M'Donagh) being in the chair.

Dealing with land matters, Mr. Beeby specially referred to the living area principle, and urged that the central idea of all future land legislation should be to make it impossible for a man to hold more than a reasonable home-maintenance area in a district suitable for closer settlement. No rigid rule as to the extent of a living area could be laid down, as the circumstances of locality, distance from market, and quality of soil must be considered in each case. He believed, however, that if Parliament authorised the proclamation of closer settlement districts a properly constituted board could in each district prescribe what should be a reasonable living area. Mr. Wade and other Liberal supporters had been contending that they believed in this principle. In 1908, however, the amending Crown Land Act, which included the conversion clause, was framed in such a way as to permit of the building up of large estates in the future. When Mr. Carruthers's Homestead Selection Act was passed some years ago, there was a clear and definite provision made to prevent a man holding more than a living area. Mr. Wade's Conversion Act did not, however, provide any safeguards against the future accumulation of large estates. Under this Act a man who converted could, after his 10 years' residence condition, pay up the balance of his instalments to the Crown, and having paid this and received his grant, all restrictions as to his right of sale ceased. In this way the door was opened for further land speculation and the aggregation of large estates. The original conception of Sir Joseph Carruthers' homestead selection was that for all time it could not pass into the hands of any other man holding a home maintenance area. The Conversion Act only conserved this principle so long as the land was a C.P., and the moment that the final instalments were paid all restrictions ceased, and yet Mr. Wade was still pinning his faith to the purchase of large estates as the only solution of the land problem. His Government deliberately altered the law to make it possible to build large estates up in the future. The Gunnible Estate near Gunnedah was originally valued by the closer settlement advisory board for closer settlement purposes at an average value of £5 5s per acre, and it was proclaimed for resumption by the Government. On representations being made by the owners to Mr. Wade's Government, the proclamation was withdrawn on condition that the owners subdivided privately, and allowed the Minister for Lands to be a party to the sale in order to attach restrictive covenants against unlimited resale. The land was offered, and then the Minister for Lands joined in the contract for sale and the transfer. The only limitation which he insisted on was that no purchaser should for a period of five years sell or lease the land without the consent of the Minister. After five years the purchasers could do what they liked with the land, and in the natural course of events, on account of the high prices paid, a great deal of it would drift back into the hands of the large landholders.

Many of the private subdivisions of which the Liberal Government had boasted so much had not been conducive to genuine settlement, but had led to unhealthy land speculation. The man who finally got on to much lands as a settler paid a price which had been forced up by this speculation, rendering it almost impossible for him to successfully carry out his operations. The one thing that all amending land legislation introduced by the present Government would decisively deal with was this question of the living area, the prevention of land gambling and the re-aggregation of big estates.

You've sat

and noticed how merry people become over a cup of "Robur" tea. There's something in a cup of steaming, pure tea which freshens one up, and makes one feel bright and invigorated.

Try the No. 2 grade for general family use; it is very good tea.

AUSTRALIA'S BISLEY.

FINAL OF THE KING'S.

EXCITING DAY AT RANDWICK.

The fight is over and the 1911 King's is an incident of history. How Harry Motton won the coveted prize is on every marksman's lips, and the close run W. Cutler gave him for it is a matter of universal admiration.

Naturally, the third stage of the "King's" came in for the bulk of the attention at Randwick yesterday, but the other events set down for consideration were the Philip Charley, the Finn, the Gordon, and the Revolver, which have been continued throughout the week.

During the afternoon the Inspector-General (Major-General Kirkpatrick, C.B.) and his staff-officer, Major Patterson, Lieut.-Col. Chauvel (Adjutant-General), Lieut.-Col. Holmes, O.C. 1st A.I.R., Major Boam, Director of Rifle Clubs, and Major Wallace Brown, General Staff Officer, visited the range.

Details of the shooting are as follow:—

THE DEMOSTHENES.

The new Aberdeen liner Demosthenes, 11,300 tons, which is due to arrive at Sydney this morning from London, via Capetown and Melbourne, is not only the first triple-screw vessel in the Aberdeen line, but the first vessel engined on the combination principle of reciprocating and turbine machinery to enter the Australian trade. The combined experience of owners and builders has been devoted to the production of a steamer that will challenge comparison with anything afloat for comfort. The vessel, practically a sister ship to the Themistocles, is fitted with wireless telegraphy and submarine signalling apparatus, and has superior accommodation for 100 first-class and nearly 300 third-class passengers.

The public apartments are spacious in size and artistic in decoration. These comprise a library and lounge situated forward on the bridge deck, while the smokeroom and a delightful verandah cafe are situated aft on the same deck. The single-berth staterooms are located on the bridge deck, whilst on the awning deck below are two and three berthed rooms. The dining saloon is situated on the main deck, the tables here seating from four to eight passengers on the restaurant principle. The third-class quarters are said to attain a high degree of excellence. A smoke-room and general room are situated on the awning deck, where also are a few two-berth staterooms, while the dining room and the major portion of the sleeping accommodation, comprising mostly single, two, and four berth rooms, are situated on the main deck.

On her trial trip the Demosthenes accomplished a speed of a little more than 17 miles an hour, whilst on the voyage from London it cost her no effort to "reel off" 14 knots when required.

FINANCIAL.

THE INVESTMENT MARKET.

AN ACADEMIC VIEW.

There has been a little more activity on the Stock Exchange during the week, but prices on the whole had a drooping tendency. It is difficult to ascertain what cause underlies the weakening in so many second-grade securities, perhaps the fear of dry weather being experienced over a good portion of the State is to some extent responsible. Wool prices are scarcely as high as they were, but they are still sufficiently above the average to leave a large margin beyond the cost of production. Last week we gave a summary of what we deemed to be among the leading principles that should be observed by the prudent investor, whose objective was security rather than big returns. This summary was not regarded as logical in its arrangement or exhaustive in its scope. It was founded rather on its simplicity and was calculated to appeal to the least experienced investor. We note that a similar classification was recently made by that well-known economic authority, Dr. Beattie Crozier. He first of all classifies all enterprises according to the following generalised categories:—

(1) The extent, mass, permanence, and stability of the securities on which they rest.

(2) The extent to which they rest primarily on money, and its range of fluctuations, and secondarily on industry, or primarily on industry and its range of fluctuations, and only secondarily on money.

(3) The extent to which they rest on such provisions as are possible in the ups and downs of industrial business of all kinds on the one hand, or on calculations that fall under the mathematical laws of probability.

(4) The extent to which the element of time enters into the composition of their business bargains.

(5) The amount of natural monopoly that attaches to them from peculiarities of their situation or surroundings, or owing to the mass of free capital which they can concentrate on any business situation at any moment.

The above have direct reference to the positive advantages of different classes of securities. These having been ascertained, it is necessary to turn over the securities on to their negative or reverse side for the purpose of ascertaining the extent, magnitude, and imminence of the risks to which they are exposed. These comprise:—

(a) The extent to which the risks are sudden and incalculable, or are foreseeable as to enable investors to prepare against them, either wholly or in part. An altogether incalculable risk is, of course, a pure gamble, and not a proper subject for scientific investment unless indeed it can be controlled by the mathematical law of probabilities.

(b) The extent to which politics and other complications interfere with different classes of stock, and make their possession as a permanent source of investment precarious.

(c) The extent to which the vagaries of the money market are a factor.

All these are considerations that are well worth weighing. For example, the investor who contemplates putting money into gaslight shares has to set against the fact of its being an effective monopoly as a gas producer the possibility of State interference, and so an investor in Sydney Ferries must ever keep before him the possibility of either complete nationalisation, or what to him might prove a worse alternative, of active Government competition. Those thinking of investing their capital in an amusement venture must realise that they have to face a change of public fancy, and should look for big immediate returns to compensate them for that risk. Those investing in fire office shares are aware that although the contracts that such offices issue are in the nature of gambling contracts, nevertheless they are in practice rendered scientific by the application of mathematical laws. So with shares in life offices. Their business is a pure gamble. A man may pay a ten-pound note to-day and his personal representatives may be able to claim a thousand pounds from the company to-morrow. Yet in point of fact there is no business more subservient to mathematical laws than life assurance.

There have been no sales of funded stock during the week. Bank shares were in good demand, A.B.C. at a rise of /2, and Union Bank of 5/, while Queensland National eased /6. Steam shares were quiet, Port Jackson rising 1/, while Union of New Zealand were /6 easier. Insurance shares came in for a good deal of attention, but prices did not vary very materially. Mercantile Mutual rose /6. Gas shares were quiet, Australian easing 2/6, while North Shore old rose /3. Castlemaine and Wood Bros.' Brewery were /1½ down, other breweries being without change. Coal shares altered but slightly. North Bulli eased /3, East Greta /3, Wickham and Bullock Island pref. rose /6, while Wallsend eased 10/. Miscellaneous shares sold well. Beard, Watson rose /6, Richardson and Wrench /3, Sanders, Sutton, and Whitehead /1½. Standard Waygood old eased /6, Goldsbrough, Mort rose /6, Allen Taylor eased /3, Permanent Trustee rose /3, Colonial Sugar eased 10/, Paris House /3, Emu Gravel 1/6, Silverton Trams rose 1/9, Aerated Bread rose /1½, Henry Jones Co-operative eased /6, Hart's 2/, Mont de Piete rose /6, Port Swettenham Rubber 2/9, Nicholson's old eased /6, J. D. Williams rose /9, Ironite /6, Burns, Philp /9, E. Rich eased /1½, Perdriau 3/6, Spencer's eased 1/3.

PRINCIPLES OF INVESTMENT.

Mr. W. A. Hamilton Gosche writes:—

Sir,—In your issue of the 7th instant you give some valuable advice to investors. There are one or two statements with which many of your readers will hardly agree.

You say:—"A seventh principle is to have regard to the fact as to whether the productiveness of the security is based on industrial peace. It would be advisable not to have too much capital invested in industrials."

Is not all capital invested directly or indirectly in industries and other undertakings which in a great measure depend upon industrial peace? All dividends spring from manual labour, and from nothing else. Capital itself can earn nothing, and consequently if capital is to earn dividends it is in every direction dependent on the productive power of manual labour, which alone creates tangible wealth.

Further on in your remarks you make a statement which is hardly supported by facts.

You say:—"For an eighth principle regard should be had whether the securities are sufficiently liquid, —in other words, as to whether the holder has a reasonable prospect of finding ready buyers in the event of his suddenly deciding to sell. Some of the shares listed on the Stock Exchange are not dealt in on an average more than once in 12 months. Such are of little use to the prudent investor desirous of taking no risks." Surely this argument does not bear the stamp of logic. To my mind it is just the other way about, because stocks which are bought and sold most frequently on the Stock Exchange appear to be of the speculative order, and therefore the least secure. The less frequently shares are sold the more value apparently placed upon them by the holders.

Investigation would prove that shares of the fluctuating kind are the ones which are most frequently bought and disposed of. Surely this class cannot be recommended as sound investment. There are a number of flourishing undertakings the shares of which very rarely change hands. I know of one big industrial undertaking backed by an Act of Parliament, and supported by a number of municipalities, which was started three years ago. The shareholders comprise some of the most successful business men of Sydney. The board of directors is probably the strongest that could be found in any company in Australia. Dividends of 5 per cent. have already been paid, and the works are making such rapid progress that these must increase considerably in future. The security is absolutely gilt-edged, and yet not a single share has so far changed hands on the Stock Exchange.

As to the seventh principle surely shares in, say, the Commercial Banking Company of Sydney would be less affected by industrial trouble than in, say, a coal mine. All wealth is certainly the product of the joint application of capital and labour—not of labour alone, as our correspondent asserts—but in some cases labour is a far more important element than in others. Surely, when industrial troubles are about the investor who has his money in funded stock will get more regular returns than he who has locked his capital up in industrials? As to the eighth principle, we should certainly rather have 100 Bank of New South Wales shares to dispose of in a hurry than 100 shares in some of those concerns that scarcely ever appear on the sale list of the Stock Exchange. Liquidity is certainly to our mind an essential qualification in a desirable security.

CANADIAN IMMIGRATION.

During the last 10 years Canada has received nearly 2,000,000 immigrants, of whom approximately 750,000 were from the United Kingdom and 700,000 from the United States. Up to the close of the fiscal year ended March 31, 1911, the total was 1,714,326 for the decade. Since then nearly 200,000 more have arrived, divided about equally between American and British immigrants. About 65 per cent. of the immigrants arriving from the United States have been farmers, who for the most part have settled in the prairie provinces. Thirty-eight per cent. of the total number from the United States made entries for homesteads in the west. About 30 per cent. of the European arrivals were farmers or farm labourers, while 25 per cent. were classed as general labourers, and nearly the same percentage as mechanics. The influx of negroes has totalled a little more than 460, while 5200 Hindus have come. Of the British immigrants, approximately 500,000 have been English and Welsh, 150,000 Scotch, and about 45,000 have been Irish. Figures for other nationalities include: Austro-Hungarian 121,000, Italian 63,817, Hebrew 48,675, Russian 39,250, Swedish 19,349, German 21,146, French 16,226, Norwegian 13,798, Syrian 5223. Western Canada received some 300,000 more immigrants than the eastern section. Saskatchewan and Alberta received more than half a million.

DEDELE COCOANUT PLANTATIONS CO., LTD.

An abridged prospectus of the above company appears in our advertising columns. It is proposed to form a company with a nominal capital of £12,000 in shares of £1 each, of which 750 fully-paid-up go to the promoters, 4000 have already been applied for, and 8000 are being offered to the public. Apparently the 4000 includes the 750, though the prospectus does not make this clear. The vendors, Messrs. Whitten Bros., of Port Moresby, sell a cocoanut plantation at Dedele, Cloudy Bay, Papua, consisting of 814 acres of freehold land and 43 acres of leasehold, with an additional 100 acres applied for, for £[illegible] in cash. The working capital will thus be £5250, less flotation expenses. No verified statement of past profits is given, nor is there an independent valuation of the plantation, though a favourable report by the late manager of the Government experimental farm at Waga, Waga, Papua, on the suitability of the soil is appended. It is stated that 56 tons of copra were produced in 1910, and estimates of the probable production for the next few years are given. Dividends of 10 to 12 per cent. on the capital of the company are promised, with more as the company's land is brought under cultivation. There are apparently no material contracts entered into. At all events, none are mentioned in compliance with section 66 of the Companies Act. The provisional directors are:—Messrs. Wm. Whitten, M.L.C., Papua; Joseph Cox, Lithgow; W. G. Pye, Randwick; and W. Lawrance, Sans Souci.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

ACTIVITY IN OILS.

Principal business was done yesterday in the oil market, the arrival of the Port Curtis putting a quantity on to the market. Her oil cargo included about 2400 drums of B.S. and Co.'s linseed. Of this quantity 400 drums were sold yesterday in parcels at 5/4 and 5/6 for raw and boiled. Three hundred drums of Thistle oil to arrive per Hyacinth in about two weeks' time were procured at 5/2 and 5/4 per gallon. Distributing business in both brands of oil was very active at the quoted rates, 5/7 and 5/9 for first brands, and 5/5 and 5/7 for second brands. China wood oil or tung oil, which is used in place of linseed oil, also had business. Cable advices were received telling of an advance of £4 a ton in China, presumably owing to the Wu-chau rebellion. One firm here accordingly set out to buy up all on the market, but could only obtain 35 cases at 3/10 per gallon. The market was also cleared of all second brands of whitelead offering, about 12 tons changing hands at varying prices from £32/15/ to £33 for cwts., and to £33/15/ for quarters. No more was to be obtained at these prices, and the market closed very firm. A sale of Champion's was made above the quotation of £35. The amount brought out by the Port Curtis was not so great as was anticipated on Thursday, and so the market remained extremely firm. All Morrison's oils, woolmarking and flyblown, were steady, and had good business. A parcel of woolmarking was sold to Victoria.

The shortage of galvanised iron so apparent for a month past should be to some extent relieved by the importation of 408 cases by a recent steamer. Fair quantities of bar iron had also been put on the market by the hardware houses, but there was no relief in prices. The demand continued heavy, especially for round descriptions, from one-half inch to one inch. No. 8 galvanised wire had further sales at the increased rate of £10/17/6 per ton. Small lots of black fencing wire principally No. 8 gauge—were also sold. Australia was reported to be shipping little wolfram; most of the demand was covered from Europe. Latest quotations by cable were from [illegible] to 31/ per unit (65 per cent.). Antimony was quoted at £8 per ton for 50 per cent. ore.

In groceries Treff.'s sardines were unprocurable in parcels, they being too well held. Most proprietary lines from England, such as sauces, essences, and oils, and some varieties of fish, were still reported to be in short supply, and, judging from the cable published yesterday regarding the congestion on the wharfs, in England, that the shortage could not be relieved until the end of November was regarded as probable. The advanced prices in Eastern produce had hardly had time to operate among distributers, but it was not expected that the diminution of business would be of great moment. As regards canary seed all houses viewed the position with considerable anxiety, and if no shipments come forward the State will in all probability be bare before the end of the year. In chemical, phosphorus was quoted at 2/3 per lb. A fair business was done in other lines without quotable change in prices.

The tea auctions were on the whole of a satisfactory character. Bidding was better than it had been during the earlier part of the week, and the prices realised in the majority of cases were up to cost. 600 packages of Ceylon teas were sold up from 8d to 10½d, and 200 packages of Indians from 8½d to 9½d. The market generally was firm. No private business was recorded.

Jute fabrics wer quoted at unaltered prices. Further business was done in cornsacks for the country at 5/9 for November delivery, and for December delivery 5/8½ was quoted. For spot lots the quotations of most houses were 5/9, though that price might perhaps be shaded. A sale was given under the market. For end of October shipment by the Umta the cable quotation was equal to a delivered cost of 5/7½. This would be December delivery. Branbags were firm at 4/3, but the small market business of the previous day was not repeated. It had been occasioned by one or two country houses finding themselves short. The Calcutta quotation had advanced, and for shipment October to March the landed cost would be 4/1½. Sales of 16oz orebags were made at 3/.

TRADE WITH CHINA.

In 1903 Australian exports to China amounted to in value £119,993, and for the year ended December 31, 1910, the value was £760,168, the bulk representing New South Wales goods. Mr. J. B. Suttor, the commercial agent in the East, who furnished these figures to Mr. J. M. Sandy, in a report to the Government points out that there are openings for further trade in the northern ports of China, which are developing very fast; but if Australians want their goods to be taken in those ports they will have to make arrangements with local houses to specially stock their goods and vigorously push them. The official figures regarding our exports and imports from China would no doubt be largely increased were it possible to obtain the statistics of the re-export trade from Hongkong, to which many of our products in the first place go.

THE HOP SHORTAGE.

Further reports from English hop factors regarding the shrinkage in the hop crops of the world show that the situation is quite as serious for the brewers as it was painted a week ago. Broadly speaking, the world's crop will fall short of the world's consumption by from 200,000 to 300,000 cwt. In England there has been a large increase in the brewing trade, and a conservative estimate puts the English consumption at 600,000cwt per annum, which is at least 250,000cwt below English requirements. Stocks held by brewers are very small. At the end of August the price of hops had risen in Germany from £12/10/ to £20 per cwt, and since then the price has further advanced to 25 marks. The quality both in Germany and England of the new crop is exceptionally good.

TEA IMPORTS INTO THE STATE.

Some discussion having arisen regarding the figures which have been quoted in this column showing a shrinkage in the imports of tea from Ceylon into Australia and New Zealand, it has been submitted that if the imports into New South Wales alone were published the market would be enabled to judge more clearly of the amount of stocks in hand. Accordingly we publish the imports into this State, taken from Tarrant and Co.'s circular for the months January to August of this year and last year:—

	1911. lb.	1910. lb.
January	731,509	448,984
March	449,681	409,922
April	428,018	731,135
May	654,600	718,384
June	1,261,588	1,259,929
July	1,255,853	1,671,937

There is thus a shrinkage for this State of 860,000lb as regards Ceylon tea alone. The "Chamber of Commerce Prices Current" of Colombo gives the exports to New South Wales from January 1 to September 18 at 6,282,287lb, compared with 7,345,635lb in the same period of 1910.

THE EXPORT TRADE.

BREADSTUFFS.

THE MARKET STEADY.

The market for wheat opened firmer yesterday on reports of a slightly "bullish" character from Europe, though shippers did not advance their price, which remained at 3/6¼ ex trucks Sydney for both new and old wheat. For parcels there were buyers in the market at 3/7½ per bushel, and for prompt delivery to fill up freight perhaps as high as 3/8 would have been paid. This wheat, however, could not be procured, owing to the uncertainty of the railways. A cargo of early loading was reported by cable to have been sold to 36/4½ per quarter of 480lb, which was slightly better than the previous quotation. During the course of the day, however, the market became less confident on further cables becoming known that there was no snap in the London market, and that a great deal depended on the reports as to crop prospects in Australia. Reports, too, from Western Australia had some influence on the market. For a week past the telegrams from that State reporting on the conditions of the wheat now growing had been unsatisfactory, and it was even expected that in place of exporting Western Australia would have to import wheat next year. Yesterday's telegrams put a different complexion on affairs. Heavy rains had fallen, and prospects were therefore considerably brighter. All round it was a weather market. The price closed steady at opening quotations.

The flour market was also steady, with a quiet business at £8/15/ for best city brands as fixed by the association. For export flour could be procured at £7/17/6 to £8 f.o.b.

DARLING ISLAND GRAIN SHED.

DIVIDED CONTROL.

The shippers who lease the wheat-storage shed at Darling Island are now in negotiation with the Chief Railway Commissioner (Mr. T. R. Johnson) regarding the terms on which their leases are held. For 10 months of the year the Railway Commissioner lets on lease each section of the shed at £40 a month. For the remaining two months of the year the Harbour Trust controls the shed, apparently, and it also lets on lease each section for those two months at £40 per month. Why there should be this division of authority is one of those things which no man outside of a Government department can understand. But the Railway Commissioner in his two blank months still has an interest in the shed, to wit, the grain elevators. During the 10 months he holds control of the shed he throws the use of the elevators in with the section. When the Harbour Trust enters upon its two months of control, which is now in progress, the Railway Commissioner also wants to reap revenue from the same source. This year he has accordingly imposed a tonnage rate on the use of the elevators. On the amount of wheat which has been contracted to be shipped this rate will mean a sum per month equal to three times the rent, so that the shippers will pay not only £40 per month for the use of each section, but also £120 per month for the use of the elevators in each section. Though representations have been made to the Railway Commissioner on the subject, so far no redress has been obtained.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 1381 tons of wheat and 100 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

WHEAT.

LONDON, Oct. 12, 2 a.m.

The wheat markets are steady on firmness in America, and owing to continuous frosts in Argentina. Quotations of Australian cargoes are consequently hardening.

The cargo, 29,140 bags, by the barque Carradale, Adelaide May 22, has been sold at 36/3 per quarter c.i.f.

Holders are asking 36/6 for South Australian cargoes of August shipment, and for a New South Wales cargo of October 15 shipment. A sum of 34/10½ per quarter c.i.f. has been paid for a parcel afloat in the steamer Cufic, Sydney August 9; 35/3 is asked for a parcel of September-October shipment. There is a fair inquiry for Australian wheat on spot, and 37/ per quarter of 496lb has been paid.

FLOUR.

There is a moderate demand for flour, 25/6 per sack of 280lb ex store having been paid, and 25/ to arrive.

OATS.

The market for oats is firm, La Plata December-January shipment being quoted at 16/9 per quarter of 304lb.

FREIGHTS.

The market for freights is quiet. A fixture for despatch of a steamer from a South Australian port in January has been made at 27/ per ton.

BUTTER.

The prices of Danish butter are irregular, about 148/ being the market for choicest. Colonial salted butter is quoted at 132/ to 134/ per cwt, and 134/ to 136/. High prices are rendering buyers somewhat nervous.

CHEESE.

The market for cheese is dull, Canadian cheese of September shipment selling at 69/ per cwt.

FALL IN EGGS.

There was practically a glut of eggs in the Sussex-street market yesterday morning. Fresh supplies of river varieties were to hand. The Clarence boat brought 291 cases, the Richmond 21, and the Byron Bay 20. In comparison with previous weeks these shipments showed a falling-off, but the receipts of railways and new-laid suburban eggs more than compensated for any shortage. Values were therefore reduced. New-laid suburban sold at /9¼, with a few extra choice graded lots at /10, and northern rivers and railways at from /8 to /8¼. There was very little difference between the quality of the railway and river eggs. Both were unsatisfactory. The hot weather was, of course, to a large extent responsible for this, and consignors would be well advised to carefully grade all eggs before sending to market, as grocers have begun to pick and choose the brands, and reliable quality will always realise better values.

Cheese was in average request at previous levels. The Wee Clyde came alongside on Thursday evening with a shipment of the new make from Milton, while one of the Illawarra Company's fleet was yesterday morning discharging a considerable shipment from South Coast ports.

No further fluctuation was reported in bacon. It was stated that the position in Melbourne was a little more secure, and that prices showed a firming tendency. Another factor which tended to strengthen the market was that some merchants were sending green bacon to Brisbane.

For the time being hams were dull. Towards the end of August grocers begin to order for Christmas delivery, and as we are now in the middle of October the rush is naturally over. In about another month or six weeks, however, the "eleventh hour" buyers will begin to operate.

Stocks of beeswax were heavy, and sales quiet. A good demand prevailed for choice clear lines at 1/3.

Quotations for butter were unchanged, and the demand showed no improvement. In fact, it was, if anything, a little more disappointing. The distributing area is becoming more restricted, owing to the inland centres producing sufficient butter for all local requirements.

Following were current quotations:—

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

Further heavy stocks of maize were received. The Wyrallah brought a shipment of 3000 bags from Melbourne, while the Clarence boat had something like 200 bags on board. It was currently reported that only a small proportion of the 3000 bags from Melbourne were for the Sydney market. This would appear likely, as the consignment has been sold and re-sold time and again. Perhaps, as stated, some of the grain is to go forward to Queensland. As far as prices were concerned there was no variation from Thursday.

The first 12 bags of the new season's potato crop were received from the Clarence River. On the whole, the quality was excellent, and the agents experienced no difficulty in obtaining £8 per ton. The tubers were of the Bliss Triumph variety. A shipment of 256 bags of Excelsiors was to hand by the Cooma from Melbourne, and the price for these opened at £6 per ton. The market is now clear of all other descriptions, and prices are purely nominal.

Onions were dull, and the arrival of 193 bags in the Cooma were by no means welcome. Nevertheless, values were steady, the best Brown Spanish selling at £4 per ton.

Supplies of lucerne hay on the Hunter River wharf continued to accumulate and another 400 bales were yesterday added to the stock. Primest quality sold readily at £2/10/ per ton.

Fair business was recorded in chaff, and sales were booked at the printed quotations.

Oaten hay and derrick straw were quiet.

Prices were slightly easier for the 25 trucks of firewood that were forward at the auction. Top value was 19/ per ton.

RAILWAY MARKETS.

POTATOES FIRMER.

During the past fortnight heavy consignments have been arriving at the railway markets, but yesterday only a small number was in "the yard" The qualities, with one or two exceptions, were prime and good. There was a large attendance of buyers, and keen bidding was given for all descriptions of produce. Previous ruling rates, however, were practically unaltered.

The majority of the consignments of wheaten chaff, although not quite up to the standard of prime, were very good. Four trucks of this commodity from Millthorpe attracted a good deal of attention from buyers. The chaff was well cut, and very clean. Two of the consignments brought 4/3, whilst the other two realised 4/6 per cwt. For other prime qualities 4/ and 4/1 were obtained. Medium lots exchanged hands at from 2/7 to 3/3. Three consignments of oaten chaff were sold. The first one, being of good quality, brought 3/, and the other two realised 4/5 and 4/9 respectively. A truck of lucerne chaff of extra prime quality was sold at 5/1 per cwt. It is seldom that a consignment of such good quality is seen in "the yard," but when it is auctioned a high price and keen bidding are generally given. Lucerne hay was not plentiful, but it commanded fair attention, especially one consignment of small bales of prime quality, which realised 5/3. Good small bales were sold at 3/3, and inferior small 2/6. Derrick straw brought 2/3 per cwt.

The grain in the market consisted of one truck of wheat and five trucks of maize. Neither received much attention. Good chick-wheat was purchased at 3/2½. Only one truck of maize was sold. The quality was prime white, and the price obtained was 3/6. One buyer sold a number of bags of prime yellow maize privately at 3/8 per bushel, but when the balance was offered it failed to elicit a bid. Other lots were passed at 3/7¼ per bushel.

About sixteen consignments of potatoes were in the market, but the majority of these were sold privately. The attendance was again large, while competition was good. Although there were no alteration in prices, the market ruled firmer. Only one lot failed to be sold. Prime lots realised 6/ by private sale, but 5/3 was the highest price obtained by auction. Good tubers were sold at 4/, and medium from 3/ to 3/8 per cwt.

MINING.

LONDON FIRM IN BARRIERS.

COPPER DULL. GOLD AND TIN EASY.

Barrier shares opened with a fairly buoyant feeling yesterday morning. This was primarily due to the fact that the cabled quotations of the London Stock Exchange on Thursday indicated a firmer feeling dominating British operations.

Both the Adelaide and Melbourne Stock Exchanges are not slow to follow the "lead" given, and the Sydney Stock Exchange fell into line with the southern Exchanges. The result was a hardening of values, so that the business recorded was on sound lines in British (old and new), Broken Hill Souths (paid), and Broken Hill Junction Norths, accompanied by a strengthening of the quotations for other Barrier stocks.

Though the price of copper was reported to have recovered 7/6 per ton, it did not have the slightest effect in improving the call for copper stocks. Indeed, Mount Morgans sold on the down grade, whilst Great Fitzroys repeated the weaker value reached a few days ago. As to other copper stocks, there was no strength in the buying offers made.

A few unimportant lines were booked in gold shares, but generally speaking, this division was lifeless. In the case of tin shares Tongkah Harbour were steady at 52/. but Vegetable Creek weakened still further.

The silver division of the market kept firm to the close of the day. In the copper division, Mount Morgans again sold on the down grade, consequent on the expectation that a large number of shares would be released upon the market owing to the death of a large holder of the stock. Both the gold and tin sections were very dull.

MINING NOTES.

Gold dredging yields:—Araluen Central, No. 1 dredge, 123 hours for 11oz 12dwts, and No. 2 dredge, 126 hours for 79oz 17dwts.

During the past week the eastern leading drive from the rock shaft of the Vegetable Creek tin mine was thin and patchy, due to the roughness of the bottom and the apparent narrowness of the channel. Over the last few feet conditions were more favourable, and the drive is now carrying 6in of washdirt. In the 122ft east crosscut the wash averaged 24in, worth 110lb per cubic yard. Blocking strips off the 250ft east crosscut produced 23 cubic yards, worth 120lb. Some 40cwt tin oxide were obtained during the week. At Chandlers' shaft the crosscut advanced 8ft to 72ft. A little water is now making through the joints in the trap rock.

In the last week of September the dredge of the Tewksbury Proprietary Company handled in 126 hours 14,933 cubic yards of material, for 2oz of gold. The value of the ground was 1.25ed per cubic yard.

The official report of the Broken Hill Junction North Company for the fortnight ended October 10 is as follows:—"No. 12 level: The north main drive advanced to 310ft, total 4..ft. The 12/22 rise advanced to 51ft. Are at considerable loss for want of miners, and the output of crude ore is suffering to a considerable extent thereby. We require 60 more miners than we have. The timberwork of the auxiliary boxes in flotation plant is finished, and the fittings and gear are being placed in position. Three of the acid tanks have been lead-lined. The bedplates and idlers of the tube mill have been placed in position. The feed, return, and V settler elevators are completed. The conveyors, launders, draining belts, etc., are making fair progress. The timber-work in three of the new elevators at the concentrating mill is finished.

The directors of the Great Britain Sluicing Company have declared the twenty-first dividend of 1/ per share, payable on Saturday, October 28. The transfer books close on Monday, October 23.

The Broken Hill Proprietary Company has received a cable message, dated London, October 13, giving the following quotations:—Silver, 2/0 5-16 (official quotation); lead, £15/2/6 (buyers' price); company's shares, £2/6/3 (buyers' price); spelter, £27/15/ (buyers' price).

MOUNT ROSS DIAMOND AND TIN MINE.

The prospectus of the Mount Ross Diamond and Tin Mining Company (No Liability), Copeton, appears in our advertising columns of this issue. The object of the company is to develop the lead recently opened up by the Deep Shaft Syndicate adjoining. A member of the Deep Shaft party is at present in Sydney with a large parcel of 1900 carats recently taken from this lead by hand sieving, one man only working on the face of the drive. It will be interesting to see what future development will do on this run proved to within 100ft of the Mount Ross block. The promoter, Mr. Jas. A. Ross, deserves encouragement in helping to establish this important mining industry.

ASSAYER and ANALYST. Reasonable Fees. Scale on application. C. [illegible], A.I.M.M., [illegible] Pitt-st.—Advt.

BROKEN HILL MINES.

At the B.H. Block 10 mine, the main shaft is down 1770ft, and is to be deepened another 100ft. The south drive at the 1715ft level is in 164½ft. The ore in face has been slightly better for the last couple of feet, averaging 8.3 per cent. lead, 11.7oz silver, and 8.7 per cent. zinc. The rise from this level and the winze from 1615ft level are both in poor-grade ore. The diamond drill at the 1615ft level going out west has been carried to 1116ft in schistose rock.

MINING IN THE STATE.

MUDGEE, Friday.

On the property held by the Havilah Lime and Marble Syndicate, an extensive deposit of dolomite or magnesian limestone has been discovered. This dolomite is pronounced by experts to be of excellent quality from the analysis of two samples taken from different openings. No. 1 sample yielded 99.16 per cent. of calcium carbonate and the other 98.44 per cent. As it is an essential requisite in the production of high quality steel, and being of close proximity to the railway line, it will have an important bearing on the development of the iron and steel industries.

COMMONWEALTH EISTEDDFOD.

Songs, recitations, and dances, with a host of juvenile competitors to interpret and perform, made up an interesting programme at the Y.M.C.A. Hall last night. Shy and self-confident girls all took their turns with eager enthusiasm, and some their defeat with equally good nature. In the vocal solo for girls under 16 years Miss Gladys Cole, of Dulwich Hill, scored full points. Mr. English expressed his warm admiration of this young girl's remarkable voice and of her artistic rendering of the song.

TERRA INCOGNITA.

MAKING AUSTRALIA KNOWN.

LABOUR MEMBER ABROAD.

The Orient liner Orsova brought back to Australia the last of the Federal Parliamentary delegates to the Coronation, one of the party being Mr. Tom Brown, M.P.

Mr. Brown is an Australian born and bred, and this was his first trip outside the Commonwealth. Unlike Mr. Fisher and other politicians who knew England as boys, and counted among their chief pleasures the visits they made to their old schools and other scenes of their boyhood, he went home a stranger, and as a stranger they took him in and honoured him. There were those who, having read about "Tom Brown's Schooldays," asked him if he had come to revisit the scenes of his youth, but the member for Canobias said he was not related to the famous Brown. He had the "time of his life" abroad. He and his fellow-delegates had afternoon tea with the King, and met his Majesty at other functions, associated with dukes and earls, and were feted and banqueted everywhere they went. All the principal cities of the old country were visited, and Mr. Brown also made the grand tour of the Continent.

Describing his impressions in the course of a chat with a reporter yesterday, he said that Europe seemed to be in a chronic state of war preparation. The position, however, was not without hope, for forces were developing and operating for the world's peace. The great disfranchised masses of humanity who bore the brunt of the cost and suffering of war were getting articulate voice in the councils of the nations, and were steadily and surely pronouncing against war, and the world might yet, he thought, see its swords beaten into ploughshares and its present enormous war expenditure deviated into more peaceable and profitable channels.

Mr. Brown said that he found the average untravelled Briton's views of the conditions and potentialities of his great Empire were most crude and ill-informed, and not infrequently bordered on the caricature. Australia suffered most in this connection, because of her remoteness and isolation and a larger degree of misrepresentation. England knew Canada because she was nearer and intercommunication was greater, and she knew South Africa because she, too, was nearer and because of the happenings of the past 10 years. But Australia was largely beyond her ken. Australia herself, or, rather, some Australians, were not without blame in this connection. Vivid press reports of a passing drought and drought losses tended to give the average stay-at-home Briton the impression that Australia was a Sahara, with few, if any, compensations.

Though the Commonwealth was the terra incognita of the Empire to many, Sir George Reid was doing much to make it better known, and Mr. Coghlan and the other Agents-General were also doing invaluable work in this direction. Mr. Brown considered that Sir George Reid was not being paid an adequate salary for his services, nor was sufficient money placed at his disposal for the proper presentment of Australia's interests.

Touching on immigration, Mr. Brown said that Australia need not travel outside the mother country for suitable material with which to fill up her empty spaces.

MOUNT LYELL STRIKE.

MINE TO SHUT DOWN.

ENGINEERS CEASING WORK.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. Pearce, the general secretary of the Federated Engine-drivers and Firemen's Association, to-day handed the following letter to the directors of the Mount Lyell Company:—"I have to inform you that the engine-drivers and other members of this association, employed at your works in Tasmania, will cease work on Saturday, October 14, at 4 p.m., if the demands as set out in my letter of 2nd inst. are not conceded to them, but the engine-drivers and other members will not leave their engines until 24 hours after the time mentioned above. This demand does not apply to engine-drivers and firemen working on the railway. They are to remain on their engines."

The engine-drivers are not to be called out at the Superphosphate Works of the company at Yarraville, as was at first threatened. In regard to the calling out of the engine-drivers at the mine, not much concern is felt, as little damage can be done to the property by a complete cessation of operations.

The General Stevedoring Company, which undertakes the unloading of cargoes for the Mount Lyell Company, has received notice from the Port Phillip Stevedores' Association that its members will not handle anything consigned to the Mount Lyell Company during the currency of the strike. This means that the Mount Lyell Company will be able to continue working for a few weeks, and then shut down its manufacturing works, though ample stocks of superphosphates will remain on hand for customers. If the works are stopped it will be a serious matter for the members of the Artificial Manure Trade Employees' Union, who will be thrown out of work.

GIRLS' REALM GUILD.

LADY DENMAN AS PRESIDENT.

The fourth annual meeting of the Girls' Realm Guild took place last evening in the King's Hall, Phillip-street. Her Excellency, Lady Denman, took the chair, as patron and president, and was accompanied on the platform by Miss Burrows (honorary secretary), Mrs. Edgeworth David (honorary treasurer), and Captain Stewart Richardson.

Lady Denman said she had very great pleasure in being present. She had read the report of the organising secretary with great interest, and was glad to see that this realm guild did not attempt to give out doles of money to this person and that, but helped girls to help themselves, and gave many the education which helped them to start themselves in life. An excellent feature was that girls were expected to help themselves, and not simply depend on others.

Miss Burrows, the organising secretary, then read the annual report, in which she stated that the role of membership had largely increased. Several changes had taken place in the guild. Lady Denman had taken the place of Lady Dudley as president and patron, Lady Cullen had become vice-president, and his Grace the Archbishop had also consented to become one of the patrons.

Mrs. Edgeworth David, said that during the year the girls had shown an excellent spirit of good fellowship, and referred in highly complimentary terms to the work done by Miss Burrows.

An agreeable musical programme was followed by a vote of thanks to Lady Denman, proposed by Mrs. Moseley and seconded by Miss Fry. Lady Denman, in reply, said that she had had a good deal of experience in charitable work in England. She knew how difficult it was to collect money, and the sum of £506 raised at the last fair in the Sydney Town Hall astonished her. She hoped she might be present at the next.

ROUGH OVERLAND TRIP.

SYDNEY TO MELBOURNE.

MOTOR CYCLIST'S EXPERIENCES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. J. Fair, a member of the Motor Cycle Club of New South Wales, who left Sydney at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, arrived at the G.P.O. at 20 minutes to 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Referring to the trip, Mr. Fair said: "I had an exceptionally bad passage. The roads were practically bad all through. I am sure I could do the run in 30 hours under fair conditions; but I would not go through the same journey again for a thousand pounds. While covering the first 22 miles after leaving Sydney I had no fewer than three punctures, but they were the only experiences of the kind I had. A shower of rain fell soon afterwards, making the road greasy, and compelling me to travel very cautiously. When approaching Kyamba the machine got in a rut, and I was thrown off, but escaped with a few minor abrasions on the knees and arms. I left Albury at about 9 o'clock last night, and an hour later had just passed through Chiltern, when my lamp failed. The road there was the worst patch I struck on the journey, and as it was impossible to proceed in the dark, I decided to rest in the bush for the night. I lit a camp fire and went to sleep, but awoke some time afterwards to find that my clothes had by some means become ignited, and were burning, and my motor goggles had got into the fire, and were destroyed. I resumed my journey at 5 o'clock this morning, in the face of a strong wind, and reached the Post Office at 2.40 p.m."

"WILD AUSTRALIA."

Mr. Skuthorp will open his "Wild Australia" entertainment at the Sports Ground at 2 o'clock to-day, when an exciting programme will include buckjump riding competition (£50), bullock riding competition (£10), cattle throwing and tieing, "Australia v America," buffalo riding (first time in Australia), bucking competitions for boys, high jumping, and other equestrian and bush feats. On Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday nights Skuthorp's will appear at the Stadium.

Mr. H. C. Brierley and Mr. Lionel C. Brierley, of Castlereagh-street, have been appointed Justices of the Peace for South Australia.

AMUSEMENTS.

CRITERION THEATRE.

At the Criterion Theatre the last four nights of "Lady Frederick" are now announced, and Miss Ethel Irving will accordingly make her farewell appearances in Somerset Maugham's brilliant and amusing comedy at the matinee next Wednesday, and on the evening of the same day. Miss Irving is drawing crowded audiences at the Criterion, where she is admirably supported by the new company.

PALACE THEATRE.

"Nobody's Daughter," a comedy-drama secured for the Plimmer-Denniston Company by Mr. Allan Hamilton's London agent during the run last year at Wyndham's Theatre, has amply justified that manager's faith in it, and it has now entered upon a considerable run to solid business at the Palace Theatre. This touching story, in which the painful position of a natural child is illustrated in a sunny atmosphere, is strongly played by all the artists concerned. There will be a matinee on Thursday next.

THEATRE ROYAL.

At the Theatre Royal the J. C. Williamson dramatic company, which comprises Messrs. William Desmond, Cyril Mackay, Atholwood, Victor, and Gaston Mervale, with Misses Dorothy Dix and Susie Vaughan, is drawing large audiences in "The Speckled Band," wherein Sherlock Holmes detects yet another arch-criminal, whose collaborator in murder is the Indian reptile, whose spotted skin gives the play its strange title. The last nights of Conan Doyle's drama are now announced.

"THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER."

A fortnight from this evening Sydney playgoers will be invited to bestow their critical consideration upon "The Chocolate Soldier," now concluding its run in Melbourne. This musical comedy, the music of which is by Oscar Straus, will be staged at Her Majesty's. It is described as an "unauthorised parody" of Shaw's "Arms and the Man." In addition to Miss Winifred O'Connor, who plays Nadina, and Mr. Frank Wilson (Captain Massakroff), a baritone who was here with the J. C. Williamson Gilbert and O'Sullivan Company, there will be several new artists, namely, Messrs. Leslie Gaye, Noel Fleming, Albert Kavanagh, Misses Rita Presano and Mabel Graham.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

"Humping the Bluey," the new Australian melodrama at the Adelphi Theatre, brings forward Messrs. Mannering, Riley, Tilton, and Stanford, Misses Guildford, Langridge, and Gresham, in an exciting story of the old colonial days. Beautiful scenery illustrates the bushrangers' camp, and Wamby Run. Mr. George Marlow will introduce an entirely new American company, headed by Allen Doone (Irish tenor) and Edna Kelly in "Sweet County Kerry," on October 28.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

This afternoon and evening, at the Tivoli Theatre, Mr. Harry Rickards will introduce another star attraction in Mr. Albert Rees, a drawing-room entertainer newly arrived from London, whilst the Finneys will contribute their wonderful crystal tank swimming and diving act. The Four Kasranes, comedy acrobats, Barney Armstrong and Kelly, English comedians, Zelini, comedy juggler, Harry Allister, impersonator, the Saxonys in their dancing act, and many other artists, will appear.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

The principal newcomers at to-day's performances, afternoon and evening, will be Smite and Smote, comedy acrobats; Archie Glyn, a refined singer of comic songs; and Miss Sara Collins, a Sydney elocutionist, who thus joins the vaudeville stage. Others will be the famous Potter-Hartwell trio, those favourite singers and dancers, Johnson and Wells; and Queen and Le Brun, in their amusing animal sketch, "Baby's Hunting Day."

NEW PLAY—"MRS. McSWEENEY."

Next Saturday evening an Australian musical farcical comedy "Mrs. McSweeney," in "three acts and a bit," by the late Thos. E. Spencer and Toso Taylor, will be produced for the first time at the Criterion Theatre. "Playwrights, Limited," has engaged Miss Maggie Moore for the title role, and that artist is enthusiastic in regard to it, whilst every care is being taken to afford her an efficient support. The plan will open at Elvy's on Monday.

CONCERT TO MR. BRADLEY.

The Sydney Symphony Orchestra's 80 professional players will give a complimentary concert to their conductor, Mr. Joseph Bradley, to whose self-sacrificing efforts so much of their success has been due, in the Town Hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock. An excellent and varied orchestra programme has been arranged, while Madame Slapoffski will be heard in two operatic items, and Messrs. Mowat and Bryce Carter will be accompanied by the orchestra in romance for violin (Svendsen), and Saint Saens cello concerto respectively. The orchestral items will include:—Valse Triste (Sibelius), Unfinished Symphony (Schubert), "Peer Gynt" Suite (Grieg), Largo from "New World" Symphony (Dvorak), and Prayer from "Mozartiana" Suite (Tschaikowsky). The cast will include Mme. Slapoffski (Senta), Mr. Andrew Black (name-part), Mr. H. Neil (the Steersman and Erik), and Mr. Percy Herford (Daland). The plan will open at Paling's on Wednesday next.

MME. SLAPOFFSKI'S CONCERT.

Strong and influential committees are organising the farewell concert to Mme. Slapoffski prior to her return to England. In addition to the songs contributed by this deservedly popular operatic soprano, Miss Nellie Stewart will appear, and many leading artists will assist.

FOR THE NURSES.

The plans are now filling at Nicholson's for this evening's concert at the Town Hall, to the Nurses' Club, to aid them in purchasing a library for their new home in College-street. A popular programme is being arranged, and, judging from the following list of artists, the concert should prove attractive:—Misses Nellie Black, Myra Greaty, Kitty Gray, Ruby I. Michael, Leah Myers, Elsie Black, Lorna Usher, Mrs. Haffenden-Smith, Miss Trixie Hill, Messrs. Cyril Monk, Bryce Carter, Harrison Allen, Charles Larsen, Nelson Illingworth, Laurance Phillips, Winslow Knight, Andrew K. WELCOME HOME TO CADETS.

In connection with the welcome home, which has been arranged by the Citizens' Committee, to be accorded Major Wynne and the New South Wales contingent of Coronation cadets in the Sydney Town Hall on Wednesday evening next, a "Welcome Ode" has been written by Mr. Alexander Kerr, of Darlington, and will be sung by 40 picked boys from the Cleveland-street Superior Public School, under the direction of Mr. Thomas Thompson. The Ode has been set to music by Mr. Nicholas J. Gehde, who is in charge of the musical programme that evening, which will include several leading artists.

ANCELON-CHAPMAN RECITAL.

In connection with their school of elocution and dramatic art, Mr. Douglas Ancelon, Miss Stella Chapman, and students will give another costume recital in St. James' Hall next Thursday night. They will then play bright one-act comedies, besides the trial scene from "The Merchant of Venice," and the Rosalind scene from "As You Like It." Torzillo's orchestra will assist. The plan is at Palings.

SYDNEY COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

On Friday evening next, in St. James's Hall, a lecture will be delivered under the auspices of the Sydney College of Music, by Captain W. G. Bentley, A.R.C.M., upon the subject of "Modern Military Bands and Music." Dr. J. B. Nash, M.L.C., will preside, and, as usual, the lecture will be interspersed with musical and lantern illustrations. Invitation cards may be obtained from the registrar, Mr. S. Gordon Lavers.

The programme will include scenes from "The School for Scandal," "The Taming of the Shrew" (Mr. Bentley as Petrucio), "Hamlet" (Mr. Bentley), "Counsel's Opinion," "Editha's Burglar," and a monologue, entitled "Yes, Papa." At the recital at St. James's Hall on Thursday, October 26, scenes from "The Merchant of Venice," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "For the King," as well as "My Turn Next," and "Yes, Papa," will be presented. Sim's Conservatoire Orchestra will play. The plan is at Paling's.

WEST'S PICTURES.

"All for Gold" has proved a big attraction to the Glaciarium during the week, thousands having turned up to witness Mr. Percy's stirring dramatic story. The picture was "cut" a little after the first production, and the sub-edited film now contains all the elements of a thrilling incident. On Monday evening, in addition to the star picture, there will be an excellent collection of other novelties. The Australian Commonwealth Cadets have accepted an invitation to be present. There is to be a matinee to-day.

SPENCER'S PICTURES.

At the Lyceum, Spencer's Pictures are attracting big crowds. The programme for to-night is of a high-class order, and includes the fine photo drama, "The Last Drop of Water." This film, which was suggested by the action of Sir Philip Sidney, who, on the field of blood, dying, gave the drop of water for the sake of brotherhood, is a stirring story of the Great American Desert. Other good pictures are "The Sheriff's Brother," "The Modern School of Italian Cavalry," "The French Naval Review," "The Trapper's Five-dollar Bill," and "The Stumbling Block."

ADELPHI THEATRE CONCERT.

At the Adelphi Theatre to-morrow night Mr. A. O'Brien will conduct the Sydney Professional Band in selections from "Faust," "Samson and Delilah," "Maritana," and Fackeltanz. Signor Torzillo will assist, and Messrs. Griffin, Purdon, Fellows, and Daly will play a trombone quartet.

The pairs are well matched, and both have performances of great merit. In the singles championship G. W. Wright, the holder of the title, will meet H. Rice in the semi final round, and this will be an interesting contest in all probability. The semi-final rounds of the ladies' doubles championship also appear on the list of fixtures. INVEST YOUR MONEY IN A HABERFIELD COTTAGE. Sydney's Garden Suburb.

Building on a large scale gives opportunities for economising in the purchase of materials, and so dove-tailing in the work that the cost of labour, as well as of material, is considerably lessened. This plainly puts the case:—

To build one Cottage would cost, say, £647; 10 Cottages, £614/13/ each; 20 Cottages, £608/3/8 each; 30 Cottages, £601/14/3. Notice there is a difference of nearly £46 between the cost of building one and lumping together the building of 30. Where an even larger number of places are being built—as at Haberfield—the saving is still greater.

Yet in the building of these Haberfield Cottages distinctive architecture is put into each place. Stone, bricks, lime, cement, sand, timber, etc., are worked into many novel treatments, and hardly anything is the same in two cottages, although practically the same material is used throughout.

Likewise with the tradesmen; the same men do the work, each of whom is well fitted for the particular section he has to do, and ready to work conjointly with the architect and clerk of works, striving after artistic effect and utility—to build cottages charming in their simplicity and unique in style.

A GOODLY NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES, £575 to £1000, are ready for immediate Sale. Inspect them to-day.

HIGHLY REMUNERATIVE
TOWN PROPERTY INVESTMENTS.

THE ODDFELLOWS' HALL AT WAGGA WAGGA, AND ADJOINING SHOPS.

MEURANT and BLAKE have been instructed by the Trustees of the M.U.I.O.O.F. to sell by Public Auction, at the HALL, WAGGA WAGGA, on SATURDAY, 28th OCTOBER, 1911,
at 3 p.m.,
THE CENTRALLY-SITUATED and HIGH-RENT PRODUCING PROPERTIES known as the ODDFELLOWS' HALL and BUSINESS PREMISES occupied by Mr. A. Lewis, Tailor, and the Canada Cycle and Motor Company.

The immediate and prospect VALUES of these properties cannot be too highly emphasised.
The Hall is a really first-class and UP-TO-DATE THEATRE, and is now in practically constant occupation.
The adjoining buildings permit of very extensive additions and improvements.
Irrespective of the values from a public hall entertainment point of view, the situation makes the property specially adapted for business premises.
It is practically impossible to obtain a site in this congested portion of the town.
It is owing to recent internal legislation consolidating all the funds in a central executive that necessitates a total clearance of the outside investments of the Society.
The trade possibilities of Wagga are hard to estimate, and in consequence, this property should commend itself to Investors, Merchants, and Traders of all descriptions.
The Auctioneers will be only too pleased to supply any information on application.
We cannot too highly recommend this investment to syndicates, theatrical entertainers, speculators, and business people.

TERMS—EASY, AT SALE.

ESTATE OF THE LATE JOHN MAJOR.
BY ORDER OF THE TRUSTEES.

TOWNSVILLE, NORTH QUEENSLAND.

ALL that Exceptionally Valuable CORNER BLOCK, situate at the intersection of FLINDERS and STOKES STREETS, the dimensions of which are 133 feet to FLINDERS-STREET, by depth along STOKES-STREET 165 feet.
THE BLOCK WILL BE OFFERED IN TWO LOTS.
(1) CORNER FLINDERS and STOKES STREETS, 66 feet frontage, by depth 165 feet, and
(2) FLINDERS-STREET, 66 feet by 165 feet.

It is generally admitted that all the Best Business Sites are between DENHAM and STANLEY STREETS, and that STOKES-STREET, being the centre position between them, commands an UNRIVALLED POSITION, enjoying, apart from its centrality, immediately opposite the TOWN HALL BUILDINGS, the large and important Shops, the advantage of its being the ONLY DIRECT COMMUNICATION for VEHICULAR TRAFFIC over ROSS CREEK to the Shipping Wharves, etc., and THE WHOLE OF ROSS ISLAND.
Independent of the rapid strides TOWNSVILLE of late years has made in the improvement of its buildings, viz., from W.B. to handsome Brick Structures, its Shipping and Harbour facilities have more than kept pace, the income from the harbour dues having risen from £20,000 to £50,000 per annum (last year's returns), and showing a very appreciable advance this year. Beyond all doubt TOWNSVILLE is bound to be the CAPITAL OF NORTHERN QUEENSLAND, having a magnificent back country, rich in grazing and sugar lands, and teeming in all kinds of minerals.
TITLE, TORRENS.
TERMS CAN BE ARRANGED.
The present Gross Rental Return from this Property last year was £330 16s, but as the buildings are of little moment such return is absolutely no guide to value of THE SITE, as instanced by the large shop on opposite corner of Flinders and Stokes streets, occupied by Messrs. HEALTH AND PLEASURE AT MANLY.

Each season sees Manly growing more and more popular with those in search of home sites, handy to the city, and in a locality that at the same time affords all the pleasures of a seaside resort. Manly fills the bill in both respects. The fast and cheap service of ferryboats makes the half-hour trip morning and evening something to look forward to. The journey acts as a tonic in the morning, preparing the city man for the business of the day, and the cool breezes of the evening soon dispel the "cobwebby" feeling that is often the outcome of a hard day's work. It is far more pleasant travelling than that afforded by tram or train journey; and is one of the reasons why Manly residents say they "would not care to live anywhere else."

MANLY HEIGHTS ESTATE.

FOR SALE BY PUBLIC
AUCTION, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 28, and our Usual Easy Terms, £1 down and 10s per month for every £50 purchased, will be the order of the day.

This property occupies one of the most healthful and picturesque positions in the suburb. It overlooks the Curl Curl Lagoon and Golf Links, and, as well as commanding magnificent view of the harbour and ocean, it embraces wide panoramic views of the surrounding country. It is a property accessible in every way, being within ten minutes' walk of the Ferry Wharf, and within a minute or two of the Spit-Manly tramline. Plans now ready, so send in your name now to Department H.

BEXLEY,

THE SANATORIUM OF THE CITY.

Bexley is high and healthy, it gets all the benefit of the sea breezes, without the strong salt-laden air which you get when too close to the sea. It is in the country and yet within easy run of the City. It is an ideal home site for those who wish to be away from the dust, noise, and turmoil, and yet within easy distance of their work. ALSTON PARK ESTATE is absolutely the pick of the district, selected for that purpose 20 years ago. The tram Terminus is on the Estate, nice Cottages are going up all round, and it is fast coming in to its own. Now is the time to buy there, for prices are bound to advance. BEAUTIFUL ROSE BAY.

AUCTION SALE ON THE GROUND, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21st, 1911,

CARDIGAN ESTATE, No. 2 SUBDIVISION.

LEAVE TRAM AT NEWCASTLE-STREET.

40 splendid allotments, close to Royal Sydney Golf Links, the Rose Bay Swimming Baths, Rose Bay Beach, and Lyne Park, etc., also within easy walking distance of the northern end of Bondi Beach; the land is 5 to 10 minutes' walk—according to pace—from Newcastle-street tram stop (2d section). The new tramway extension from Bellevue Hill to Watson's Bay, which has been definitely promised, will pass close to the estate, the higher portions of which overlook the Golf Links, Woollahra Point, Bellevue Hill, and the broad expanse of beautiful Rose Bay, which was described by Anthony Trollope as the most beautiful bay in the world. Immediately at the back of the Cardigan Estate rises, some 300ft above sea level, the famous Dover Heights, from which you can obtain Ocean, Harbour, and Landscape Views unsurpassed on this planet. The estate is sheltered from easterly, southerly, and northerly winds, most of it is nice, level, grassy land, particularly suitable for building upon. The roads are made, and dedicated to the council; the footpaths are kerbed and guttered, and avenues of trees planted along the streets. Water supply is being laid on to the estate. Sewerage works will be commenced very shortly, the land being included in the Rose Bay high level sewerage scheme, for which the money has been voted by Parliament. Adjoining land is thickly built upon, with a superior class of modern cottages and villas. The Land values in the locality are rising rapidly, and will soon be beyond the reach of persons of limited means. But those who buy now will be able to get a home site at a very reasonable price, lower, in fact, than land can be bought for in less favoured localities. Those who buy as an investment are sure to make money out of it, the supply being strictly limited and the demand great.

You are invited to come to the auction sale and spend a pleasant afternoon. A brass band will be engaged, and afternoon tea will be provided free. Prizes of £3, £2, and £1 will be awarded to persons who guess the nearest to the average price which the land will bring. Competition Cards, Books of Views, Plans, and Particulars supplied Free on application to the Auctioneers. FRANK LOCK and CO., REAL PROPERTY MERCHANTS, ROSE BAY. 'PHONE, 899 EDGECLIFF. AARONS' EXCHANGE HOTEL, SYDNEY,

EDWARD TRENCHARD and CO., in conjunction with NEW ZEALAND LOAN AND MERCANTILE AGENCY COMPANY, LIMITED, have received instructions from M. H. Clifford, Esq., and the Equity Trustees, Executors, and Agency Company, Limited, the executors of the late William Peterson and F. G. Sargood, Esq., and the Trustees, Executors, and Agency Company, Limited, the executors of the late Sir Frederick T. Sargood, to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at Aarons' Exchange Hotel, Sydney, on THURSDAY, 19th October next, at 3 p.m.,

THE ELLERSLIE ESTATE,

containing about 26,928 acres freehold and C.P. land, 700 acres Crown land; total, 27,628 acres, situate in the South-eastern Division of New South Wales, in the parishes of Wallace and Ellerslie, County Wynyard, and distant about 9 miles from Adelong, 14 from Mount Horeb railway stations, and 22 miles from Tumut.

The country consists of open undulating forest land, chiefly stringybark, box, apple, and other trees, the whole of which has been ringbarked for many years, reserving picked trees and ample timber for fencing and other purposes. It is now improved into clear, open country, much of which presents a plain-like appearance, and there are also well-grassed flats on the frontages, and the hills are good grazing land.

The soil is principally reddish loam, with dark loam in the gullies, interspersed with some alluvial flats, suitable for root crops, cereals, etc.

It is all good grazing and wool-growing country, and much of it is fattening and agricultural land.

It is amply and permanently watered in all parts and in all seasons by Yaven, Naska, Baston's, Mount Pleasant, Turner's, Ferguson's, and numerous other running creeks and streams throughout, and the average annual rainfall is about 30in. Water races could be cut to convey water by gravitation from the watercourses of the hilly country to irrigate portion of the low-lying country at a small expense.

The fencing is all good, and the boundaries are netted with 32 miles of 3 wires, 1 barb wire, and netting, 38 miles of dividing fences of the same description, 27 miles of dividing fences 6 and 7 wires, and 8 miles fire-break fences.

The improvements are comfortable, commodious W.B. Family Residence, with semi-detached brick building, and all necessary storerooms, outhouses, and offices, stables, loose boxes, sheds, men's quarters, etc., woolshed of iron, 16 stands, Wolseley machines, manager's cottage, shearers' quarters, and two other cottages, 5 sets of sheep drafting and 3 sets of marking yards, etc., conveniently placed throughout the run. Together with STOCK.

About 16,500 grown sheep, Merino-Romney Marsh cross, carrying good fleeces.

7000 Lambs.

180 Cattle, milking herd, and progeny, and team of working bullocks.

60 Station Working Horses.

Also,

Complete Plant for working the property.

Household Furniture and Stores.

This property has been successfully worked for a number of years, and has now to be realised upon to wind up the estates. Being situated in a district not subject to drought, it is particularly adapted to work in connection with a large Riverina freehold, and as a subdivision proposition it would readily cut up into dairy farms, grazing areas, orchards, and farms.

Further particulars can be had, on application, from the agents,

EDWARD TRENCHARD and CO., 468 Collins-street, Melbourne; or

NEW ZEALAND LOAN AND MERCANTILE AGENCY CO., Ltd., Collins-street, Melbourne, and Bridge-street, Sydney.

PEVENSEY,

10 Miles Frontage to the Murrumbidgee,

Only 10 Miles from Hay, the Largest Town in Central Riverina.

J. M. PECK and SONS, CHARLES HIDGCOCK, and WILKINSON and LAVENDER, LIMITED (in conjunction), have received instructions from the executor, Mr. Albert E. Tyson, in order to wind up the Estate of the late Arthur C. Tyson, to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, on above date, at Scott's Hotel, Melbourne, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon,

PEVENSEY STATION,

ABOUT 70,000 ACRES,

Consisting of

5,871 acres conditional purchase.
19,400 acres conditional leases.
16,439 acres improvement leases.
About 6000 acres other Crown lands, oc. and pref. oc. licenses.

Splendidly watered by ten miles frontage to the Murrumbidgee River, and by 31 good permanent tanks, two wells, and two sub-artesian bores, 10,000 gallons supply, with windmills on bores, tanks, and troughing.

15,000 station-bred Sheep, 87 Horses, 75 Cattle.

WOOL-SHED, fitted with 12 Wolseley machines.

HOMESTEAD, eight comfortable rooms, cellars, gas laid on; barracks, six rooms.

WATER laid on to buildings and large fruit, flower, and vegetable gardens, from river; 18,000 gallon supply tank, filled by 6-h.p. steam engine.

Extensive stabling, and every necessary up-to-date convenience.

To be sold as a going concern, walk-in walk-out, at an all-round price.

Pevensey is nearly all quick fattening, the bulk originally saltbush country, but now well-grassed, and interspersed with belts of pine and box timber, just sufficient for shelter purposes, and carrying many varieties of herbage of the very best descriptions, and is noted for growing sheep of big frame.

A large extent is also suitable for wheat, and, with the proved success of dry farming on country with a smaller rainfall, it is only a matter of time when large areas of Pevensey—so close to rail—must go into wheat.

The flock is a heavy-cutting one, having been regularly and heavily culled, and nothing but Wanganella blood sires used for years, the result being sheep big in frame, plain in body, and good in constitution.

LIVING AREAS AT BANKSTOWN.

The new blocks we have just put on the market at Bankstown are commanding a ready sale, and, judging by the number of inquiries, they are just the thing a large section of the public have been waiting for. As well as being suitable for poultry, the soil is excellent for fruit growing, and every acre will afford a good livelihood.

GREENACRE PARK EXTENSION

consists of nearly 500 splendid acre blocks, extending practically from the railway line right back to the Liverpool-road. The Estate has been carefully laid out, and every block has a frontage to a well-formed road. The property is about half-way between Bankstown and Punchbowl, under fifteen minutes from either station.

BANKSTOWN.

Just a word about the prospects of Bankstown. Situated at the present terminus of the Belmore line, this suburb is only eleven miles from Sydney. Just 35 minutes' journey by train. Its population is assured, as already over 600 allotments have been sold by us at this place. As the majority of these purchasers intend to build as soon as practicable, it will be easily seen that Bankstown has a very rosy future. Furthermore, when the line is extended to Liverpool, the Melbourne express will come to Sydney by this shorter route, and Bankstown will then become a second Strathfield.

Plans of Greenacre Park Extension now ready, post free from Dept. H. Acre lots from £30/10/. Terms: From £1 deposit, and 10/ per month. Torrens Title.

Ask at the same time for a copy of "A Living Area," by Herbert J. Rumsey, showing how a good living can be got from one acre of land.

HOME SITES AT CRONULLA.

It would be hard to find a more pleasant site for a Home than in this beautiful district. It is a combination of seaside and country, with a good few of the advantages of city life thrown in. ST. MERVYN'S ESTATE is one of the choicest spots in the locality. It has a long frontage to the newly-opened tram route, and is within a mile of Cronulla's magnificent beach. The soil is of the best, and can be relied on to produce fine crops of fruit, vegetables, etc. It is also a splendid place for poultry farming, and big money can be made following out this industry, as the splendid transit facilities afforded enable the producer to get his goods to market quickly, and in the best condition. Half-acre Lots, from £28 each. Terms: £1 down, and 10s per month. Torrens Title. Plans, etc., from Dept. H.

YOU CAN AFFORD

an allotment on RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS ESTATE, AUBURN, no matter how small your income. Our Easy Terms of £1 down and 10s monthly will enable you to secure a splendid Building Site there. Will help you to double your savings in a year or so.

RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS occupies a fine location at AUBURN, is elevated, commands wide panoramic views, is a healthy spot for a home. Best of all, it is within easy reach of the new Government Abattoirs (now being rushed to completion), but far enough removed to escape the unpleasant features of the works. AUBURN STATION is close handy, and Newington Ferry wharf is within a few minutes' walk. The Lots are mostly level, with a gentle slope; the soil is good, and every Lot is ready for the builder. At present prices these Blocks offer exceptional chances of making money, and the farsighted person should send right away to our Dept. H. for Plans, Illustrated Booklets, and full particulars. Lots from £34. Title Torrens.

THE LOVELIEST SPOT IN N.S.W.

This is the unanimous verdict of all those who have visited By-the-Lake Estate, Pittwater. Travellers of world-wide experience go further, and say that for natural charm it has "no equal South of the Line." Sheltered and secluded, it faces the still, sparkling waters of M'Carr's Creek—a beautiful arm of Pittwater Lake—and commands glorious and extensive views of this fine sweep of water towards Newport and Scotland Island.

BY-THE-LAKE ESTATE, PITTWATER.

is an ideal spot for the Week-ender. The waters teem with fish of every description, and the disciples of Isaac Walton are assured of a royal time. Numerous cosy beaches of bright, yellow sand abound on the property. Boating, Swimming, etc., can be freely indulged in.

Your Week-end Cottage on M'Carr's Creek will have the advantage of easy access. The Church Point Coach takes you from Manly right to the wharf, and a few minutes' pull lands you on the Estate. All the necessaries, and most of the luxuries can be procured from the Church Point Store, owned by Mr. A. M. Simpson, who also conducts an up-to-date Accommodation House, and a well-equipped boatshed. Building Materials and Stores can be landed at Church Point direct from Sydney by boat. Blocks, 150 links frontage, available from £45 each; others from £30 per acre. Easy Terms, from £1 down and 10/ per month. Torrens Title. Send for plans and illustrated booklet at once to Dept. H.

The Lots are perfectly level, well drained, and front well-formed streets. For business sites, residential sites, or investments there is no better property offering in this growing suburb. Lots 40 x 117 feet, from 10s to foot. Terms, £1 down, and 10s monthly for each £30 purchased. Title Torrens. Send to Dept. H for plans.

REAL ESTATE.

I have had a large number of inquiries for City Investments this week, and really believe I can do as well for you as anyone else can.

The fact that this Office is being made "The Farm Centre of Sydney" does not mean that City and Suburban Properties will not be handled as well. Bright and intelligent young men have been engaged for this very purpose, so that you can place your business here with every confidence.

Other people say they like my methods, which makes me bold to think you will be pleased also.

Come in and see me during the week.

FACE TREATMENTS. THEIR COST.

There seems to be a widespread idea that Beauty Culture is a luxury which lies within the reach of those who are blessed with a superfluity of this world's goods.

Mlle. Rubinstein, the keenest and ablest Beauty Specialist in Australasia, on being consulted on this, unhesitatingly gave it as her opinion that the woman who can only afford to spend £1 or £2 a year on her complexion may do an amazing amount of good to herself.

She should first of all provide herself with a jar of Valaze, that marvellous skin food, which beautifies the skin. This preparation removes freckles and sunburn, blotches, pimples, lines, wrinkles, until the complexion is soft, smooth, and flawless, and perfectly healthy.

She should next get a jar of Novena Cerate, which is without doubt one of the finest skin cleansers (without the use of soap and water) in existence.

To these preparations should be added the Valaze Skin Tonic, which tones, braces up the skin, refreshing and nourishing, a tonic in the truest sense of the word.

Powder, of course, very few women can do without. Mlle. Rubinstein provides the Valaze Powder for greasy over-moist skin. Both of these are made in three tints.

Novena Poudre for a normal and dry skin.

In conjunction with the Valaze Complexion [illegible] should be used that unique specialty, Valaze [illegible], the two invariably produce that smooth, satiny skin that is so noticeable in all Mlle. Rubinstein's clients.

The prices of the foregoing preparations are exceedingly moderate. Thus Valaze is 5/6 [illegible] and 6d postage. Valaze Soap is 2/ posted, Valaze [illegible] is 3/ a jar. Novena Cerate is 2/ and 2/6, and [illegible] Powders are each 2/ and 2/6 a box.

All these delightful preparations are obtainable at leading chemists, or direct from Helena Rubinstein Prop., Ltd., Dept. D., 158 Pitt-street, Sydney, or [illegible] The Strand.
